Along the Sports Horizon

By BILL LANG

This is the season of Thanksgiving and I'm mighty thankful that my mind doesn't run in the same channel with those who are trying to look the mythical football champion "Feather" in Princeton's headgear.

As we begin to look at the Tiger's purposes and an anticipated Ross Bowl bid, settled back under the protecting shadows of Palmer Stadium and midweek collisions and in the writing boys prove their title rights via an elaborate routine of platoon propaganda.

Now far be it from me to belittle the efforts of the noble sons of Old Nassau with their admirable record of eight straight wins and 218 points to 20 for the opposition. But when a certain group tries to boost a team like that to the championship pinnacle, then it's high time to let out a prolonged cry of indignation.

Take Princeton's slight opponents thus far. In the season's opener, they the Tigers nosed out a victory Pennsylvania eleven, 7-6. Then came Virginia, a second mile team, and Princeton won by 17-7. In the third game of the year the Tigers routed Rutgers, 29-6. Rutgers had previously bested W. C. C. Tech, 14-7 and was later to lose to N. Y. U. 40-0 so little consolation can be taken from that victory.

In the fourth game the Tigers swapped the weakest Cornell team of modern times, 6-0 and followed with a 24-0 decision over Navy, a really first class opponent. Then came fair Harvard and the Crimson by the dust, 35-0, not an unusual feat.

State Latin Contest is Won by Seminarian

St. Meinrad—(NC)—Robert Doerr, a member of the sophomore class in the college department of St. Meinrad, a minor seminary has been adjudged the winner of the Indiana latin contest in the national competition being held in celebration of the millennium of Horace.

Mr. Doerr's paper will be sent to the national committee to compete against other state winners for the national honors.

with the thirteenth game (Northwestern-Texas) ending in a tie. I slipped on the Purdue-Indiana and the California-Stanford tilt. Of the rest, Villanova was picked as a long shot to beat Temple and so it happened.

If you're still interested, we called 37 games throughout the season. There were 61 winners, 28 wrong and 5 ties for a grand percentage of 35.14 per cent, better than two of every three.

I only hope you had as much fun checking up on errors as I had in calling the winners. I also hope that if wagers were made on some of the selections, they went on the right team.

If you lost, better luck next year.

Boys Their Interests

Dr. Valentine has caused a considerable stir among those interested in sports in college. There is no doubt that all the big colleges with football teams go for scholarship. Without their scholarship men, most colleges would present a sorry team. This includes Notre Dame and most Catholic colleges. The question is whether or not these athletic "scholars" keep up with their classes. If the boy is capable of a college education and can earn his way by "taking it" on the gridiron, who is to say him nay? There are different kinds of work and of the least pleasant is to be a "scholarship" man and to be expected to come through with the goods.

What is however, demoralizing is when a team such as the U. of Michigan, goes to another school to win a game against colleges who give scholarships. This constant losing is no aid to character-building and Dr. Valentine indicates interest in character formation. Either play in-class football, or give scholarships and get into the "big time."

To an old stimulus (Vintage of 1929) that is a game with a little something in it. It is one of the brightest spots on the newly announced thirteen game schedule of the Auburn Deanery basketball team.

In a basketball renaissance, interest and support of the alumni necessary elements. The contest should stir up both. What's more, the game will give the present student body a glimpse of those stars of former years who brought national basketball fame to the Auburn and the White. They may be a bit aged perhaps but most of them will still do as fast as school basketball is concerned.

The remainder of the schedule provides opposition from most of the 35 schools in Western New York with the exception, of course, of Rochester public high schools.

This year's basketball venture by Aquinas is the first in three years. True enough, restricted schedules were played last year and the year before but no definite schedule was arranged prior to the opening of the season.

The schedule calls for the opening game against DeSales High of Geneva at Aquinas December 20 with the closing contest pending against Auburn Catholic High at Auburn March 13.

The thirteen game schedule is still quite short of the schedules of twenty games and upwards played by some of the most successful of the old boys.

Mart Leahy will handle the coaching job against the team postponed. It is drawn from the remnants of last year's squad and outstanding players in the school's intramural league.

The complete schedule follows:
Dec. 20—East High, home; 27—Lafayette, home; 31—Albion 10, Auburn Catholic, home; 17 St. Joe's of Buffalo, Buffalo, 31 Auburn, home; Feb. 4—St. Joseph, home; 11—Brookport, home; 22—East Rochester, home; 28 St. Joe's of Buffalo, home.
Mar. 6—Brookport, home; 13—Auburn Catholic, home; 19—Auburn, home.

Turning the focus on the south, we fail to find an outstanding team. The southwest, however, has two great teams, Texas Christian and Southern Methodist Mustangs. The Mustangs have swept through to nine victories and Texas Christian has won ten in a row. Saturday these two teams meet in the annual "Iron Horse" attraction in Dallas, Texas.

It seems to me that the Mustangs should win this tilt and thereby draw the much-sought Rose Bowl Invitation.

One hint of that program is the statement by Alfred Martin, graduate manager at Stanford who announces that the eastern opponent won't be named until after next Saturday.

The football forecasting department of this pillar wound up a busy and successful season Saturday by naming ten of twelve winners.

The Newman Club of Syracuse University is glad to report from its members on the football season. Every Sunday six of the squad are in the front row for Mass and Albanese serves the priest.

The automobile manufacturers have just finished the greatest year since '29 and although the factories are going full blast only a little more than half of the workers employed in '29 are used now. Why? Machinery. And the new machinery does an extra mile and a half.

Congratulations to Milton Schaefer who received the Silver Beaver for his twenty-five years of work in scouting. This award is rarely given to scoutmasters but an exception was made in this case. Also a word of praise to the parish smart enough to use this man's services to help mould the character of its Catholic boys. One of the reasons for Catholic action is that the clergy cannot do it all.

CARRIERS
A newspaper route is not entirely a money-making proposition. It also provides a valuable education. A newspaper by learning the meaning of responsibility, the value of money, salesmanship, the handling of accounts and in general gets an all-around business education from actual experience. Experience is still the best of teachers. He learns a great deal more than from any one subject he is taking in school. Here is an education that pays for itself and also nets a profit.

CARRIERS are reliable, persevering, or roll reliable and persevering. James Sergeant of St. Patrick's Parish in Seneca Falls our two persistent and efficient carriers for St. Francis Xavier Parish, Rochester. Ignatius St. George and Robert Knittel; and Edward Elmsly of St. Margaret Mary's Parish, Rochester, who travels many miles each week in rendering thorough and dependable service. These young men have shown ability to obtain new subscribers.

We hope that all our carriers enjoyed a fine Thanksgiving dinner. We also hope that they remembered to express their appreciation and thanks to God for the blessings they have received during the past year and are enjoying today.
