

BISHOPS NAME ARCHBISHOP MOONEY, N. C. W. C. CHAIRMAN

GENEVA CHURCH CELEBRATES A CENTURY OF SERVICE SELECT ROCHESTER BISHOP TO HEAD NATIONAL BOARD

SOLEMN HIGH MASS OPENS ST. FRANCIS DE SALES RITES; ARCHBISHOPS TO ATTEND

Monsignor Lee Will Officiate at Opening Ceremonies of Centennial; Special Groups to Attend Anniversary Masses Throughout Week

Geneva—One hundred years of Catholic parish life will be reviewed and the deeds of priests and people throughout a century extolled in a five-day commemoration of the Centennial of St. Francis de Sales Church here, beginning Sunday, Nov. 24.

From its beginning in the pioneer missionary days before the Diocese of Rochester had been formed down to today, the parish has developed a noble tradition of Catholicity. Pastors and people working together have brought about the existence of a beautiful church, now entirely remodeled and consecrated, miraculously in the school with 500 pupils, a substantial school and convent. It is a great glory to have been made the site of Catholic secondary education and in the parish school to have a high school for Catholic boys and girls, a summer camp, a youth center, a St. Francis de Sales parish.

Pastor

The occasion will also commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of St. Francis de Sales, Nov. 24, 1564. The Rev. Magr. Walter J. Lee, pastor of St. Francis de Sales, will officiate at the opening ceremonies.

For months a Centennial committee headed by Monsignor Lee has been working diligently preparing to mark the 100th birthday of the saint. Monsignor Lee heads the committee as Honorary Chairman. Assisting are Vice Chairman the Rev. Bernard J. Hanna and the Rev. John J. Heffernan, assistant pastor.

Generous wholehearted responses have been given by the committee and members of the parish in the operation of a splendid feature has been lent by prominent business men in the city.

Sunday's Centennial program will include Holy Masses at 8, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11. A Solemn High Mass at the opening of the Centennial will be celebrated at 10:30 a. m. by the Most Rev. Thomas P. Healy, Archbishop of Philadelphia, who served as assistant pastor of St. Francis de Sales.

A pastoral program on the "Restoration and Re-Definition of St. Francis de Sales Church, Geneva, N. Y.," a historical recording of the 100 years of the parish's life, a detailed description of the transformation effected in the church edifice and other interesting articles, and photographs in connection with the Centennial will be published in the next issue of the "Centennial Bulletin."

PRIEST'S PLAN FOR INDUSTRY NOTED WIDELY

Economic Council to Achieve Co-operation Is Urged

Washington (NC)—During the week, a group of Mid-Western industrialists, meeting at Kansas City, heard the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., Vice-President of Georgetown University, propose a two-point plan for restoring national prosperity on a sound and lasting basis.

Walsh suggested two concrete measures. First, he would create an official Economic Council composed of representatives of labor, capital, agriculture, industry, consumers, the arts and sciences, education and religion. Such an organism would legislate for and administer their respective groups as the firm cooperative do.

Secondly, he would create an official Economic Council composed of representatives of labor, capital, agriculture, industry, consumers, the arts and sciences, education and religion. Such an organism would legislate for and administer their respective groups as the firm cooperative do.

Walsh believes that national cooperative action, carrying on through the medium of an Economic Council, would have many advantages over the present method of doing things and would tend to remove selfish group action.

Walsh believes that national cooperative action, carrying on through the medium of an Economic Council, would have many advantages over the present method of doing things and would tend to remove selfish group action.

Walsh believes that national cooperative action, carrying on through the medium of an Economic Council, would have many advantages over the present method of doing things and would tend to remove selfish group action.

Walsh believes that national cooperative action, carrying on through the medium of an Economic Council, would have many advantages over the present method of doing things and would tend to remove selfish group action.

