

featured

Stuart-Oliver-Holtz Co.
Manufacturers of Metal Specialties

this week

Best Restaurant in Western N. Y.

THE Spa

46 MAIN ST. BATAVIA

Look for the White Sign

G. H. Humbert JEWELER

Watch—Clock & Jewelry
Repairing
Diamond Setting Engraving
WATCHES, DIAMONDS,
CLOCKS, ROSARIES,
CROSSES, WEDDING
RINGS

8 NORTH STREET

Washers - Ironers - Cleaners
Refrigerators - Stoves

Washer Service Shop
SALES—SERVICE—PARTS
For All Make Appliances

MAIN 5826

Estimate Free

860 CLINTON AVE. N.
Opp St. Michael's Church

Helen Murphy's BABY FOODS

"Everything for a Perfect Diet"

District - Wholesale - Retail
Special Introductory Offer
Write for 174 to FREE
Samples

880 No. Goodman, Rochester

TIRE Repair and Retread Specialist

Let us retread your worn tires
Hesper - non-slip tread
Most Modern Machinery
Bring your tire troubles to NEIDINGER'S

150 Broad St., near Washington

GLEN 6771

TownTalk Bakery

601-607 Pullman Avenue
Every Day We Go Your Way

Fill Your Bin Now

On Our
Low Budget
Plan

Call Gena 1853

KLEER ICE CO.
Coal—Coke—Fuel Oil

WATCHES AND DIAMONDS

The Right Time with the Right Diamonds

D. E. COVILL
Jeweler
SENECA HOTEL ARCADE

We Call for and Deliver
Promptly

Guarantee Bedding Co.

Manufacturers and Wholesalers of
BOX SPRINGS, MATTRESSES
PILLOWS and CUSHIONS

45 Champlain St. Phone Gen. 5524

PAUL GOTHAM

Fast Freight Lines

All Points Through N. Y. State
30 NORTH 1ST ST., ROCHESTER
Stone 2192 Culver 2893

HANS ELECTRIC CO.
109 NORTH ST.

Industrial and Commercial
Wiring, New and Reconditioned Motors

STONE 1027

COLUMBIA MARKET
412 Genee St.

FRED EASTMAN, Mgr.

Quality Meats to Satisfy the Palate
and the Pocketbook

Young Music Student Has Courage Tested in New Serial

The Boy Who Couldn't Fight - - By W. BOYCE MORGAN

INSTALLMENT I

PHILIP BENNING was standing at the door of the trolley car as it moved down the street. He had a most unusual look about him. He was a young man, about 17 years of age, with a face that was pale and thin. He was wearing a dark suit and a white shirt with a dark tie. He was looking at the people who were getting on and off the trolley with a look of intense interest.

He resumed his music carelessly, and hit the boy across the face.

The next half hour, Philip knew, was to be the most important in his whole life. Professor Frank, the greatest piano teacher in the city, had consented to hear him play. If Philip convinced him that he had exceptional talent, that he might some day be a concert pianist, the Professor would accept him as a pupil.

Philip took a tighter grip on the keys. He had never played before. Ever since his mother had told him, three days previously, that the Professor had given him a chance, he had been practicing. He had practiced morning, afternoon, and night until he knew that he could play the music in his case perfectly.

As he hurried along Tycart street he glanced around him with growing interest. A funny neighborhood for a great piano teacher to live in! Almost shabby, in fact. But Professor Frank didn't care any more about the house he lived in. Philip decided—or about anything else, except music. That was his hobby, why he was so good.

Philip planned at a house which was in need of paint, searching for the number. There it was—he had at least four more blocks to go. Well, no matter. He had plenty of time.

Almost to the next corner, however, he suddenly became aware of a group of boys lounging on the sidewalk in front of him. They were a half dozen of them, and they seemed to be playing some sort of a game with three sticks. As he approached, he saw one of the boys pick up one of the sticks with the other two and toss it into the air. The stick flew straight at Philip's face. He tried to duck, but he was too late. The stick struck him on the forehead and he fell back.

