HISTORY

[illegible] Henry Ford's statement [illegible] When made, it [illegible] especially those [illegible] mood toward Mr. [illegible] the other hand, were not [illegible] their history books [illegible]. They regarded [illegible] as symptomatic [illegible] headlines, resulting from [illegible] over-enthusiastic [illegible] who accept the word of [illegible] specialist as the last [illegible].

[illegible] a limited explanation [illegible]. Last month he was [illegible] a representative of the press. [illegible] days were discussed, and [illegible] alleged caprices of history. [illegible] that the news was that [illegible] those books is [illegible].

[illegible] a book," said Mr. Ford, "and [illegible] that one man's misinformation or [illegible] Most history as written is [illegible].

As explained, Mr. Ford's statement might [illegible] considered as having been so wide of [illegible]. There has been so much of mis[illegible], prejudice in the writing of history [illegible] even centuries after an event, [illegible] about it are still published as history, [illegible] this perpetuation of the fictional [illegible] the general disinclination of [illegible] to find anything in their history [illegible] at odds with what they want to find [illegible]. All these are human faults. Young [illegible] consideration and treatment of [illegible] implying dissociation from self-[illegible] found difficult by writers and [illegible] everywhere.

[illegible] the case, the headlines of the [illegible] Times Magazine for September [illegible] story of the Bible Folk Hun[illegible] Book Was Issued in England [illegible] Has Been A Charter of [illegible] it was received with toleration [illegible] condemnation. It was the same [illegible] again. The old story of walk[illegible] in the noonday sun. That a [illegible] like the New York Times with [illegible] the better class of readers, had [illegible] the factual to the fictional [illegible] it and so signed itself [illegible] headlines, might have caused [illegible] should have caused sur[illegible] happened too often before.

[illegible] course, was about the [illegible] anniversary. It was Miles Cover[illegible] of The Christian Century [illegible] what no other person [illegible] done. He translated and [illegible] in the English language."

[illegible] land had been without [illegible] language. It was [illegible] that it had been [illegible] in 1535 the fight "to [illegible] and to discuss a book, [illegible] to distribute a book, [illegible] if we may believe P. [illegible] New York Times [illegible].

[illegible] Bible (but Coverdale's [illegible] Bible) say things that [illegible] that it was in [illegible] propaganda [illegible] truth of [illegible] was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
