THE ADVENTURES OF PETER PEN

The gang have been kept prisoners in the City of Gold. We are still shy one member of our little band. Hany, He has been gone for some time, and we have had no word of his whereabouts.

We are now being conducted to stand trial, charged with helping Hany to escape his marriage with the villain lady. We really had nothing to do with it, but are helpless to defend ourselves.

Standing before the great judge, we hear the charge read. We wait anxiously for our fate, but there is something familiar about the judge's face. Why, it is Hany!

How funny he looks in this new garb. And that hat! His top player looks like a star of diamonds. He smiles a greeting to us and demands from his golden throne "Hello," he cries.

Our guard is amazed. "I release these prisoners," says Hany, "and demand safe conduct for them to their homes, where they shall enjoy health and happiness as long as they live."

Unwelcome Visitors

By W. BOYCE MORGAN

As soon as he left the shop he stopped in the nearest drug store and secured a telephone directory. After a moment he located the number and called it. A feminine voice answered and when he asked for Mr. Wheeler she inquired who was calling. He gave his name without any hope that the important public official would actually call on him.

But a moment later he heard a crisp, decisive voice on the other end of the wire. Dan put his lips close to the mouthpiece.

Mr. Wheeler, he said, "I want to see you, where you are now, trying to wipe out all the racketeers in the city."

"That's right."

"Well, I'm a boy working in a tailor shop down on Wade Street. A couple of hard guys are trying to make my boss pay them 40 a week for protection and I wondered if you couldn't do something about it."

"You bet, I can," the voice replied. "If you'll just come to my office tomorrow and tell me all about it."

Dan interrupted to explain why this was impossible. The voice was silent for a moment, then it said, "Could you come out to my home tonight? I could see you about 9 o'clock."

Why yes, replied Dan, somewhat startled at the suggestion. Sure, I can do that.

"Good. I'll look for you at 9 o'clock."

Dan hung up the receiver and left the booth breathing rapidly on his excitement. He hurried home to the shabby three-story apartment building in which he lived had his supper, changed to his best clothes and then tried to fall asleep at 8 o'clock. He figured it would take him almost an hour to walk to the boulevard get a bus make one change, and reach the district attorney's house by nine.

He was there on the dot. District Attorney Wheeler lived in a substantial stone house on a nice residential street. A maid answered the door took his name and immediately ushered him into a small study lined with bookshelves. A tall, lean man with a square jaw rose from a desk examined him with keen eyes and stretched out a hand.

"Come in my boy," he said. "Sit down and let's have the whole story."

Dan seated himself in a leather chair and told every detail of the racketeers' visits and their demands. Mr. Wheeler listened intently, fully, then was absent for a moment after Dan had finished.

"This is a new one on me," he admitted. "I thought I had a line on every racket being run in town, but perhaps my men missed this one. I'll make sure of it. In the morning, meanwhile, you might ask some of the other tailors in the neighborhood if they have been approached. They'll tell you more readily than they'll talk to my men, and we want to keep this thing quiet. Mr. Roden's protection."

Dan thanked Mr. Wheeler, shook hands with him again and left evasive over what he had accomplished. He had trouble making connections on the way home and it was close to midnight when he left the bus on the boulevard and started down Wade Street toward the tailor shop.

Then he stopped with a startled gasp. A man was walking slowly past the shop peering in and Dan recognized him as the larger of the two racketeers.

To Be Continued Next Week

Three K. C. Teams Tie in Pin Race

Some Austing with a 276 high game hit a 643 total in the Knights of Columbus Bowling League Monday night at Columbus Civic Centre alleys.

Indians and Pirates went into the for first place Monday night with the Klutas by winning three games apiece from the Pirates and the Klutas. The Klutas won two games from the Indians while the Pirates took the odd game from the Pirates.

High scores of the evening were Austing 276, Ward 237, 202, Stanick 223, Monhart, 229, Klein, 214, Ed-sche-nemann, 202, 204, Le-link, 301, Dr. O'Sullivan, 225, Metel, 208, Scholard, 203, Stant, 202, Kan-ner, 202 and Masucci, 204.

St. John's Holy Name Bowling League

The past week has shown little change in the standings of the teams of St. John's Evangelist Holy Name Society Bowling League. Notre Dame and Georgetown changed places.

Marquette defeated Georgetown, Notre Dame, St. Mary's in three games each, while Fordham defeated Niagara in two games out of three.

High single game rolled by Mostyn with a score of 224. High three games was taken by Ven-burg with 556 as against the totals of 545 for Mostyn and 540 for McGee.

Catholic Bowling League

Falling off their championship pace in the Catholic Bowling League the St. Michaels five lost a pair of games to the up and coming Holy R. A. No. 2 team. Losing one game by two pins and the last game by 34 St. Michaels could not maintain their weekly pace.

Against this week the Holy R. A. No. 2 team were off form. Only five men hit the rimples for a total of 900 or more. DeHass of the Mt. Carmel team, scored a good 648 with games of 195, 234 and 219. Other select bowlers were (Smith) 624, Scheider 616, Mc Weber, 600, and Scheid 608.

Mt. Carmel took the odd game from St. Boniface Keglers. Holy Rosary swept the first two games over the St. Ambrose five but lost out in the last game of the week.

St. John's lost the first game of the evening to Holy R. A. No. 2, but hit their stride in next two games to come out on top. Curran, Christi also had to come from behind to give Margaret Mary's a two game setback. Inmate's conception took St. Mary's over the hurdles twice in their three games.

The St. Michaels maple boppers in their second game of the evening hit the rimples for a grand total of 1041. Only one man hit below 200 in this outstanding game of the week-end. Scores:

H. R. A. No. 2: ST. MICHAELS 195, 234, 219, 648. Holy Rosary: 624, 616, 600, 608. St. Boniface: 624, 616, 600, 608. Holy Rosary: 624, 616, 600, 608. St. Boniface: 624, 616, 600, 608.

Merrimac Center

A rare treat is in store for Merrimac Center men and children ages ten to one hundred when "Batter Up," official American League Baseball Pictures will be shown on Monday March 14 at 7:15 sharp. Mr. Arthur Charney of the Rochester Red Wing management has made it possible for thirty-five minute talks to be presented with several hundred men and boys. The pictures are expected to take advantage of this opportunity.

The American Red Cross First Aid class which had been organized with a membership of 27 youths has had to be discontinued because of inability of the instructor to come to the Institute for the class. It is hoped that the Red Cross will be able to furnish another instructor in the near future.

ARROW "Pick-Ups"

Pick and "Pick-Ups" are the "Trump" you're right with either— or both! But a real faultlessly white, and stay that way through many launderings. Both are Millogan-cut for perfect fit and comfort. Both are Sanforized-shrink. Both have the famous Arrow attention to important little details of tailoring.

WHITE and/or FANCY

$2

Arrow fancies have converted more die-hard "suits" than any other. Because they're different without being conspicuous. Not good-looking but not good-looking. The sort of shirt you really care for. Dressers who give you quality that copied fancies can't quite look like.

And "Ski-Town" Neckwear

Nobody has yet found a substitute for satin for richness in necktie—and Ski-Town ties have led the field for years. Decapitely soft, because they pay no attention at all to the knots and "wreaking" rich in color, blossoming for spring in a bright, cheerful assortment of favored STRIPES!
