IN ONE WE ARE

By ART KELLY

All this war talk brings to light an interesting story from the NBC Press Department. If Manhattan should ever become a theater of war, probably no other shelters on the island could be regarded as completely bomb-proof as NBC's Radio City studios.

Protected from the streets by three solid walls, suspended on steel hooks cushioned with felt to absorb shocks, sound-proofed to the ultimate ability of modern science, independent of municipal electric power for their operation and fed with pure air, thermostatically controlled, the studios might well be bomb-proof cellars 100 feet down in the earth.

Heavy dynamite charges have been recently touched off below the surface of Sixth Avenue where subway tunneling is in progress. These concussion, felt in all buildings in the vicinity, are also noticed in a distinct tremor in the corridors of the NBC studios. But at the doors of the studios they stop as a percolated blast were discharged the results probably would be noticeable in a slight swaying of the studios which are built on hundreds of interlocking blocks.

Lovers of "good" music have a rare treat in store for them on November 4. On this day both the Eastman School Symphony Orchestra and the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra will broadcast special programs over WHAM and the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company.

Conducted by Dr. Howard Hanson, the Eastman School Symphony concert will be on the air from 3:15 till 6:00 P. M. The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, under the baton of the famous Jose Hurst, will present an evening concert thirty minutes in length, beginning at 9:00 o'clock.

Both concerts will originate in the Eastman theatre and will be broadcast coast-to-coast through the facilities of WHAM and the Blue Network of the NBC.

Television has been around the corner but now it is here. It is not only appearing but is being used. On October 14, engineers of RCA and NBC projected images on a screen approximately three by four feet. The images were moving and the show was swell. Who knows, perhaps, we'll be seeing Hank and Herb on a television screen in a year or so.

One of the busiest men at WHAM is Frank Seibold, Music Librarian. It is Frank's job to keep all the station's music in order and also make sure that all the selections used on the air are OK as far as copyright is concerned. The logical part of his job is finding composers and publishers on some of the old numbers used by the Dixie Flow-boys on the Sunrise Breakfast Party. Many of the tunes are folk tunes and are melodies that have been handed down through generations. It's a great racket, says Frank the searching, not the music.

Ken Gardner, Chief of WHAM's Control Room, went out to dinner the other day and stopped in at one of the popular downtown eateries. After finishing his dinner he went to get his topcoat and found to his dismay that it had disappeared. Just as he was about to call the manager a worried looking man came hurrying in carrying the missing topcoat. Just another case of carrying a thing too far.

Al Sison and Tom Murray WHAM newscasters, wish that the Spaniards and Orientals would confine their fighting to well known areas. These backwoods towns in China and Spain are plenty tough to pronounce.

Did you know that winners of the Metropolitan Opera contracts in the winter Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the Air will be awarded one thousand dollars each, a bonus presented by the sponsor, the Sherwin-Williams Company. The program is presented by WHAM each Sunday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock.

Walter (Flash) Winchell returns to the airwaves on November 7, with his regular Sunday evening Jargons Program. In case you don't know Walter has been off the air due to his health.

The transmitter boys at Victor are watching with a great deal of interest the erection of WHAM's new 450 foot vertical antenna. Whenever two of the boys get together the first thing they talk about is "I wonder who will be the first one to climb it." With a six foot whip at the top (during a gusty storm) you can cross my name off the list even before the thing is completed.

Programs of the "free and easy type" such as WHAM's Sunshine Breakfast Party, like to include on the program names of persons requesting numbers and especially those having birthdays. Last week a birthday request came in that set something of a record. A lady 114 years old living in Bath was planning on a small birthday and wanted to hear her name on the air.

Things "turn up" chiefly for the one who digs. A good spade and an industrious arm are great aids to "luck".

Nuns Lauded As Teachers By Prelate

Cites 'Generous Labor' at Sacred Heart Order's 50th Jubilee

SAN FRANCISCO The generous labors of the teaching Sisters in Catholic schools throughout the United States were lauded by the Most Rev. John J. Mitty, Archbishop of San Francisco, speaking at the Solemn Mass which inaugurated the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the Religious of the Sacred Heart in San Francisco.

Expressing his deep gratitude for the half-century of zealous work done in the Archdiocese by the Religious of the Sacred Heart, Archbishop Mitty said: "Fifty years ago there was a great dearth of religious training in the home. Even among non-Catholics there was belief in a definite religious creed, and definite religious standards of morality. Our public school system had not taken on its present atheistic point of view. It is deliberate ignoring of God."

