Crying In The Dark

By Eileen Leary

I want a pair of grown-up strings To lace my baby heart I catch mine on the grown-up things That tear them all apart.

I want a pair of strings the size Of all the wide outdoors But never see them advertised In any of the stores.

I want a pair of grown-up strings I hope the God who makes those things Will let some angel lose them.

Growing up is not always a thrill It can be a worry to a young girl's heart. And yet a 34-year-old girl thinks that young girls have all the thrills and good times and that they never cry in the dark.

"Three cheers for 'I' college girl of today! At the age of 15 she hasn't any illusions. She knows life and the thrills while we women of 34 are just beginning to realize the meaning of living, and in doing this religion takes such a remote place in one's mind that you wonder how come that you never stepped out before. Then you realize that religion does that to one. Now at the age of 34 I am trying to make up for lost time."

I walk around my desk. I count ten. I look out the window at the tropics. I say a "Hail Mary." Words may heal or lull a heart, words may win or lose a soul to God.

Dear 34-Year-Old Thrills and the meaning of life! A high-powered car and the tropic rhythm of the best orchestra in the world are no thrill to the daughter's interpretation! It is a wonderful age to be young and carefree. "Ideals alone keep one young and carefree." That should be given as a motto. Too often when the dates music ends the little girl comes home to cry herself to sleep. Thrills beget problems. Would you want an 18-year-old sister of yours to be without "ideals" is young to be old if you know what I mean.

Oh the song and dance are not the only meanings of life. Ask Marjorie, one of my oldest friends, who has been in the hospital for a month on her back in a hospital. Marjorie had the most beautiful limbs a girl could possess. Now she has a leg infection. The doctors recommend amputation. Stop to call at some poor homes for other meanings of life. What will you learn? The 18-year-old has been sent to jail for her immaturity. She wasted time. The little foreign woman whom you meet on the stairs cries piteously. "My sick man no work, new baby come, and that frayed little creature who watches down the street waiting for a drunken husband to come home. He will probably bruise and beat her body. There are so many problems in this world, greater than any one of us realize unless we are sharing that problem. Our consolation lies in the fact that Mary beloved of all women had a sword of sorrows pierce her heart. If God so chose, to let her suffer while on earth, daughters of Mary may only hope that their sufferings will someday be their crown.

Now tell me you have the companionship of this poor man. I understand full well the hunger for companionship of the opposite sex. My only concern is that you have selected a happy, admirable character though he may be a Catholic ending. Tonight you may think that you don't want that ending. Ask yourself as Shakespeare asks: "Who buys a minute's mirth to wall a week? Or sells Eternity to get a toy? For one sweet grape who will the vine destroy?"

To give up this man requires courage and more courage. To fail to give him up means that all your life you dwell in a moral prison cell crying out against your bars while armies of Catholic soldiers, all in the Kingdom of God on earth.

Foundress of Charity Group, 90, Is Honored

St. Louis (St. W.) - Miss Mary Hoxsey, foundress of the Queen's Daughters, Catholic charitable organization here, was honored by the Queen's Daughters Honor Board on the occasion of her ninetieth birthday.

The tribute was paid following Mass celebrated by the Rev. James I. Douglas, spiritual director of the Queen's Daughters.

earth-march on shoulder to shoulder.

"Have you ever heard the Latin proverb which translated means: To err is human, but to change one's opinion is proper of the wise." If in seeking the meaning of life you lose virtue, isn't not wisdom to forget the meaning of life and give new Catholic meaning to life?

Sit down by my desk while I make suggestions to you. You are young. An interest in a husband is a worthy one. The mistake girls make is to let that interest spoil their whole mental, physical, and spiritual life. A watchdog get never bolls. If one looks out the window for the sight of a husband coming to warm her heart often she gets only a cold in the head or a stiff neck. Bury your thoughts of a husband within your heart, forget yourself, get into living with enthusiasm in your heart and a prayer in your soul. Meet each day the one wearing a crown, a Catholic. Join Catholic organizations (more girls, no men," you say. Ah girls have brothers, cousins, uncles, and in all seriousness in giving of your heart to promote good causes you will find happiness as well as new companions. Too, you make of your character a gracious and lovely thing.

I particularly recommend that you become a Big Sister to some lonely little girl. Thousands of them long for smiles and a friendly word. Now mind you, I am not running a matrimonial bureau or promising you a husband but romance is found in strange places. The doctor for this poor girl's family may be Catholic and an eligible husband. Again the chap across the street in that garage, I mean the one wearing overalls, may be an ideal companion. Warning: The prince is not always on horse back.

Yes, dear 34-year-old, even girls who have princes write me about problems. Jean's letter has a question: "I have not questioned, be mother to more than four, will take all I have to do right by these four. What will I do about it?"

Ma or Mrs. 'It is the topic of the hour. What is your answer? I give you mine next week. Too, I ask a king's daughter. "All the beauty of the king's daughter comes from within."

St. Pachomius, converted to Christianity, established a religious order at Tabenna and trained vast multitudes in detachment from creatures and selves. He died in 348.
