

Reveals Evidence Guild Move Originated In Boston In 1916

By GERTRUDE MADIGAN
"Dear Mrs. Madigan: Very evidently you have been misinformed. The work of laymen carrying the Catholic message to the man in the street started in our country over a year before the Catholic Evidence Guild was organized in England.

The letter which appeared in this column the week of December 21 may have implied that the work of carrying the Catholic message to the man in the street originated in London. The statement made by our Contributor was that the Catholic Evidence Guild was organized in London in 1918.

In a pamphlet, "The Catholic Evidence Guild" by Edward J. Heffron (copies of which may be obtained from the National Catholic Welfare Conference, 1312 Mass. Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C.) reference is made to the Guild of Ransom which antedated the Evidence Guild in England, and to the fact that the group of men and women who organized an Evidence Guild in Washington in 1931 were inspired by the remarkably successful street apostolate of David Goldstein in the United States, and of the Catholic Evidence Guild in England.

Mr. Heffron states that the group followed the crowds to Mammoth Food Market, Rochester's Largest Self-Serve Super Market, Open Evenings Till 1, 634 South Avenue, Near St. Boniface Church.

Announcement is made that the Seventeenth National Convention of the N.C.C.W. will be held in Washington, D. C., next September. Every affiliated organization is entitled to a delegate at the convention.

The early announcement of the time, the nearness of the convention city, the favorable season of the year, should all promise a record attendance from our diocese. Take steps now to see that your organization plans to send a delegate.

Addressing the meeting, Bishop Adrian said: "There is no under-taking that has come to my attention since coming here that is more important or gives more promise of far-reaching good than the National Council of Catholic Women."

NOT THE ANSWER. "If fortifications, armaments and armies were truly a guarantee of peace, then neither the war of 1914 nor any preceding war could have broken out, since nations did then lack such preparatory and military materials."
