

Better Housing FOR THE HOMEMAKER Household Hints

It may LOOK CLEAN but...

That daily wisp of silk you are going to put next to your skin looks sweet and clean to the eye, doesn't it? But if it has been laundered in hard water, the microscope shows you a different picture: Clinging to every silken strand you find sticky, gummy curds which trap dirt and germs... shorten the life of the fibre...

The mineral salts in hard water react with soap to form this insoluble curd which clings like glue to your skin, your hair, to your clothes, linens, and dishes. Only soft water can give you real cleanliness. And the softest water of all is water that has had its objectionable salts removed by a Permutit Water Conditioning installation. This equipment is attached to your water pipe, and all the water you use passes through it and is softened... not just neutralized as with chemicals. Best of all, this luxury costs little... pays for itself in savings.

THIS WEEK: The coming Spanish elections, Elections under monarchy and republic reviewed. No Catholic party in Spain. The seven parties forming anti-revolutionary front. Bishops order special services and prayers for the success of Catholic Spain.

Before the end of this week, the month of Spain will be again in a pyre of political activity. The General Parliamentary elections will be held about the 15th of next Sunday, Feb. 16. The result of these elections will be of great importance: from their outcome there have never been held in Spain. I believe it will be more important even than the result of the elections of April, 1931, those that changed the regime from the monarchy to a Republic.

For the moment, that seemed to be only a change of regime. It was not clear what would be the ultimate consequence. They were held not in all the eight provinces, but only in the fifty provincial capitals. The vast majority of the people had a feeling of relief that the struggle had been made without bloodshed.

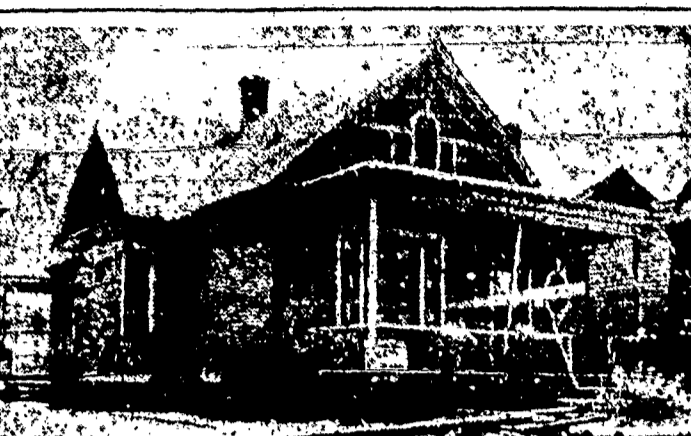

In Spain as in every other country, what the people most desire is peace. Hence when the change of regime came without bloodshed, the people generally experienced a sense of relief and the vast majority of them were well content to accept the Republic and hope for the best. Only a month before the change Doctor Marañon had put the situation in the provincial capital. "While there is a Monarchy," he said, "the majority of Spaniards will be Monarchists; come a Republic, and by the same political inertia they will be Republicans."

As I have just said the elections of April 1931 were not general, were only municipal, and for only the fifty provincial capitals. But Central Window Cleaning Company 35 South Ave. Stone 482

Home Heating Hints

Tossing on a few shovels of coal by the fireplace, put the fresh air furnace, but it is not the only way to heat the home. The furnace may not be the best as to economy, but it is the most common.