Philip's face went a sickly white. He extended his hand, offering the stick to the boy. "I didn't mean to spoil anything. I just saw it flying at me, and caught it without thinking."

"What you got there?" he demanded, pointing to the leather case in Philip's hand.

ing and trembling from head to foot. He pushed the doorbell, fighting to get control of himself. A maid answered the door, and he managed to tell her who he was. She looked at him queerly, then offered him a chair in a side room. He sank into it, fighting for breath.

He was still shaken and trembling when the maid returned five minutes later and said that Professor Frank was ready for him. He followed the maid back into the hall. She opened a door for him, and he walked through it into Professor Frank's studio.

The first thing he saw was a big concert grand piano in a far corner. This the Professor came around the piano and walked toward him, smiling and bowing. The Professor was tall, well-dressed, and had a very kind face. He was a short, crisp, putchlike fellow, dressed like any business man, except for a soft flowing black tie.

"What you got there?" he demanded, pointing to the leather case in Philip's hand.

"My music," Philip replied.

"Your music?" the other boy mocked. "Well, well! Is the big guy going to take a music lesson?"

Philip's heart sank, and he felt his muscles trembling. He knew he was in a bad situation. This other boy was tough by his face and his actions proved that. And evidently he was looking for trouble.

Philip was frightened—thoroughly frightened. Fighting was something he knew absolutely nothing about, and for the last few years, since he had started studying music, he had taken part in no sports of any kind. A sissy? That's what the other boy had called him. The other boy was probably right, but Philip had no time to think about that. All he knew was that he had to get past the boy some way—get to Professor Frank.

He stepped toward the outer edge of the sidewalk. The boy stepped with him, his hand on his hip.

Please let me go, said Philip pleadingly. I'm going to be late.

Please let me go, said Philip pleadingly. I'm going to be late.

Philip passed the next street, running with all his strength, while his breath tore from his lungs in great sobs. They were gaining on him. Then he saw a man stuck up in the tiny trap of a big rambling house a short distance ahead. That was Professor Frank's house! He could only make it, he'd be safe!

He put every ounce of effort he could muster into those last few rods. Even so, he could hear those pursuing footsteps pounding only a few feet behind him as he dashed past the sign across the lawn, and up on the porch at the door he turned. The group of boys had stopped at the edge of the lawn and were regarding him menacingly.

Philip got to his feet. "But Professor Frank," he said desperately, "I can do better than that!"

Philip got to his feet. "But Professor Frank," he said desperately, "I can do better than that!"

Philip got to his feet. "But Professor Frank," he said desperately, "I can do better than that!"

Philip got to his feet. "But Professor Frank," he said desperately, "I can do better than that!"

Philip got to his feet. "But Professor Frank," he said desperately, "I can do better than that!"

Philip got to his feet. "But Professor Frank," he said desperately, "I can do better than that!"

Philip got to his feet. "But Professor Frank," he said desperately, "I can do better than that!"

Posers

Here are eight questions for you to answer. If you can't answer them, your answers be exactly like those given, but you should have them substantially correct to get full credit. Good luck!

1. What is an aviary?
2. What character in one of Mark Twain's books induced the boys to whitewash the fence for him?
3. What are fish eggs called?
4. What letters stand for the degree of doctor of medicine?
5. What is a pygmy?
6. Who wrote "Treasure Island"?
7. What letters represent the space in a bar of music?
8. Who built a boat on the top of a hill miles from the sea?

IN THE STATE OF QUIET

Old Colored Mammy: "Is wants a ticket for Florence?"
Ticket Agent (after searching the map for ten minutes): "I can't find Florence on the map."
Old Colored Mammy: "She ain't on de map. She's settin' ovah dar on de bench."

IT MIGHT BE

Susie: "Will you join me in a cup of tea?"
Sammie: "Ah, thank you, but wouldn't it be a bit crowded?"

