Father Temmerman Eulogy

[illegible] Church was met by members of the Holy Name Society who formed a double line through which the casket was carried. At the entrance the remains were met by a group of priests including the Rev. E. A. Rawlinson cross bearer, the Rev. Lawrence Gannon and the Rev. Frank Harding, acolytes, and the Rev. C. J. Sullivan, acting pastor during the latter part of Father Temmerman's illness who recited prayers for the occasion. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Griffin, dean of the Corning deanery was present.

Vigils were kept while the body lay in state by members of the Sacred Heart League, by Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus in regalia, and by members of the Holy Name Society. An overflow throng attended the Pontifical Mass.

Priest 24 Years

Father Temmerman was born in Rochester Sept. 8, 1885. After attending Holy Rosary School, he prepared for the priesthood at St. Andrew's Preparatory Seminary and was ordained June 10 1911. His first assignment was as an assistant to the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John P. Brophy pastor of St. Monica's Church, Rochester. In July 1913 Father Temmerman was appointed Catholic Chaplain at Elmira Reformatory, where he remained until February, 1922. In that year he was assigned as pastor of St. Mary's Church, Bath. In July, 1927 he was named second pastor of St. Vincent de Paul's Church, Corning.

Under his direction the Corning church and parish benefited directly from his numerous activities. The Church was redecorated, a large pipe organ was installed and new kitchen equipment purchased for use in church social affairs. Considerable property was purchased during his pastorate and improvements made in the rectory.

Highly esteemed throughout the diocese for his priestly zeal, genial personality and concern for souls, Father Temmerman will long be remembered by the many with whom he came in contact.

His parents were the late Augustine and Gertrude Temmerman. Besides his sister, Mrs. Troy, he is survived by a brother, Herbert of Miami, Fla.

But the souls of the just are the hands of God and the torments of death shall never touch them. Taken from Book of Wisdom, 3rd chapter, first verse. Father Temmerman has closed his eyes in death. Death has visited this parish many times but never before in this way. The royal ranks of God have been invaded. Your pastor lies in death clothed in the priestly robe and on this occasion the question arises in the human heart why he has to pass out so soon.

Why couldn't God have him finish his work, why couldn't God take some other one? It is only natural that we should miss him. The human ties and affections have surged up and that is why we are here to hear these words. Some 50 years ago Father Temmerman was born of humble and God fearing parents. At an early age he gave signs of piety. As a boy he loved to be around the tabernacle and the house of God. At an early age he showed desire of being priest.

He entered St. Andrew's Seminary at Rochester and after that he went to St. Bernard's Seminary. While there he was a very active student in the things that pertained to the life of the Seminary and in his dealings with fellow students. In the Seminary he went through the ordinary procedure taking to-sure minor orders subdeacon and deacon.

Twenty-five years ago this coming Spring he was ordained and given his priestly duties of administering the sacraments. His first appointment was to St. Monica's parish in Rochester. After two years of successful work as the parish priest he was appointed chaplain of the State Reformatory at Elmira. Spending some years there he entered parish life again this time as pastor of St. Mary's Church at Bath. Then he came to Corning as pastor of St. Vincent parish.

He was strong and zealous in the work of God. You have seen the results and now God has called him. Looking back over the years of his pastorate you may have a great inspiration in his work. Hundreds of children were baptized. Hundreds made their first communion under his guidance. Countless without number he has entered the confessional and heard confessions absolving from sin under the authorization of the Savior in the words that He spoke to His Apostles on that first Easter Sunday night receive ye the power of the Holy Ghost; whose sins you shall forgive they are forgiven, whose sins you shall retain, they are retained.

"Morning after morning he ascended the Holy mountain of sacrifice to say mass as Christ did on the night of the last Supper. As he stood there he realized that he was only a link in that chain that girds the world, that keeps the sayings of Malachias true from the risings of the sun to the setting. Thereof a clean oblation will be offered in my name.

You remembered his interests in your welfare. The instructions he gave you for matrimony and the manner in which he spoke of your duty as man and wife, the unbreakable chain of matrimony and the great privilege of bringing new life into the world.

You remember the words of St. James the apostle if any man be sick among you let him call in the priest of the church and through his anointing and prayer restore health and strength to the soul. Those who administered the sacrament of Extreme Unction at the bedside fulfilled the last rites of the Church over the body.