President in Reply To Protest Of K. C.; Rejoinder by Carmody

New Haven, Conn. (NC)—A reply from President Franklin D. Roosevelt to a letter from the Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus, which deplored the failure of the Administration to investigate the conditions of the persecution of religion in Mexico, particularly as they affect American citizens there, was made public Monday by Martin H. Carmody, Supreme Knight.

The President declared it to be the policy of his Administration to refrain from interfering in such domestic concerns of the Mexican Government as the American belief in religious freedom and quoted from his San Diego address to that effect. He then stated that there had not been brought to his attention during the past year a single complaint by any United States citizen that such opportunities to practice religion freely in Mexico have been refused to him.

He stated that the President's reply, Mr. Carmody issued a statement in which he noted that the President, quoting from a message of former President Roosevelt relating to the massacre of Jews in Russia and the oppression of Armenians, makes reference only to that portion of the message which declared it wiser for us to concern ourselves with our moral and material betterment at home than to "concern ourselves with trying to better the condition of things in other nations."

He stated that the President's reply, Mr. Carmody issued a statement in which he noted that the President, quoting from a message of former President Roosevelt relating to the massacre of Jews in Russia and the oppression of Armenians, makes reference only to that portion of the message which declared it wiser for us to concern ourselves with our moral and material betterment at home than to "concern ourselves with trying to better the condition of things in other nations."

He stated that the President's reply, Mr. Carmody issued a statement in which he noted that the President, quoting from a message of former President Roosevelt relating to the massacre of Jews in Russia and the oppression of Armenians, makes reference only to that portion of the message which declared it wiser for us to concern ourselves with our moral and material betterment at home than to "concern ourselves with trying to better the condition of things in other nations."

He stated that the President's reply, Mr. Carmody issued a statement in which he noted that the President, quoting from a message of former President Roosevelt relating to the massacre of Jews in Russia and the oppression of Armenians, makes reference only to that portion of the message which declared it wiser for us to concern ourselves with our moral and material betterment at home than to "concern ourselves with trying to better the condition of things in other nations."

He stated that the President's reply, Mr. Carmody issued a statement in which he noted that the President, quoting from a message of former President Roosevelt relating to the massacre of Jews in Russia and the oppression of Armenians, makes reference only to that portion of the message which declared it wiser for us to concern ourselves with our moral and material betterment at home than to "concern ourselves with trying to better the condition of things in other nations."

He stated that the President's reply, Mr. Carmody issued a statement in which he noted that the President, quoting from a message of former President Roosevelt relating to the massacre of Jews in Russia and the oppression of Armenians, makes reference only to that portion of the message which declared it wiser for us to concern ourselves with our moral and material betterment at home than to "concern ourselves with trying to better the condition of things in other nations."

SEES 'RACKET' OF EDUCATION YOUTH MENACE

Archbishop at N. C. C. W. Meet Says Home, Country, Religion Endangered

Fort Wayne, Ind. (NC)—The hope that the American public will become aware of the dangers of education—dangers which he said are "very serious and imminent for the home, for our youth, for our country and for our religion," was expressed by the Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, C. S. C., Archbishop of Cincinnati, at a luncheon delivered here Sunday.

The Archbishop spoke at a Pontifical High Mass in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, opening the fifteenth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women. The Most Rev. Urban J. Vehr, Bishop of Denver, was the celebrant.

The Archbishop spoke at a Pontifical High Mass in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, opening the fifteenth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women. The Most Rev. Urban J. Vehr, Bishop of Denver, was the celebrant.

The Archbishop spoke at a Pontifical High Mass in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, opening the fifteenth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women. The Most Rev. Urban J. Vehr, Bishop of Denver, was the celebrant.

The Archbishop spoke at a Pontifical High Mass in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, opening the fifteenth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women. The Most Rev. Urban J. Vehr, Bishop of Denver, was the celebrant.

The Archbishop spoke at a Pontifical High Mass in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, opening the fifteenth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women. The Most Rev. Urban J. Vehr, Bishop of Denver, was the celebrant.

