Headline Examples

Are you a headline reader? Here are some headlines we noticed recently:

Local Man's Savings—House and $4,000 Mother-in-Law Man, Goes Up in Flames.

Boy's Fat $125 — Jersey Woman Throws Away Savings With Garbage.

Student Finds Tin Box Stolen From Closet

Profiting from fire, careless-ness and Police Department money and also earning many thanks to compound interest.

MONROE COUNTY SAVINGS BANK OF ROCHESTER

MAIN OFFICE 35 State Street — BRANCH OFFICE 220 Main Street East — TWO CONVENIENT OFFICES

25 always time to save!

STUDENTS' SUPPLEMENT — FOR CATHOLIC BOYS AND GIRLS

Junior Catholic Courier Weekly

Volume 2 • Number 24 — THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1937 — Rochester, New York

Along The Pathway

By Jimmy

The St. Mary's Stars defeated the Arnett N Jrs. by a score of 23-25. The Stars thus far have a nearly perfect record this season, winning 10 out of 11 games. In the earlier part of the season Troop 106 from Irondequoit defeated the Stars, but, in a return game the result was quite different when Troop 106 bowed to the aggressive Stars.

Paul Brescia, who has coached the St. Mary's Stars for seven years, has always turned out good teams. This week St. Mary's outfit is playing two Auburn teams on the home court.

• • •

Does your parish have a Boy Scout troop? If not, and you are interested, I suggest that you take the following steps and perhaps produce some results:

Round up a group of boys who are really going into scouting, find a man who can give time and make a good leader and interest the fathers of the prospective scouts to serve as committeemen.

After you have done this, take the boys, the scoutmaster and the committeemen to the pastor and have a visit with him. Make sure that you first make an appointment with the pastor.

It is up to you to do the missionary work for scouting. Grown-ups really don't know what you actually want. You have to tell them and convince them why you want it.

• • •

Mail or send in all news or items of any information of interest to boys to appear in this column to Jimmy Along the Pathway, No. 50 Chestnut St., Rochester, N. Y.

• • •

The Columbus Youth Association had a lively weekend of basketball. The three Junior teams of the C. Y. A. were victorious over their opponents. The C. Y. A. Cadets defeated Troop 106 Juniors in an overtime decision by the score of 15-12. The C. Y. A. Intermediates defeated the boys' parish team from Sacred Heart by the score of 26-11. The C. Y. A. Juniors defeated the Alamedas by the score of 27-20. With the able coaching of George (Jigger) Schaad, the C. Y. A. outfits have been able to make a splendid showing this season. If there are any teams in or near by Rochester who would like to challenge any of the three outfits get in touch with Jigger Schaad of the Columbus Youth Association, 50 Chestnut St. The boys' teams range in age from 9 to 16 years.

American Red Cross Life Saving classes are in session in the Columbus Youth Association swimming pool for both Junior and Senior members. Classes are conducted on Saturdays at 2 P. M.

From time to time, Hints of First Aid will appear in this column. Here are some general rules that every boy should know:

1. Keep the crowd back and send for a physician.
2. Carry the injured person to a cool, well ventilated place, if possible.
3. Remove only enough clothing to expose the wound and keep the head on a level with the shoulders.
4. Hot tea or coffee or even hot water should be preferred to any alcoholic stimulant, in cases suffering from shock.
5. Gross dirt should be removed very gently with soap and water but otherwise no attempt should be made to clean the wound.
6. Avoid doing too much. First aid embraces exactly what the term indicates.

The 'Rabbit' Says

All Aboard For The 'Grapefruit League'

By 'RABBIT' MARANVILLE
Manager of the Montreal Royals

Enroute to Orlando, Fla.—Well, the 1937 baseball season is started as far as I'm concerned.

For nearly two months we'll be squeezing a lot of fun and practice out of the Grapefruit League as we call the schedule of games played with the different teams before the opening of the regular season.

This year it's going to seem funny to sit on the bench and direct the players rather than being out there on the diamond and scrapping 'em up. You know I've been doing that for quite a few years in fact before most of you boys were born.

'Pop' Time Catch'ing

I guess old Pop Time has caught up with me at last although I still think I could give the old boy a run for his money if I hadn't broken my leg while training with the Boston Braves several years ago.

Although the leg has healed up it's still quite stiff at times and naturally you can't go hopping around after grounders or run under Texas Leaguers with a stiff leg. Of course I suppose I'll yield to the temptation of tossing a few around in spring training but the way it looks now I won't see active service in the International League.

