PERNICIOUS INFLUENCE OF MOVIES STRESSED

(From St. Anthony's Bulletin—translated by the Rev. W. L. Atwater.)

Let us return to the argument which in obedience to the directions of the Supreme Pontiff, we discussed a few months back. Then we dwell on the pernicious influence of the bad motion picture. Now the Balaian, Don E. Marrese, professor at the Catholic University of Santiago (Chile), points out that many movies while not completely bad, are also dangerous and must be guarded against.

Let us summarize the article which appeared in the "Conservateur Romano," although we regret that for lack of space we cannot reproduce it entirely. Have Had Effect The luxurious lives of the women represented in the films, the comforts surrounding screen artists, the fantasy of the dance, what bad impressions all these exert on the mass of spectators, especially on the young!

The profound contrast between their own condition and that of the motion picture stars, renders the actual life of the spectators more onerous. These impressions sow deep into the hearts of the audience inordinate desires, the longing for elegant clothes, the desire for amusement, illicit romances, but these desires cannot be satisfied by lawful means. How then shall they be satisfied? Many times these desires are satisfied in devious ways. The thoughts of the spectators turn to crime. They steal, they sell their honor, behold the bitter fruit of the cinema!
