Rev. Dr. Joseph A. Daly, of New York, noted educator and radio speaker, who has been appointed executive secretary of the National Legion of Decency which has just opened headquarters in New York City, at the request of the Bishops' Committee on Motion Pictures. This office will have charge of the preparation and issuance of the classified lists of pictures. (Childoff photo.)

The Holy Father's desire that all men should be sanctified and that the Church should be purified is the primary motive of the program declared by the Bishops' Committee on Motion Pictures in its "Quadragesimo Anno" Encyclical. His Encyclical on the Catholic Faith issued on the twentieth of December last repeats the words of the Holy Father: "The Church has the duty to lead men to God and to help them to overcome the forces of evil which threaten their souls."

During these fourteen years the Supreme Pontiff has done much to advance science and art. He opened the Vatican Library, the Vatican Museums, the Vatican Radio Station, the new observatory, and has given to learning the Holy Father has been most eager to forward this high and noble work of the mind of man, to be developed every day, directed toward the supreme and ultimate good, increasing thereby the sanctification of man and of society.

FRANKLY, many businessmen hold fast to the conviction that weekly newspapers... even Catholic weekly newspapers... are relatively inferior advertising mediums. You know as well as we do that the CATHOLIC COURIER is an influential medium... a superior advertising medium. The problem is how directly to convince the diminishing number of sceptics of that fact. And here's the simple, easy answer... BOOSTER LABELS to use when you go shopping, when you write to businessmen, when you mail a check. BOOSTER LABELS that will be tangible evidence of your interest in your own Catholic newspaper.

Would Revive School Readers Intended To Inculcate Morals

The lowering of public and private morals, as well as the steady growth of criminality in our country, has frequently resulted in statements expressing the desire for the revival of school readers intended to inculcate moral precepts. Papal Brief To Indians Saved In Mission Fire

Domest. Idaho (AP) - In the fire which swept Sacred Heart Indian Mission here yesterday, a papal brief, addressed to an Indian, was one of the few personal manuscripts rescued. It was stated by priests of the mission that the brief was one from Pope Pius IX to the Count d'Alene Indians in 1871.

Are You Saving Cancelled Stamps?

Remember that cancelled stamps are of great value to collectors. They can be sold for a profit. Don't let them go to waste.

Unrestricted Art Is Fallacy

It is a fallacy to believe that art should be unrestricted. Art has a social function and should be guided by moral principles. Unrestricted art can lead to the degradation of society.