Attention Elmira Fans

And speaking of the International League, I'm sure glad to get back into the circuit. Now don't think for a moment that I didn't enjoy managing the Elmira team in the NYP League. I sure did and the Elmira fans were grand. If the Montreal team followers give me the same kind of support and backing I'll be tickled pink.

I left Rochester last week and I expect to go to Orlando in easy stages. I expect to stop at St. Petersburg, Miami, Palm Beach and Tampa before wheeling over to Miami.

Where Is Orlando?

By the way, I wonder how many of you kids know where Orlando is? Why don't you get out your maps and locate it? As soon as I get there I'll tell you all about the town which, they tell me, is the center of Florida's great orange, lemon and grapefruit industry.

So the next time you drink orange juice, you'll probably be getting a taste of the sunshine I'm going to inhale for the next few months.

Our camp at Orlando opens March 10 when the pitchers report while the rest of the regulars are expected to report on March 15.

And now, boys, I'm going to make an offer to you. As soon as we're set up in training quarters I'll answer five questions on baseball each week. Just write to me for the answers. So long until next week and don't forget to write.

"RABBIT" MARANVILLE

Students of Good Counsel Pay Visit To Rundel Library

The seventh and eighth grades of Good Counsel School visited the Rundel Memorial Library recently and were shown some of the admirable features.

The library, besides having many valuable books, also possesses beautiful interior decorations.

The marble and walnut woods which are used for some of the decorating are an outstanding attraction.

The library has beautiful drapes and walls whose colors harmonize perfectly. It is also air conditioned.

After looking over these fine decorations and conveniences, we were allowed to look at some of the books in the Children's Room.

History, literature and fiction books occupy the shelves. Then our guide showed us the other rooms for adults and older boys and girls. While we were inspecting these rooms and the books the guide explained everything in detail. This trip was certainly an interesting and educational experience.

BERNICE DOLAN,
Eighth Grade,
Good Counsel School

The Brown King

A Medal Story

Michael and some other boys were lying under a palm tree while All told them the story of the visit of the Three Wise Kings who were seeking the Christ Child; how they found Him in the stable at Bethlehem, offered Him their gifts and knelt down and adored Him. When the story was over Michael fell asleep.

"Bad King Herod was very pleased. He said to himself: 'Now the little new-born King is dead. He cannot take my kingdom.'

"Bad Herod was not wise. He had not killed the little Redeemer. And the kingdom of the Redeemer was in the hearts of men. He did not want Herod's throne. All the Kingdom of Heaven was His. All the earth was His, for He had made it . . ."

"But the Three Wise Kings," said Michael, "What did they do?"

"Well," went on All, "The Three Wise Kings went back to their own countries. They were very happy. They had seen the Redeemer. They taught their people about Him. Many of the people were very glad. But some were bad. The false priests were angry, too.

"At last the Three Kings were killed because of their love for the Christ Child."

"And the Brown King died for Him," said Michael.

"Yes," said All. "The Brown King was the bravest of them all. He died for the sake of the Christ Child."

"Now the three of them are in Heaven, as they were in the little town of Bethlehem, close to God forever!"

"And the Brown King is the nearest of all," said Michael sleepily.

"Yes," said All. "The Brown King is the nearest of them all."

"And not long after that . . ."

But Michael did not hear any more. He was sound asleep.

Early in the morning Michael's mother was getting the breakfast ready. Michael's father was sitting in the doorway. They were talking about their little son.

Michael's father said: "He is getting too big to take care of the flocks. It is time that he learned to work, as I do."

"No," said Michael's mother. "I do not think he should become a worker. He is very bright. He might become a teacher."

Michael's father thought a minute. Then he said: "Today I shall ask him what he would like best to do."

And so when Michael came in from the fields, he found both his father and his mother waiting for him.

(To Be Continued)

FLOOD AID GIVEN BY PUPILS OF HOLY CROSS, ST. SALOME'S

Red Cross Gets Contributions of $23 and $34.10

More news of generous flood relief contributions by our school children reached this office during the past week.

Peggy Keenehan of the Eighth Grade of Holy Cross School writes: "Yes, we are trying to do our bit, too, for the relief of the poor flood victims. The total amount collected in our school is $23.

"Are we happy to be on the list of helpers? You bet we are. It means little sacrifices for us, but at what better time could we be called upon to make these little acts of self-denial?

"Our hearts have gone out to these poor victims, especially to the little children who are deprived of all the comforts we enjoy. Perhaps we shall be able to do more for them. We shall continue our prayers in their behalf."

