Torchlight Procession At Lourdes Impresses Noted Jewish Writer
London (N. C. W. C.)—Louis Golding, celebrated Jewish author, who has been visiting in Rochester, came back greatly impressed by the torchlight procession at Lourdes. In the Catholic news paper here, he admits that his first impression was disappointing. In that strong afternoon light, he says, "Lourdes seemed not a place for spiritual pilgrimage, much as a mart for symbols of religion." The whole place was lit with the statuary, medals, garish postcards, more statues, more roses.

DEDICATION SERMON

Delivered by the Rev. John B. Sullivan, pastor of St. John the Evangelist Church, Rochester, on the occasion of the dedication of St. Ignatius Loyola Church, Tuesday, September 17.

"HE THAT IS OF GOD, HEAR ETH THE WORDS OF GOD" MATTHEW 14:7.

I feel certain that I may speak for all the priests who have come to this dedication when I congratulate you and your pastor upon the completion of this beautiful temple of the Most High God. It will stand forever, we hope, as a monument to the self-sacrifice of this congregation as well as to the zeal and spiritual ability of your beloved pastor. Pastor and people, shepherd and flock, have every reason to rejoice today, and may your joy and happiness beget a loyalty that will sustain the work of your parish for all the years to come.

As we behold today this structure in all the newness and freshness of its beauty, we look back over the history of Christian civilization and marvel at the magnificent structure that has been built in the Old World and in the New. The very genius of man exulting himself in the masterpiece of architecture that we call "CHURCH." These rare structures of stone and marble were made possible by the zeal of people fond of upon enlightened faith, people who were of God and who heard the words of God. Today we are privileged to witness the quality and enduring nature of such a completed structure to the ages that have passed.

You remember that scene in the Gospel which presents our Divine Lord addressing a great gathering of His people in the Temple. He refutes the vile charge made by His enemies that He is not the Son of God. He boldly challenges them, just as He has done here today. His faith and His love for His people have already been abroad. He had healed the ruler's son, multiplied the loaves and fishes, and walked upon the water. Hence, many had come to believe that He was the promised Messiah. Many listened to Him with reverent attention and pledged His leadership and pledged Him their loyalty. Some others threw stones at Him.

There is not one of us but wishes that he too might have been present in the Temple on that day to drink in the words of the gentle and humble and yet fearless and majestic Christ. We confidently assure ourselves that we could not have listened to and believed the calumnies of His enemies as some of the crowd there seems to have done. And taken up stones to cast at Him. Perhaps we would have been hostile to His enemies and loyal to His Cause. But we still have our chance, for Christ still lives and moves among you from whatever land or people you have wandered here, were a pilgrim at the shrine of Mystery, for there all men are one man. You bowed your head.

CREATE IS CONVERT
London (N. C.) Charles Burnell Selby, until recently senior curate of the Anglican parish of St. Silas the martyr, Kentish Town, here, has been received into the Church by the Rev. Dr. J. P. Arundson, of the Catholic Missionary Society, despite the active persecution of the poison of false teaching, of false views, of false ideals that have sprung from the pagan literature and fables of our day. Thus the minds of our people are being poisoned and so partly paralyzed the faith that is in us. We may not, as did the Jews on that day, cry out against Christ and take up stones to cast at Him. But "faith" do we, as they did before they were confirmed in the faith, as we now are, cry out in the language of daily conduct as well as with the songs of our lips. "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord!" Under the chilling fog of false teaching the fires of our faith have burned low, and so give out little light and less warmth.

May this new church with the sound doctrine of Jesus Christ as against the paganism of the present day be ever an inspiration to all who come within its sacred walls. May the faith given here and preached here walk up in your hearts a genuine excitement for the name and cause of Christ our King. "He that is of God heareth the words of God." And to be fully of our God, we must accept fully the words of God. No reservations, no limitations, no selectivity, no partiality. But go the whole way with Christ, who came that you might have life and have it more abundantly.

When the United States was asked to become a member of the League of Nations, she replied: "I do not say whether rightly or wrongly, but only with certain reservations. Her Statesmen admitted that the ideals of the League were good and beautiful in the abstract, but in the concrete matter of their subscribing to them, they felt it necessary to impose certain limitations. Now is it too strange an incident of the Catholicism of modern times to say of it that, though identical in doctrine with the faith of the early Christians, it differs from it in practice and consequently in its attitude toward man, because it is a Catholicism with reservation, with limitations, with that habitual State of Mind that says: "Thus far will I go with Christ, but no further."

Which one of us dare say that he does the whole way with Christ? The whole way in obedience to the commands of the Heavenly Father, the whole way in seeking always His honor and glory, the whole way in His compassion for the poor and the needy, in His meekness and humility, in His detachment from the passing things of this world, in His all-consuming charity and justice, in His hatred of sin, in His poverty of spirit, in His purity of heart. And if we dare not, is it not because we rather adjust Christ to ourselves to our place reservation on what He asks us to accept without reservation? Don't doubt it, reservations are being made. And they are made very largely because, as at the time of Christ's sermon in the Temple,

And it is the opinion of many second men that if she had been better known and understood in this country, there would not have been a defeated Catholic candidate for the Presidency in 1928. Yes, the disciples of the Church in the United States are not so numerous as they were in the past. How far has the Church in the United States gone?

Now why the difference between apostle times and our own? For we need the spirit of those days. The decline of the Church is the same now as it was then. Christ's command to preach is as urgent and as absolute now as it was then. Men's need of His saving Gospel is just as great. The means for spreading the knowledge of that Gospel are now incomparably more efficient than at any other time. At whose door shall the blame be placed? I should hate to presume to answer that question with finality. But what we can all say is that we know and you know without fear of contradiction or risk of rash judgment, is that there is not now, as there was in apostle times, the same fervent zeal and enthusiasm for Christ and His Church. There is not visible now, as there was visible then, the same joyful, fearless, unreserved rememorse to the Master's invitation: "If thou wilt be my disciple, take up thy cross daily and follow me."
