Before putting the new shoes on... the little fellow's feet are none too certain at best and slippery shoes will prove too much to manage without a fall.

We are pleased that the Crusade for subscription to the CATHOLIC COURIER was an outstanding success.

Parents and people showed an interest in our CATHOLIC COURIER which is unparalleled in the annals of Catholic journalism in our diocese. The enthusiastic efforts of our young people in the Students' Catholic Crusade were notable. Last but not least, our advertisers have not failed to observe the importance of the Crusade.

It is very difficult for us to express adequately our thanks for the response which was accorded this momentous undertaking. To priests, nuns, and children who cooperated with us we are sincerely grateful.

The success of the Crusade means much to us in our trying to make the CATHOLIC COURIER a paper of power. We assure you of our constant desire for your loyal and continued support.

Sincerely yours,

(Rev.) Leo C. Monev, Managing Editor

Open Letter for Crusaders

Dear Crusaders:
We've reached the end of the trail in the Student Catholic Press Crusade.

The front page headlines in this issue of the CATHOLIC COURIER blaze out the story of your success in words as eloquently as we could frame.

We'd like to meet each and every one of you individually, grasp your hand in appreciation of the grand work you've done and say with a sincerity that really springs from our hearts:

"THANK YOU!"

As you went forth to labor in the cause of the CATHOLIC COURIER, we laye watched and prayed from the sidelines. We rejoiced with you in your victories, we sympathized with you in your temporary setbacks, we smiled with you at those amusing experiences, we prayed for you when the going was hardest.

Your struggle has been our struggle. Your victory is like to think of as our victory. Elsewhere in this issue of the CATHOLIC COURIER—the first to go forth to that vast army of new subscribers you enlisted—will be found a list of the individual and school prize winners. That, in a material way, expresses our gratitude for your valiant efforts.

But far above and beyond these awards, we face a debt to you that can be paid only in one way—a better CATHOLIC COURIER.

To that ideal we pledge ourselves just as you

Crusaders pledged yourselves to us. Henceforth our aims will be directed at a goal of a CATHOLIC COURIER for YOU!—the features and stories you like—the news you should study—the literary guide posts you should follow—in short the CATHOLIC COURIER you visualized.

If we achieve that goal at least in part then we will feel that part of the debt we owe you has been repaid.

To the nuns and priests who directed your successful efforts we express our heartfelt thanks.

—Again, Crusaders, we thank you.

Sincerely,
CATHOLIC COURIER STAFF.

will receive a religious statue in addition to cash commissions earned on each subscription.
