Watching Sports Parade As It Passes Along

Old Man Adversity, who coaches the opposition against which the hopeful bowl-bound grid machines wage warfare each week-end, threw in a couple of last minute substitutes—the persons of the Weather twins, Rainy and Snowy last week, the idea being a threat to the heralded offensives of the Pittsburghs, Fordham, Villanova, Lafayette, Albritts and a few sundry others.

The net result of Mr. Adversity's strategy was a complete failure to eliminate any of the eastern contestants.

Of the Catholic colleges considered most eligible for bowl engagements, Santa Clara, Villanova, Fordham seem to enjoy the fewest light.

Western New York's Little Three Conference ended this year in a win for Niagara via a lateral pass from Canisius.

What's in a name? A braying hinman or a clever baller is just as sweet to a college football coach even if his name de gridiron happens to coincide with that of another college.