From St. Salome's

From Marie Joerger of the Eighth Grade at St. Salome's School comes the following note:

"Pupils of St. Salome's School heard the plea of the flood sufferers and set out to help these outcasts by collecting a sum of money for them. Every grade—from the tiny tots in the first grade to the older eighth graders—participated in the quest. Pennies, nickels, dimes and even larger sums fairly poured in.

"The idea became a contest between grades, each one trying to surpass the other. The students decided to send a delegation of pupils to the studio of Station WHEC with the money, where it was to be broadcast at a later date.

"The sum of $34.10 was collected throughout the school from the students alone, an average of about $4 from each class.

"Many a sweet tooth ached this week, but the students forgot their love of sweets in order to give up their money to the Red Cross. Every child did his bit and we are proud of it."

Snow

(With apologies to Joyce Kilmer)

I think that I shall never know
A gift so lovely as the snow.
The snow whose glistening
flakes befall
The treetops, houses, hills and all.
The snow that covers up the ground
With little diamonds all around.
The snow that comes from God
above
And seems to bring His peace and love.
Upon the window pane we see
These little pearls which shine with glee.
How good God is to let us know
The value of this lovely snow.

BERNICE DOLAN,
Eighth Grade,
Good Counsel School

Catholics In History

JOHN McCLOSKEY

Recognized as one of the leading figures in the history of the Church in this country, John McCloskey was fourth Bishop and second Archbishop of New York, and was the first American Cardinal.

His elevation to the cardinalate was received with universal applause, both non-Catholics recognizing him as an outstanding representative of his Church in this country.

He received his early education at a private school in New York and then entered Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., where he studied for 12 years before being ordained.

He was the first native of New York State to enter the secular priesthood. He taught philosophy at Nyack for a while.

After a trip to Rome and other centers in Europe he became pastor of St. Joseph's Church in New York. He was the first president of St. John's College, Fordham, which he organized.

He was consecrated bishop-coadjutor of New York and subsequently became Bishop of Albany. Under his administration the Church advanced rapidly and upon the death of Archbishop Hughes of New York he was appointed to this important See.

It was through his efforts that President Arthur appealed to the Italian Government not to seize the American College at Rome at the time of revolutionary activity in Italy. His work at the Vatican Council of 1870 resulted in his elevation to the cardinalate.

Under his leadership the Church prospered. He built three cathedrals, Immaculate Conception, Albany; St. Patrick's, Mott St., New York, and St. Patrick's on Fifth Avenue. He was a man of great natural dignity and of great simplicity and amiableness.

He was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1810, and died in New York in 1885.

(N.C.W.C. FEATURES)

The war on Communism is an intellectual one. The CATHOLIC COURIER is an ammunition storehouse.

St. Mary's of Corning Name Class Officers

The graduation class of St. Mary's School, Corning, held the annual election of class officers Friday.

An interesting program was rendered by the class and the following were selected as officers: President, Paul Krebs; vice president, Archangelo Bamonti; secretary, Marie Quinn; treasurer, Marjorie Griffin, class prophet, Daniel Paul.

A cabinet radio has been donated to the class by Rev. Lawrence Gannon.

BOY FROM ROMULUS WINS NOTEBOOK PRIZE

ROMULUS—In competition with children from all over the diocese, John Bromka, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bromka of Romulus, was awarded the first prize for the best notebook prepared during the vacation church school conducted last July.

The lad, with the other children from the Sacred Heart Church in this village, was a faithful attendant at the summer school sessions conducted at Ovid.

The winning notebook entitled, "My Commandment Book," was enclosed within blue covers trimmed with orange and neatly lettered. In addition to the neat mounting of pictures appropriate to illustrate the text, John employed several novel ideas. John was enrolled in the class conducted by Miss Mae Delaney of Ovid.

Inaugurating . . .

The CATHOLIC COURIER you boys and girls have made possible through your splendid work in the Second Annual Students' Catholic Press Crusade. It's coming next week—March 4—when all Crusade subscriptions will start. At the same time next week's issue will carry a complete record of the Crusade results and prize winners. Reserve your copy of next week's issue NOW.

Catholic Near East Welfare Association

His Eminence Patrick Cardinal Hayes, President
Very Rev. Msgr. James B. O'Reilly, Ph.D., National Secretary
Rev. John J. Corrigan, Assistant Secretary

The Lonely Missionary

The lonely missionary separated from home and friends appreciates your thoughts of him. When things seem to be going against him and his converts are very few, he is delighted when he hears from us. Ask this lonely priest to offer Mass for your intentions.

DISCORD AND STRIFE SCANDALIZE PEOPLE

In the letter [illegible] Pope Pius XI speaks about the Mass [illegible] these words: "There is a particular reason why the faithful should be present at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, namely, that there