Remedies for Industry Evils Cited at Catholic Conference

Washington, N.C. The evils of industrialism, between themselves, properly understood, and certain evils were deplored Monday morning by Daniel W. Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Engineers, in an address at the regional meeting of the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems, which opened at the Washington Hotel.

In the first address of the session over which Monsignor McCormick presided, Mr. Tracy continued, "We must further consider our ability to consume."

Mr. Tracy declared that socialism is not communism. He added that in a modern confusion of tongues, the term "individualism" is also misused.

Mr. Tracy said that individualism is today viewed as an infernal heritage. Such a view is most decidedly a handicap.

Encyclicals and Injunctions Cited. Father Collins, in his latest address, excerpts of the Encyclical Quadragesimo Anno, in which Pope Pius XI exposed and condemned evils in the modern economic and social order.