You heard him preach Sunday after Sunday the gospel of Christ and fulfilling his mission that we may know Christ. You marveled at his simplicity because of his power and strength. You saw his love for children and his work among the poor. His most remarkable chapter in life was his work among the forgotten men in the State Reformatory at Elmira. His motto was no matter what you have done you still have a place in the heart of Christ.

Among his many battles of life the greatest battle and greatest victory was the manner of sickness and death. Through this battle his great victory came through his faith in Christ and as Christ's words of the resurrection of the body and life after death.

Questionnaire Seeks Views and Reactions Of Catholic Students

Milwaukee, Wis. (NC)—The views and reactions of thousands of Catholic students in the Catholic high schools of Wisconsin are being sought in a questionnaire survey being made by the Catholic Herald-Citizen, Catholic paper here. Replies were received from 5,578 students.

Tabulation of the 502,020 answers to the 90 pertinent questions asked has begun. The questions sought to gather the students' opinions on a variety of topics dealing with the life in which they live, such as companions, dates, homes, parental discipline, recreation and hobbies, comic strips, radio programs, sermons, and family prayers.

The blanks were unsigned and the students unsupervised in answering them. They were deposited in sealed boxes in the various schools.

OH, PROFESSOR!

These reputable scientists were he traces to disprove the fact of fully satisfied with the fact that life was created by God. Not only were they satisfied with this belief, they were proud of it. They proclaimed it to the world at large.

Perhaps the professor meant to say impossible for any pseudo scientist." The irreverent and destructive spirit of some professors and scientists with regard to religious belief is a source of deep regret to all intelligent people. These men seem unable to grasp the simple fact that religion and science exist in different fields. Between religion and science there can be no conflict, they have jurisdiction in different territories.

Religion does not attempt to explain how the heavens go. It teaches people how to go to heaven. Science does not try to teach people how to go to heaven. It studies phenomena. It observes examines the constant sequence of phenomena so as to express them as laws. Religion has to do with the soul science with the laboratory.

"Given a living cell," our professor went on to say, "there is no difficulty in explaining the occurrence of man by the simple process of slow evolution." This recalls to mind the old problem of which came first, the chicken or the egg? Postulating a living cell, man appears as the result of an evolutionary process. But where did the living cell come from? That is precisely the question. The creation of life. The first living cell. Yet the professor assuming the existence of such a living cell, attempts thereby to disprove the fact of creation. In short, his conclusion is based on the very fact

A Scientist's Humility

Commenting on an important meeting of scientists conducted in New York, the Times' of that city concluded an editorial, dealing with achievements of science and the boasting of lectures regarding future progress in this fashion.

"The one meek man in the entire gathering was Father Nieuwland, discoverer of the most successful form of synthetic rubber. The high temperatures and the technical violence with which each chemical advance is made are to him evidences of crudity. Wondering 'how the vegetable with a sunbeam a few quarts of water and some carbonic acid gas is able to make a bushel of corn or a peck of potatoes,' he made it plain how much we still have to learn. Perhaps it was as well that nature is still the most proficient of all chemists.

True, indeed, but not complete. What the present generation must be told again and again is that God is the author of nature. Admitting this truth men will find their way back to God through nature. For nature reveals His existence and His glory. The Psalmist aptly sings: "The heavens show forth the glory of God and the firmament declareth the work of His hands. Day to day uttereth speech and night to night sheweth knowledge. There are no speeches nor languages where their voices are not heard. Their sound hath gone forth into all the earth and their words unto the end of the world."

"Thine are the heavens and thine is the earth!" Israel also proclaims. His, too, the mysteries of nature. He does not seal the book of nature, but neither can man uncover those secrets He chooses to withhold. Man, the Savior Himself says, cannot do what nature does according to the laws God has given her; with all his knowledge he cannot add even one cubit to his own stature. God willing, nature may do so, but not man. Science should cultivate an attitude of humility; humble, it will be the more willing to learn the most important of all lessons: That God is the Lord of nature and of man. And in addition this truth — "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom", the correct starting point. — C. V. Service.

CHILL. Fall days serve notice that the season for colds has arrived. People begin to have "sinus trouble." There are many different kinds of colds, and many different varieties of sinus trouble. Emphasis should be placed on prevention. At the first sign of a cold the patient should go to bed. In so doing, he will save time in the end. Children with colds should be kept from school and not allowed to play with other children.
