IN ONE EAR

By ART KELLY

Early-birds in Western New York received a pleasant surprise recently, upon tuning on their respective radios, they were greeted with a lively variety program called the "Sunrise Breakfast Party."

Featuring hillbilly music, songs of the plains, cowboy ballads, American folk tunes and instrumental novelties, in fact every type of popular toe-tickling music, the program started the Dixie Flatwoods, The Harmony Boys, the Lippard Sisters and the Harmonies.

Beany Morgan, the accordion player, is the only musician in the gang and he has been down South so much that he also speaks with a drawl.

Set as "top" in their profession, the Dixie Flatwoods all have impressive radio records to their credit. Fiddlin' Jack McCoy has been in radio since 1920 and has appeared on many popular variety programs such as the WLS National Barn Dance.

Anyone who has visited the studio during the show has come away from WHAM with a sincere feeling of admiration for Les MacFarland, his son, Louis, Louisville, Kentucky, who not only sings, writes songs, plays fifteen instruments and has twelve years of radio to his credit, but has done all these things without the aid of his sight.

Football, the king of fall sports is here. On Saturday WHAM will feature the battle between Pennsylvania and Maryland in Philadelphia starting at 2 p. m.

More football dope. Followers of the Syracuse University football team who are unable to be present at this season's games will be able to follow the team through WHAM.

The Atlantic Refining Company will sponsor the broadcasting of seven Orange games over selected key stations with a nine station network carrying the color contest on November 20. The Syracuse schedule to be carried by WHAM follows: October 9, Syracuse, October 23 Maryland, October 30, Penn State, November 20, Colgate.
