

Better Housing FOR THE HOMEMAKER Household Hints

It may LOOK CLEAN

but...

That daily wisp of silk you are going to put next to your skin looks sweet and clean to the eye, doesn't it? But if it has been laundered in hard water, the microscope shows you a different picture: Clinging to every silken strand you find sticky, gummy curds which trap dirt and germs... shorten the life of the fibre... and combine unpleasantly with the natural excretions of your pores.

The mineral salts in hard water react with soap to form this insoluble curd which clings like glue to your skin, your hair, to your clothes, linens, and dishes.

Only soft water can give you real cleanliness. And the softest water of all is water that has had its objectionable salts removed by a Permutit Water Conditioning installation. This equipment is attached to your water pipe, and all the water you use passes through it and is softened... not just neutralized as with chemicals. Best of all, this luxury costs little... pays for itself in savings.

BELIEVE IT - - - Not

THIS WEEK: The coming Spanish elections, Elections under monarchy and republic reviewed. No Catholic party in Spain. The seven parties forming anti-revolutionary front. Bishops order special services and prayers for the success of Catholic Spain.

By REV. OWEN B. McGUIRE, D.D.

Before the end of this week, the month of Spain will be again a busy place on the front page. General parliamentary elections will be held about the middle of next Sunday, Feb. 16. The result of these elections will be of great importance: from their outcome there have never been held in Spain. I believe it will be more important even than the result of the elections of April, 1931, those that changed the regime from the monarchy to a Republic.

For the moment, that seemed to be only a change of regime. It was not clear what would be the ultimate consequence. They were held not in all the eight provinces, but only in the fifty provincial capitals. The vast majority of the people had a feeling of relief that the regime had been made without bloodshed.

Want Peace

In Spain as in every other country, what the people most desire is peace. Hence when the change of regime came without bloodshed, the people generally experienced a sense of relief and the vast majority of them were well content to accept the Republic and hope for the best. Only a month before the change Doctor Marañon had put the situation in the provincial capital. "While there is a Monarchy," he said, "the majority of Spaniards will be Monarchists; come a Republic, and by the same political inertia they will be Republicans." And so it turned out, and continues today.

As I have just said the elections of April 1931 were not general, were only municipal, and for only the fifty provincial capitals. But they were a general election for the whole of Spain. It was the first time that all the provinces had taken part in the election. The King had abdicated, and the Republic had been proclaimed. The new government was formed, and the new constitution was adopted. The new government was formed, and the new constitution was adopted.

Therefore, the new government was formed, and the new constitution was adopted. The new government was formed, and the new constitution was adopted. The new government was formed, and the new constitution was adopted.

That was the situation in Spain at the time of the elections of April 1931. The new government was formed, and the new constitution was adopted. The new government was formed, and the new constitution was adopted.

Under the new constitution, the new government was formed, and the new constitution was adopted. The new government was formed, and the new constitution was adopted.

Tossing on a few shovels of coal by the fire, put the fresh air in the room, but it is not the coal that is the problem. The problem is the air that is in the room. The air that is in the room is the problem. The air that is in the room is the problem.

There is no doubt that the air in the room is the problem. The air that is in the room is the problem. The air that is in the room is the problem.
