CATHOLIC EDITORS HERE FOR TWO CONFERENCES

SECTION MEETS PROBE RURAL LIFE PROBLEMS

(Continued from Page One) sive in the country than in the cities, and the rural areas have been least able to afford it.

Frills Developing... Saying that the city has set the pace in education for rural schools to follow, he declared: "Cultural development in rural areas has shown remarkable development in the last 15 years. Rural bands and orchestras are to be found in almost every county. Dramatic clubs and choral societies are springing up everywhere. Handcraft clubs are on the increase. Athletics has probably occupied too much of the time and energy of rural youth and its organization has developed too much of the competitive spirit."

Two Editors, Women's Council Head Talk Rural Problems

Frederick P. Kenkel, editor of Central Blatt and Social Justice of St. Louis, shown discussing Rural Life and Catechetical convention topics with Miss Dorothy Day, national president, National Council of Catholic Women, and Miss Dorothy Day of New York City, co-editor of the Catholic Worker.

Highlighting the second day's sectional meetings was the Rev. Joseph M. Campbell, president of the conference. Throwing a bomb, he was, a verbal bomb, Father Campbell attacked certain governmental institutions, among which is our present day banking system. He advocated setting up a "people's banking system" which is to be "based in structure and protection as far as human genius can the credit and deposits of the people."

Dr. O. E. Bickel of the Department of Agriculture, a non-Catholic, in a marvelous presentation of statistics, cited the 20 per cent decrease in births during the last ten years as one of the most significant and alarming facts in our population trends. "The next few decades," Dr. Bickel chimed, "are, in my opinion, years of grace for the American people. The people of the nation must see clearly the causes and consequences of the declining birthrate and resolutely set about to prevent them."

Visible Demonstration Is Given Catechists Aid Mexicans Fleeing From Persecution

By ALICE ROGERS... Graphic explanation of the method by which Federal, State and County organizations co-operate with local communities to foster the intellectual and physical development of rural youth was presented in the Story of 4-H Club program Monday evening, Oct. 28, by the National Catholic Rural Life Conference Convention. Addressed by representatives of the various units concerned in the carrying out of 4-H work were supplemented by demonstrations of activities by boy and girl members of the club units from several sections of Western New York. Orchestral ability, the dancing of the quadrille, and halting making were among the many abilities demonstrated to the audience by 4-H Groups from Livingston, Wyoming; Genesee, Wayne and Monroe Counties.

Two Catechist nuns from the Society of Missionary Catechists in Indiana were among the visiting sistershood in attendance at the double Catholic convention here this week. Catechist Campbell and Catechist Quinn who are laboring among the Italians, Portuguese, Indians and Negroes of the southwest, told how they have been "Mothers of Mercy" to the persecuted Catholics from Mexico according to the nuns, these people come across the border for sympathy, religion and help, though they are in extreme danger when they cross the national boundary. This order, which is only fifteen years old, now numbers some 200 members. They are seeking vocations among those who would be willing to devote their lives to the most work among these people. Co-operating with the Catholic Youth Organization of Chicago, the Catechists conduct clinics, dispensaries, and clubs for boys and girls. They train laymen to go about among the Mexicans and, Indian giving religious instructions and caring for the sick and needy.

HOW SHOULD I VOTE?

Democratic City Administration Reduced city indebtedness approximately $10 million dollars. Reduced interest charges on bonds. (er bonds now being at lowest interest rates in history.) Made Rochester one of the best credit cities in the country. Reduced the 1934 tax rate in order to give heavy welfare vote.

Democratic Board of Supervisors Created the non-partisan Tax and Government Revision Commission, which made an exhaustive study of all County Departments and made many suggestions for better, more efficient county government. Created County Auditor. County can now discount its bills, which in turn stimulates purchases and revitalizes many thousands of dollars saved to taxpayers. Established Superintendent of County Maintenance and Construction to supervise departments of County, Public, County Carpenters and County Electrician, thus saving salaries and securing efficient maintenance under one roof. Made first salary survey in history of County and saved $90,000 in the tax rate. Secured reduction of $300,000 annually in electric rates. Under Democratic rule the credit of Monroe County was established after Republican rule control. County bond now selling at lowest interest rate in history. County Manager Plan sponsored which will coordinate County Departments under one head, Monroe County, the first in this State to take steps to modernize County government.

Democratic Legislature Enacted unemployment insurance, a measure designed to prevent future depressions, making New York State the pioneer in this class of legislation. Enacted a bill declaring that labor is not a commodity, a bill sought by labor interests for twenty years. Reduced the hours of women and minors in factories. All occupational diseases brought within scope of Workmen's Compensation Laws. Fund established to secure compensation awards in case of insolvency of insurance companies. Persons injured in industry given the right to select their own physicians. Provided for jury trials in case of alleged violations of injunction orders involving labor disputes. Placed gas and electric companies under more direct State control in interest of lower rates to consumers.