Named Anthropological Official
New Haven Conn. The Rev. Dr. John M. Cooper, of the Catholic University of America, was elected a Vice-President of the American Anthropological Association at its meeting here this week.

The cat and the love you gave away come back to you. - O'Neal.
It is to tell it, because words are unnecessary. - O'Malley.

TOMORROW'S PROSPERITY

A fixed plan is as necessary to waiting on in the world as a blue print in building a home, or a road map in taking a journey.

Your after year our customers ask for copies of our budget book, which we gladly give to all those who prefer skillful to haphazard reasoning.

Come in today for your copy of this book. It is called—"The Philosopher's Stone."

Rochester Savings Bank

47 W. MAIN ST. Two Offices - 40 FRANKLIN ST.

1837—More Than 200 Years of Service—1938

See us first

KA-A-A-CHOO!

THERE ARE many ILL winds these days, and they blow no good. Chills and fevers, coughs and sneezes, are all-too-frequent,—unless you are prepared to ward them off. A medicine chest full of standard remedies may save sickness and expense. Another reason why you should GO FIRST TO YOUR PARISH DRUGGIST.

Nestle's Economy Bars

2 for 25c

ITALIAN BALM

25c FITCH'S SHAMPOO BOTH 59c

SQUIBB'S COD LIVER OIL - 79c

100 BAYER ASPIRIN - 59c

WAMPOLES EXTRACT - 79c

$1.50 ARGAROL - $1.09

60c PINEX - 39c

60c JERGENS LOTION - 39c

50c AQUA VELVA - 39c

50c PABLUM - 39c

$1.00 MENNENS BABY OIL - 89c

35c VICK'S VAPOR RUB - 27c

15c FOUR WAY COLD TABLETS - 9c

100 HALIVER OIL CAPSULES $1.19

$1.00 NUJOL - 59c

$1.25 PETROLOGAR - 89c

60c REM - 49c

500 Sheets

Cleansing Tissues 19c

Pound of HOSPITAL COTTON 29c

MARK'S PHARMACY

Prescription Experts
1000 East Ave. Near White St. Rochester, N. Y. Mon. 1723

FLANNERY DRUG CO.

In the City Building
117 N. CLINTON AVE. - PHONE 90

FRANK'S DRUG STORE

We Deliver
47 Plymouth Street
Genoa 2717

HEATH'S PHARMACY

517 THURBON ROAD
TWIN LAKES, NEW YORK
We Deliver Genoa 3724

L'AMAY DRUG CO.

1000 East Ave. Near White St. Rochester, N. Y. Mon. 1723

G. J. LEWIS & CO.

Prescription Specialists
Genoa St. at Brooks Ave.
Gen 2445-FREE-DELIVERY-Gen 2724

MANDELL'S PHARMACY

Prescription Experts
Portland & Norton
MAIN 6001 and 6471

MARK'S PHARMACY

Prescription Experts
1000 East Ave. Near White St. Rochester, N. Y. Mon. 1723

SWARTZ'S

CLINTON SQUARE
Gen 2445-FREE-DELIVERY-Gen 2724

Pointers on Pets

By Horace Mitchell

GUINEA PIGS

RETA Jeffers, one of our readers, asked for this information, and I'll let them have a few more of you who can use it right now.

Guinea pigs are easy to keep and a lot of fun to have. They are very tame and do simple tricks. And some have made the beginnings of a good little business by selling them for pets or for biological experiments.

So long as you keep your cages in dry quarters they'll be very rugged and hardy. They are hard to kill and they are very hard to keep.

Need Little Room
Cages don't need much room. A coop two feet wide by three feet long and a foot high is large enough for three or four young ferrets, a rabbit and their children and so on. Having a shelf about two inches off the floor at the back of the cage is an animal's place to sleep. They seem to like a "upper berth" and the mother and young will go under each other.