The Archbishop spoke at a Pontifical High Mass in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, opening the fifteenth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women. The Most Rev. Urban J. Vehr, Bishop of Denver, was the celebrant.

TWO BISHOPS APPOINTED TO VACANT SEES

Washington (NC)—Two vacant sees are filled by appointments made known in word received here Nov. 20 from Vatican City.

The Most Rev. Joseph C. Plagens, Auxiliary Bishop of Detroit since September 30, 1924, has been named Bishop of Marquette, Mich., succeeding Bishop Paul Joseph Nussbaum, C. P., who died late last June.

The Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, Auxiliary Bishop of Philadelphia since May 21, 1923, has been named Bishop of Savannah, Ga., succeeding Bishop Michael J. Keyes, who resigned last October because of ill health.

The Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, Auxiliary Bishop of Philadelphia since May 21, 1923, has been named Bishop of Savannah, Ga., succeeding Bishop Michael J. Keyes, who resigned last October because of ill health.

The Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, Auxiliary Bishop of Philadelphia since May 21, 1923, has been named Bishop of Savannah, Ga., succeeding Bishop Michael J. Keyes, who resigned last October because of ill health.

The Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, Auxiliary Bishop of Philadelphia since May 21, 1923, has been named Bishop of Savannah, Ga., succeeding Bishop Michael J. Keyes, who resigned last October because of ill health.

EASY LEARNING URGES FIGHT ON ALL BIRTH CONTROL BILLS

New York (NC)—The tendency in many public schools toward easy learning was scored by the Rev. Richard Quinn, superintendent of schools in the Archdiocese of Boston in an address at the annual meeting of the Superintendents' Section of the National Catholic Education Association, held here Sunday.

Quinn, who is also superintendent of schools in the Archdiocese of Boston, said that the tendency toward easy learning was a result of the "labor-shares" plan, which he said was "a very serious menace to the future of our country."

Quinn, who is also superintendent of schools in the Archdiocese of Boston, said that the tendency toward easy learning was a result of the "labor-shares" plan, which he said was "a very serious menace to the future of our country."

Quinn, who is also superintendent of schools in the Archdiocese of Boston, said that the tendency toward easy learning was a result of the "labor-shares" plan, which he said was "a very serious menace to the future of our country."

Quinn, who is also superintendent of schools in the Archdiocese of Boston, said that the tendency toward easy learning was a result of the "labor-shares" plan, which he said was "a very serious menace to the future of our country."

EXPANSION OF NCCW WORK REPORT SHOWS

Washington (NC)—Expansion of activities during the past year is reported in the reports of the various departments of the National Council of Catholic Women, submitted at the General Meeting of the Bishops here last week.

All phases of Catholic life in the United States are dealt with in these reports, the reports showed, and it was emphasized that the work of many of the departments was definitely affected by the efforts being made by the Government to bring about national economic recovery.

All phases of Catholic life in the United States are dealt with in these reports, the reports showed, and it was emphasized that the work of many of the departments was definitely affected by the efforts being made by the Government to bring about national economic recovery.

All phases of Catholic life in the United States are dealt with in these reports, the reports showed, and it was emphasized that the work of many of the departments was definitely affected by the efforts being made by the Government to bring about national economic recovery.

All phases of Catholic life in the United States are dealt with in these reports, the reports showed, and it was emphasized that the work of many of the departments was definitely affected by the efforts being made by the Government to bring about national economic recovery.

All phases of Catholic life in the United States are dealt with in these reports, the reports showed, and it was emphasized that the work of many of the departments was definitely affected by the efforts being made by the Government to bring about national economic recovery.

All phases of Catholic life in the United States are dealt with in these reports, the reports showed, and it was emphasized that the work of many of the departments was definitely affected by the efforts being made by the Government to bring about national economic recovery.

Continued on Page 3

Continued on Page 3

Continued on Page 3

Continued on Page 3