Nocturnal Adoration At Paris Basilica Has Been Reserved to Men

BY M. MASSIANI
(Paris Correspondent, NCWC News Service.)

Paris—A noteworthy fact in connection with the celebration of the golden jubilee of perpetual adoration in the Basilica of the Sacred Heart on Montmartre is that, during this long period uninterrupted prayer before the Blessed Sacrament, the nocturnal watch has always been reserved to the men of France.

When an association was organized to assure this guard of honor and devotion, naturally it was composed principally of men in the prime of life. In 1914, at the outbreak of the war, it was these very men who were called to the colors. Keeping watch before the Blessed Sacrament became the obligation of the aged, the sick and the infirm whose services were not needed in defense of their country.

In 1918, when air raids or the shells of the long-range gun made others scurry to safety, abandoning their homes or places of employment, the faithful adorers never deserted their posts in the Montmartre Basilica, one of the most exposed points in all Paris.
