Catholic May Be Envoy To Britain

Kennedy Mentioned; Would Be First U. S. Catholic In Post

WASHINGTON—Should the appointment of Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Maritime Commission, to the post of Ambassador to Great Britain be made, as is generally reported here, it will mark the first time in the history of the United States that this country has had a Catholic as its representative at the Court of St. James.

Mr. Kennedy likewise would be the first American of Irish parentage to be sent by this country as her ambassador to England. He himself is a prominent Catholic layman and married into a family whose every member—including Cardinal O'Connell, who officiated at the marriage in October, 1914, at Nassau Boulevard, daughter of former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, and an intimate friend of the bridegroom's family—is a devout Catholic. The wedding ceremony was performed by His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston. They have nine children, three of whom have been graduated from convents conducted by the Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

Mr. Kennedy was baptized in the Church of Our Lady of the Assumption, East Boston, and served as an altar boy there for years. He attended the private school conducted by the Sisters of Notre Dame of Namur, later to attend Boston Latin School and then Harvard.

Businessman of Kingdom

Mr. Kennedy and his sisters were educated at the Academy of the Sacred Heart at Lake Forest, Ill., a Protestant boarding school. Mrs. Kennedy's children have been in St. Margaret's Convent, Boston, while a Catholic boy the children of Charles Eliot Norton, who was a prominent member of the Unitarian church in Palm Beach, Fla., in memory of their mother, and made a $1,000 donation to that church.

During Lent Mr. Kennedy is known to attend Mass daily. His home life is totally Catholic. Mrs. Kennedy is the head of several Catholic groups and returns to Boston for charity benefits. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy gave to the parochial schools of the Archdiocese of Boston a yacht used to transport children to and from Fourth Day Retreat. This was long before the Holy Hospital Ship for the public schools.

Mr. Kennedy, who, although only 49 years of age, has had a picturesque and most successful career in banking and business and been prominently identified with the economic transformation, has recently been one of President Roosevelt's closest friends and advisers.

He launched into his career immediately after he was graduated from Harvard. When 24 years old, he became president of a small Boston bank in which his father was one of the principal stockholders, the youngest bank president in the country.

Wide Business Career

His post-business activity was in the shipbuilding industry as general manager of the Fore River, Mass., plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation. After a return to banking, he became associated with the theatrical and motion picture world. Holding executive posts in several of the large corporations.

In 1934 President Roosevelt appointed Mr. Kennedy to the Securities and Exchange Commission and he was selected as its chairman. He was credited with remarkably successful results in his organization of that governmental agency. Resigning at his own request, he returned to private banking and was engaged in that work when the President again drafted him to take over the organization of the newly-created Maritime Commission.

At the time of Mr. Kennedy's appointment to the SEC post, Brother Benjamin, C.F.X., of St. Xavier High School, Louisville, who had taught him for six years in the Assumption parish school, recalled him as "a born leader," "a wonderful boy in school" and as a good athlete.

and thinkers of the world eagerly awaited his first message.

Pope Dismayed

"The keynote of his message as he surveyed the world at large and mindful of his overwhelming and unsought responsibility was a feeling of dismay at the realization that the philosophy of Christ was disappearing from many parts of the world.

"Our day to day relations with our neighbors showed little regard for the words of Christ. His representatives were not included in the councils of the leaders of the world and heads of families were neglecting the teachings of Christ.

"Reviewing the whole gamut of world affairs he found one outstanding condition—he found a neglect of Christ. It so shocked him that he said 'I fear that some awful catastrophe will befall us if the philosophy of Christ is not raised to its former standing'

Praises Work

"Tonight we are gathered here to congratulate this great organization for its accomplishments, accomplishments prompted by the spirit of Christ. They organized to carry out Christ's teachings and that is what they are doing.

"Christ's picture of the hereafter was drawn largely from the scene he is enacted in the Day of Judgment when He will say:

"'Come ye blessed of My Father, Possess ye the Kingdom prepared for all eternity; for I was hungry and you gave Me to eat, I was naked and you clothed Me, I was in prison and you visited Me.'

"I congratulate you of the Catholic Charities for trying to keep Christ in the minds of all and for presenting the second commandment, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself'."

Welcomed by Mayor

Before the address Mayor J. Maxwell Moore welcomed the new Bishop to Elmira and on behalf of the city praised the Catholic Charities for the work of mercy and full-hearted co-operation with other agencies.

Miss Mary B. Fitzgerald, executive director of Catholic Charities, described the functions of the organization and the part it played in the community's charitable work.

Helped 1,614 Persons

"Christ said, 'Who is my neighbor?'" she declared.

"It says the Catholic Charities. Our neighbors are those friends who come to Catholic Charities for aid. Last year we helped 402 families comprising 1,614 worthy people, who were victims of unfortunate and unalterable circumstances.

"We were charitable then and will be again to the hundreds who are now seeking our help and understanding."

Thanks Chest

She said, "I can only say thank you," to the Community Chest, its directors and personnel and other welfare agencies for your wonderful help and co-operation. "You, too, are seeking to meet the needs of and to know your neighbors," she concluded.

Toastmaster William Flannery expressed the regrets of the Rt. Rev. Mgr. John J. Lee, V.F., who was indisposed and unable to attend and also from the Rev. J. J. Moriarty, who had been called from the city.

"The Catholic Charities is extremely fortunate in having such a wonderful spiritual father and guide as Monsignor Lee," he declared.

He thanked Attorney Cornelius O'Dea on behalf of Catholic Charities for his "untiring work and loyal co-operation to our great cause."

After the banquet many of the 275 present were introduced to Bishop Kearney. He remained overnight as the guest of Monsignor Lee. The Bishop was accompanied by his secretary, the Rev. Lawrence Casey.

The Rev. Gerald C. Lambert, diocesan director of Catholic Charities, and the Rev. Hubert A. Binsky, Director of the Family and Child Placing Division, Catholic Charities of Rochester and of the Binsky Catholic Service Society, Inc., both of Rochester, attended the banquet.

GROUPS PROTEST RADIO PROGRAM

over a National Broadcasting Company hook-up presented a most indecent and irreverent program. To offer such a program on Sunday evening seems to be adding insult to injury.

"After so affronting the women who stand for the sanctity of home life, the announcer requests their patronage by the purchase of Chase & Sanborn Coffee.

"Protest has gone from National Council Headquarters to the National Broadcasting Company, to the Federal Communications Commission and to the offending firm, Chase & Sanborn. We would suggest that each of our affiliated organizations send similar protests."

Letter To Editors

Dr. Sheehy called upon Catholic editors to register protest against the broadcast. His letter said:

"May I solicit your editorial support on a matter I consider of grave importance at this time when religious ideals and moral standards are being openly flaunted in the press, on the screen, and over the radio?

"On Sunday evening over a national hook-up, the Chase and Sanborn Company presented the most indecent, scurrilous, and religiously irreverent program that it has been my misfortune to hear. The program presented Mae West in a version of the Garden of Eden . . .

"If we are to maintain any standard of decency in radio broadcasting," his letter said, "it is incumbent upon Catholic editors, pastors, and teachers to bring to the attention of the manager of this program the gravity of their offense. May I suggest that you editorially comment on this program in the next issue of your paper? If you so desire, you are at liberty to use this letter."
