ligion of their children, they are within their rights.

To a Catholic there is no truer religion other than the Catholic religion, and for this reason, it is not left to accept or to recognize any education that is not Catholic education."

Encyclical Teachings
The third, fourth and fifth points stressed are quoted from Pope Pius XI's Encyclical of Christian Education of Youth:
"Every form of pedagogic naturalism which in any way excludes or weakens super-natural Christian formation in the teaching of youth, is false. Every method of education founded, wholly or in part, on the denial or forgetfulness of original sin and of grace, and relying on the sole powers of human nature, is unsound."

"It is too common the error of those who propagate a so-called sex-education, to believe that they can forearm youths against the dangers of sensuality by means purely natural, such as a foolishly inflated and precautionary instruction for all indiscriminately, even in public, and worse still, by exposing them at an early age to the ocean, in order to accustom them, so it is argued, and as it were to harden them against such dangers."

"False also and harmful to Christian education is the so-called method of co-education. This too, by many of its supporters, is founded upon naturalism and the denial of original sin. There is not in nature itself, which fashions the two quite different in organism, temperament, in abilities, anything to suggest that there can be or ought to be promiscuity, and much less equality, in the training of the two sexes."

Sixth, the Pastoral notes the instruction to Mexican Catholics of the clergy, and from various pronouncements of the Mexican hierarchy to show that Catholics cannot rightfully attend or send their children to either public or private schools so long as the requirements of Article 3 of the Mexican Constitution are in force, and that parents who keep their children in the Socialist schools are "committing a very grave mortal sin which cannot be absolved in Confession until the children are withdrawn from these establishments." It cites further the words of His Holiness Pope Pius XI, "Socialism and Catholicism are two contradictory terms, no one can be at the same time a good Catholic and a true Socialist."

PARENTS VIEW HOLIDAY PROGRAM GIVEN BY MERCY HIGH STUDENTS

To afford parents the opportunity of enjoying the annual Christmas program of Our Lady of Mercy High School, it was presented on the evening of Dec. 6 in the school assembly hall.

"The Little Boy Who Tended the Sheep" a pantomime, was the highlight of the program. Mary Arnold narrated the story. Other characters were: Marion Byrns who played the part of the boy, Mary Giambro, Mary Agnes Smith, Olive Murray, and Betty J. McCarthy, as shepherds, and Mary Ethel Zimmerman as the Child.

A tableau of the Nativity was also staged, with Eleanor Schroedel in the role of "Our Lady," Bernice Leung as St. Joseph, and Dorothy Snyder as the angel. The story was read by Mary Jane Berry.

"The Christmas Candle," a reading, was given by Mae Steuber, while Dorothy Schuster rendered "The First Christmas Cris." Front and German Carols were sung by the foreign language classes. A vocal solo, "In Old Judea" by Ruth Anglo, and selections by the Glee Club were also included in the program.

The orchestra rendered four numbers: "Festival Overture," by Taylor, "Angel's Serenade" by Bragan, "Cantique de Noel" by Adams, and "Adeste Fideles."

Improvement in U. S. Films Noted in Spain

Washington (NC) — An improvement in the motion picture productions from the United States is noted in Spain since the campaign of the Legion of Decency began, according to a letter received by William P. Morrison, Director of the Legal Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The letter is from Jose Torre de Roda, editor of El Financiero, official motion picture organ of the Catholic Parish Association in Spain.

Requesting information on the work of the Legion of Decency in the United States, Sr. Torre writes: "We congratulate you most heartily on the news reports that you have sent us which are evidence that there has been noticeable improvement in the morality of pictures that are being publicly exhibited in your country. We are happy also to report that here in Spain we, too, have noticed that in all motion picture productions coming from the United States there is a marked improvement."