"The last five decades have witnessed a definite change in the religious and spiritual life of our nation. Dogmatic belief and moral standards have changed tremendously. Faith and moral virtues are passing away from public and private life. The people are wandering, looking for religious truth and for moral standards, seeking a Leader."

The Mission of Christ to teach is carried on in the Catholic school through the religious communities who have dedicated their lives to this purpose. If our Catholic school system in the United States is something of which we can boast, it is due in an overwhelming major part to the generous labor of the teaching Sisters.

It is to the credit of our Catholic parents that they accept the need of placing their boys and girls where they will be formed to the likeness of Christ, and be given a grasp on the things of the spirit.

THE CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA

(To acquaint Catholic women of the diocese with the organization known as the Catholic Daughters of America, a series of articles will be printed in the CATHOLIC COURIER beginning with the following. These articles were suggested by Mrs. Elizabeth Meyer, Grand Regent of "Our Mother, C. D. A.")

The Origin
In the year 1901 Mr. John A. Carberry, Grand Knight of Utica Council No. 129 Knights of Columbus, in the City of Utica, N. Y., conceived the idea of forming a society for Catholic women that would in many respects be similar to the Knights of Columbus.

At a following meeting it was proposed that this society be an auxiliary to the Council, and action was taken upon this advice the organization was formed and developed locally May 16, 1903.

Incorporated in 1903
The work of the membership was of such character, and of high order that the enthusiasm for a permanent organization was unbounded, and within the short period of two years the society was incorporated as Daughters of the State of New York in June 1903.

Immediately following the incorporation of the society, National Officers were elected and John E. Carberry, who at the time of its launching was Grand Knight of Utica Council, had the honor of being the first head of the Order, which was designated by the name of Supreme Regent. After becoming incorporated, the National Board of Directors immediately set about to establish a suitable ritual and to make laws for the government and guidance of the National Body, as well as for the subordinate units.

The order petitioned the Supreme Court of the State of New York, Oneida County, for permission to change the name to National Order of Utica was granted on September 13th 1905, which petition was granted.

Reaches Every State
The organization grew to one of the strongest women's organizations established in almost every state in the Union.

The growth of the Order has always been consistent and conservative and in promoting additional Courts, the greatest care has always been exercised by officers under the instructions from the National Board of Directors, to the end that we were seeking only the flower of the Catholic Womanhood of the Country.

When Mr. John E. Carberry, the Supreme Regent, passed to his eternal reward, the Vice Supreme Regent, Miss Mary E. McDonough of Utica was elected Supreme Regent, and Dr. John G. Coyle of New York was elected Vice Supreme Regent. In 1913 when Dr. Coyle retired, Mrs. Genevieve H. Walsh of New York City was elected Vice Supreme Regent. In 1915 Mrs. Genevieve H. Walsh was elected Supreme Regent and Miss Mary C. Duffy of Newark, N. J., was elected Vice Supreme Regent.

Police See Dangers In Hallowe'en Pranks

Thoughtless Hallowe'en pranks can cause widespread damage to property, can even cause death, and should be substituted by supervised parties in recreational centers or the home, police officers of Rochester declared on the School of the Air Program over Station WHEC yesterday afternoon.

Things he deems unimportant-like were pointed out by Chief of Police, Copenhagen.

"The practice of soaping windows of stores, houses and automobiles is very unimportant and often works a real hardship on the people who have to clean them. Soaping of windshields of autos is dangerous because in most cases the driver has no means to remove it, consequently the vision is impaired, he cannot see where he is going and may indirectly cause an accident.

"Damaging and destroying of property is nothing but vandalism or malicious mischief which may result in arrest of the parties concerned."

The Chief recalled arrests made last Hallowe'en and pointed out to children the stigma that attaches itself to the one arrested which hinders him or her in future life.

He suggested that parties being arranged by the Department of Parks and Playgrounds offer an opportunity for fun and entertainment and urged joining in the games at the various playgrounds and recreational centers.

School Officer Joseph G. Baglin stated that the turning in of false alarms endangers the life and property of all in the community.

"False alarms," he said, "strip certain areas of fire protection and since fire travels rapidly, many valuable seconds and minutes may be lost in getting other companies to the fire. Remember also that it costs the taxpayer, in this case, your father and mother on an average of fifty dollars in taxes for every alarm."
