He is an unusual radio man who doesn't know a good story about Ransom Sherman, master of ceremonies of the Club Matince that popular program of nonsense lapsing oddly enough into sense every once in a winile, which you hear over WHAM-Blue Network . . This one is told by Jack Kennedy, Commercial

Manager for WHAM. It seems that Jack and Mr. Fay, manager of WHAM, were attending the Clear Channel Conference held in Chicago recently A great many important radio men from all over the country in fact, most of the big stations in the United States were represented. In the course of events, the National Broadcasting Company invited the boys over to the Palmer House for a friendly dinner meeting Although it had been wisely advertised that there would be no after dinner speaker the president rose and apologetically announced that a man had come into his office in the afternoon and demanded to speak A representative of the Mexican Covernment. Whereupon, he introduced a slightly stoutsh man with a roly-poly face In a rasping voice he began to speak, de-

He accused the American readto stations of completely blotting out his country's stations with their high power and announced that the Mexican government had made plans to build a number of super power stations The radio moguis were breathsess as they waited for him to announce the wave lengths Super power station on their wave length would annihilate their coverage, especially those stations in the south As the dead-panned stranger proceeded with his vituperative accusation of the diabolic policies of American Broadcasting stations, the men began to squirm

when he slowly announced the wave lengths of Mexico's raew super power stations their mouths fell agape Out of about twenty, nineteen of the proposed units would have wave lengths exactly the same as nineteen big United States, stations, representat the dinner These men what. ened with rage some reddened with apoplectic faces others

An announcer on any one NBC's affiliated stations might conceivably be seated in a B & O diner in the near future The porter may ring a call to dinmer Odds are that said announcer will give a start of surprise and recognition. For the call to din-ner will be the same as the call to duty In short, the B & O Railroad Company has, with the the National ermission of Broadcasting Company, adopted the familiar NBC chimes as the dinner call. Since on NBC affiliates those three notes are always a signal for a station announcement, our mythical announcer might very well be excused for jumping
