IN ONE WE CARE

Two big news stories broke at WHAM last week. It was announced that Rochester's 50,000-watt station was to start carrying programs of the NBC Red Network of the National Broadcasting Company and that Harry McTigue was to do a sports review in addition to his regular duties as baseball announcer.

Besides carrying the regular Blue Network programs of the National Broadcasting Company, WHAM now has the pleasure of offering to its listening public many of the highlights of the NBC-Red Network.

Among the first programs of the Red Net to be offered by WHAM were the Chase and Sanborn Hour starring Charlie McCarthy, Bing Crosby program and the popular Good News of 1938 show.

As for Harry McTigue—last year he made baseball history in Rochester. By popular demand he is again doing baseball for WHAM. In addition to his duties as baseball announcer, Harry now has the honor of being known as "Your Soccer Sports Reporter" six days a week Monday through Saturday. Harry will be on the air at 6:30 P. M., EST, with latest news of the sporting world. His knowledge of the amateur and professional sporting circles gives him ideal background to speak in an authoritative way regarding happenings in the world of athletes. Congratulations, Harry.

"Listen to the chant of the tobacco auctioneer! Most everyone has heard the auctioneer's chant and has probably wondered just what the speed-speaker is saying. Here is a so-called look behind the scene in slow-motion the monotone chant sounds something like this: 4-38-35-39-44. (mer recitation of bid and bid ready-ditty-do ditty-ditty-do) (an alliterative mouthful meaning "ditto").

For a good example of how the chant should sound when you become expert listen to "Ray Kyser's Musical Kluge and Dance" which will be broadcast on the NBC Red Net. The signatory chant is done by Forest Boone and L. A. (Speed) Riggs.

Linton Wells, roving reporter for the Magic Key of RCA, now on a 30,000-mile tour of Latin America has to travel an average distance of approximately 2,304 miles for each of the broadcasts he makes during the Magic Key programs Sundays at 1:00 P. M. Each of the six continents that he visits represents a journey of 384 miles.

Did you know that Death Valley Days have been on the air for more than seven and one-half years? The true stories of Death Valley, used on the radio during that time have covered more square miles than the valley itself actually contains. Material for the weekly dramatic program is gathered from desert rats, clergymen, store keepers, and all the other people who musty records of the past. To obtain the material special writers make visits to the famous valley and conduct personal interviews with residents of the locale.

Do you want a Mexican juvenile or a Chinese ingenue? The National Broadcasting Company can deliver one at a moment's notice. Or if not the actual product, a good imitation. There are two articles which are essential in the files at the NBC New York headquarters in Radio City.

When an actor is found to be satisfactory in his audition, his name is placed in one of seven books kept in the office of William S. Eastman, head of the NBC Production Division. Each book is split into various classifications so that all a casting director or producer, for instance, has to do is turn first to the book entitled "Mexican Juveniles" and there, under Mexican names, he will find actors who have mastered the dialect.

Although there are receivers made for the home a few television sets are being sold in New York City. While there are no objections, have imported British receivers and had them rebuilt to American standards of television. The National Broadcasting Company television officials have been receiving letters of praise from these owners for the quality of broadcasts over the NBC experimental transmitter W2XBS in the Empire State tower. Numerous radio "harm" also said to be busy building receivers to intercept the NBC programs in the metropolitan area.

Vacation time has arrived at WHAM and two announcers are already away on trips. Jack Lee drives to Florida and your humble correspondent starts his vacation with a honeymoon. WHAM staffers will enjoy much of the country during the summer months. The favorite vacation idea is to travel to a new section of the country and then try and get back in time to resume work. Several of the engineers have hinted that they plan on staying home and devoting their time to sailing.

Benedict Ehnman, both the clergy and the lay members have taken three courses in Gregorian music at the Plus X School of Liturgical Music at Manhattanville College and Fordham University.

Students in Cap and Gown

The 250 students in cap and gown proceeded by acolytes and cross bearers will lead in the procession. These will be followed by the lay faculty, the religious and clerical faculty.

The efficiency Bishop Kearney will officiate of the Mass will close the procession.

Several features of this colorful and highly impressive ceremony have been suggested by the Bishop.

Ten college students in cap and gown will act as ushers.

The Baccalaureate address will be given by the Rev. Cannon Ryan, chaplain of the Newman Club at Syracuse University. At the close of the Mass, the President of the Senior Class will place roses at the feet of Our Lady's statue to symbolize the affection and devotion of the class about to be graduated to Mary, the perfect model of Christian womanhood.

The recessional will be in the same order as on entering the church.

The climax of the scholastic year will be the closing of the Commencement Exercises with Commencement Exercises on the College Campus.

56 in Class

3,000 Students Here For First Mission Rally

About 3,000 students of Catholic schools in the diocese have a deeper appreciation of the Church's mission process following the first Mission Crusade Rally held at Aquinas Institute on Thursday of last week.

From all parts of the diocese these students came to participate in events of the day opening with a Solemn Pontifical First Mass celebrated by the Most Rev. John Collins, Bishop of Liberia, Africa.

The Rev. Daniel O'Rourke was assistant priest at the Mass. The Rev. Dr. Edward J. Byrne and the Rev. Martin Durkin, C.M., were deacons of honor; the Rev. Hugh Hatley, C.S.B., was deacon; the Rev. John M. Duffy, assistant pastor of St. John's, was master of ceremonies; the Rev. Edgar Lyons, assistant master of ceremonies.

Set Up Program

Members of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade students pledged themselves that they should emphasize the spiritual as well as the monetary side of the mission work. They voted that a definite day be chosen for the month for prayer for the missions and that efforts would be made to form a Veteran Unit in the Rochester diocese.

In other resolutions it was voted that the Mission Units form groups of five members each; apart from among them the deacons of the Rosary daily in an effort to combat Communism; that officers of the local Conference be instructed to make necessary plans for a similar Mission Day, and that they show the negro by their actions at all times that he is worthy of the students' love and consideration in the way that Christ would wish it.

Bishop Gives Benediction

The day's events were brought to a fitting close by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament with His Excellency, Bishop Kearney officiating. The Bishop was assisted by the Rev. William Burns of Elmire Catholic High School and the Rev. William Davis of Auburn Catholic High School.

Bishop Kearney conferred the Award of the Palatin Grand Cross of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade on the Rev. John S. Randall, diocesan director, Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

In recognition of notable proficiency and marked leadership in the C. S. M. C. program, the Leadership Jewel of the Order of Palatin was awarded by the President and Executive Board was given to Eileen Kelly, Nazareth College, Edward McAniff, St. Andrew's Seminary, Martin M.H. Aquinas Institute, and Frances O'Reilly, Academy of the Sacred Heart.

In the principal address the Rev. Rev. Edward A. Froking of Cincinnati, national secretary-treasurer of the C. S. M. C. called upon Catholic youth to spur both Communism and Fascism.

"People think that American youth must embrace Communism or Fascism," said Monsignor Froking. "Catholic youth definitely are determined not to embrace either one. Democracy can stay only by living up to democratic principles."

In the sermon at the Mass, the Rev. Martin J. Watley, diocesan director, Society for the Propagation of the Faith in Syracuse diocese said: "Every nation when it is the latest and greatest of great nations should spread it into other nations."

Exhibits in the school gymnasium graphically depicted the work in the medical missions as well as
