BISHOPS SHOW FAITH DURING SPAIN'S REVOLT

Church Has Laid Case Of Religion Before People, Speaker Claims

WASHINGTON—The Bishops of Spain, and the Holy Father himself, in protesting against the excesses and injustices of the Leftist regime in that country, have, in their counsel and statements, displayed utter faith in democracy, declared William F. Montavon, Director of the Legal Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, in a lecture delivered at the Catholic University of America.

In his lecture, which was entitled "Insurrection in Spain," Mr. Montavon said that "charges and counter-charges that are carelessly made by those who discuss the conflict make it useful for us as Catholics to recall the right that man has to self-defense and as Americans to remember the fact that at the very foundation of our own political independence lies the doctrine of the right of self-defense, even when the aggressor is the constituted authority." "A just war of defense is not rebellion," he added. "It is no more rebellion than is double one, who has the strength hold on another and attempts to kill him, would be murder."

Connected Statistics

Actually, however, Mr. Montavon emphasized, the Bishops of Spain and His Holiness Pope Pius XI, in their messages to the people of that country, have counselled resort to all legitimate means of bringing about relief from the injustices and oppressions of the Spanish extremists, although vigorously protesting against the persecution of the Church and religion.

"The foundation for conflict between Catholics and the present republican government of Spain," he went on, "is embodied in the Constitution of the Republic and in the acts of those who have exercised authority under the Constitution."

He said that the joint statement of the Spanish Hierarchy, issued late in 1931 at the time the Constitution was enacted, is a "stupendous" and "courageous" document and that in it the Bishops "state the case of the Church and religion in terms that are concise, unmistakable." "They lay their case before the people of Spain," he added. "That act is an act of faith in democracy."

Cites Pope's Appeal

Quoting from the encyclical letter of His Holiness Pope Pius XI, Dei Consilium Nobis, published in 1933, Mr. Montavon showed that the Church while protesting against the violence done to her and her interests in Spain has appealed through the Pope to the people of Spain, "to continue to avail themselves of every legitimate means available to them that is compatible with the law and with morality to induce the legislators who enacted these measures to amend the sections that run contrary to the rights of citizens and are hostile to the Church, enacting in their stead laws that are reconcilable with conscience."

Describing conditions which preceded the civil war in Spain, Mr. Montavon stressed that in the last election the popular vote in Spain actually "favored the Rightist coalition with a small majority. However, with better organization, under the leadership of more experienced men," he added, "the Popular Front had quite narrowly won the Anti-Revolutionary Front" winning a majority of seats in the Parliament. This majority was materially increased by the action of the Committee on Credentials."

Describing what he called the "unconstitutional tyranny" of the Leftist Government after that, in its rule by martial law and decree, Mr. Montavon said that the leaders of the rebellion regard their action as a defense against this tyranny which, he said they claim, "was leading the Spanish nation to disaster."

Mr. Montavon charged that the Popular Front overnment was pledged "to enforce strictly every constitutional provision respecting religion and the Church and to proceed promptly with complete secularization of educational and charitable institutions conducted by the Church and by religious orders."

Ask Canadian Check On Communism

QUEBEC—A demand that the Federal Government take action to offset influences of Communism is contained in a declaration forwarded to Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice.

The declaration is signed by representatives of religious and patriotic organizations, professional and social groups, and public bodies such as municipal councils, school boards and others. Action has followed the address of His Eminence Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve, Archbishop of Quebec, on October 25, when he scored Communism.

K. OF C. TO BRING CHRISTMAS CHEER TO SOLDIERS' HOME

Disabled veterans at U. S. Veterans Facility at Bath will be brought Christmas cheer and gifts by the Knights of Columbus of several councils in the diocese on Saturday, Dec. 26.

The knights are responding to a request by the Rev. Arthur A. LeMay, Catholic chaplain at the soldiers' home to provide entertainment and gifts for veterans of all creeds confined there.

Laden with various articles to be distributed among the ex-soldiers, a bus will leave Columbus Civic Center on that day with a delegation of Rochester Council headed by James M. Ryan, chairman.

The Rochester knights will join with knights from Elmira, Corning and Bath in distributing gifts and in providing entertainment.

This will be the fourth year that Rochester Council has sent a delegation to the Veterans Hospital.

Donations of magazines, newspapers, candy, cigarettes and cash are being received for the Bath trip at the Council offices by Financial Secretary Paul A. Predmore and Assistant Secretary, Thomas C. McCarthy.