Feed them the same as rabbits. A dish of clean water every day is small enough for them to chew, and a piece of rock salt kept good in the bottom of the floor and their ears keep all filled up. Hay is good for them, and so are almost all kinds of green stuff. Feed them both if you want to, during the winter.

And, by the way, don't let people fool you even if they don't intend to buy any. Guinea pigs breed so fast that you'll be over-crowded with them in a few months. They average about three to a litter and can have up to five litters a year. The young are ready to be weaned usually at about three weeks. They're born with their eyes open and with bodies all furred.

Feed them the same as rabbits. A dish of clean water every day is small enough for them to chew, and a piece of rock salt kept good in the bottom of the floor and their ears keep all filled up. Hay is good for them, and so are almost all kinds of green stuff. Feed them both if you want to, during the winter.

And, by the way, don't let people fool you even if they don't intend to buy any. Guinea pigs breed so fast that you'll be over-crowded with them in a few months. They average about three to a litter and can have up to five litters a year. The young are ready to be weaned usually at about three weeks. They're born with their eyes open and with bodies all furred.

And, by the way, don't let people fool you even if they don't intend to buy any. Guinea pigs breed so fast that you'll be over-crowded with them in a few months. They average about three to a litter and can have up to five litters a year. The young are ready to be weaned usually at about three weeks. They're born with their eyes open and with bodies all furred.

Try Novel Plans for Choosing Partners at Your Next Big Party

Have you ever been to a party where the hostess had a bad time pairing the boys and girls off for refreshments? Well here are a few novel ways for you to choose partners at your next party.

Hang a sheet in a double doorway just high enough to show the girl's feet. Stand the girls behind the sheet and have the boys walk in front and choose their partners from the sheet which are all the same.

Another way is to write the names of famous lovers on a piece of paper and have the girls to the left and the names of the boys to the right. Then the girls take their names and have the boys walk in front and choose their partners from the sheet which are all the same.

If you are giving a party and you have a large number of guests, you can have a "partner" game. At the end of the party, have the boys get up and move one place to the right. Then have the girls do the same. This will give you a goodly number of new partners.

And, by the way, don't let people fool you even if they don't intend to buy any. Guinea pigs breed so fast that you'll be over-crowded with them in a few months. They average about three to a litter and can have up to five litters a year. The young are ready to be weaned usually at about three weeks. They're born with their eyes open and with bodies all furred.

Kay's Corner

By Katherine Houston

PERSONAL STATIONERY

It's just ordinary stationery, but you give your own personal touch by adding a design which expresses your hobby, your desire, your ideals!

If you're interested in sports, use a skating or skiing design; if your ambition is to travel, use an airplane or boat; if you love gardening, use flowers.

There is no denying the happiness that will come to you later in life because of musical talent. The person who can play an instrument well is always doubly welcome to friends and associates. And the time to learn to play the piano or any other instrument is when you are young. Later you will have so many other things to do that the time will be lacking.

Therefore if you have any musical talent, and have the chance to develop it, resolve to overcome your dislike of practicing. Nothing worthwhile in music or anything else, is obtained without hard work. And in this particular field, perseverance will surely be well rewarded.

YOU MUST PRACTICE

BOYS and girls who take music lessons almost always hate to practice. They would like to be able to play, but the long hours of uninteresting scales by which their hands are drudgery. Many of them never develop their musical ability just because of this dislike of hard work.

There is no denying the happiness that will come to you later in life because of musical talent. The person who can play an instrument well is always doubly welcome to friends and associates. And the time to learn to play the piano or any other instrument is when you are young. Later you will have so many other things to do that the time will be lacking.

Therefore if you have any musical talent, and have the chance to develop it, resolve to overcome your dislike of practicing. Nothing worthwhile in music or anything else, is obtained without hard work. And in this particular field, perseverance will surely be well rewarded.

designs, and so on. It will be much more personal than anything you can buy, and you'll enjoy "designing" it for your friends and members of the family.

use either India ink or poster colors to fill in the designs, but be sure to use a fine pen.