Not so many years ago there was a playoff for the National championship of football. An audience of some 100,000 jammed the park and poured approximately $100,000 into the coffers. What did the umpires get for this important struggle? Just $2.

From the campus of Cornell, far above Cayuga's waters' goes the roar of a football game. The roar of a football game at Ithaca was inevitable. For the past few years the student body and alumni have been clamoring for his scalp as team after team finished at the bottom of the collegiate heap.
