Vacations . . .

It ought to be very nice weather next week—no-one from the announcing staff of WHAM will be away on vacation . . . . Most of the boys have either sweltered or were rained out. . . But this week it is certain to be fine weather. . .

Two vacations were used for honeymoon purposes this year. Art Kelly, publicity director, announcer and my honorable predecessor on this pillar, took his bride and vacation earlier in the summer. Since he only took one week, however, he gets another week beginning August 21. Tom Murray has been taking his in one lump—also honeymooning—and will be back Sunday.

Al Sisson will be away for two weeks beginning August 21. In his absence the Esso News will be carried on by Jack Ross who did Tom Murray's trick.

Dick Brown will leave August 28 to be gone for two weeks

Jack Lee, Lew Stark, and Ken Loyson have settled down to serious work, after two weeks each of vacation earlier in the

Tosci Comes Back Soon:

Arturo Toscanini, affectionately called "Tosci" by a well known show magazine, is scheduled early in October to resume his broadcasts with the NBC Symphony Orchestra.

The NBC Symphony Orchestra has won world acclaim in its first year of existence. Time Magazine rated it recently as the fourth best symphony orchestra in the world. Boston rates first, the New York Philharmonic second, and the Philadelphia Symphony third, according to Time. The first concert of the orchestra's second season will be held October 15th, with the arrival of the famous conductor scheduled for a few days earlier in order to conduct rehearsals.

Speed Demons

Rochester's Bill DeVries will be experiencing perhaps the most exciting moment of his youth when he starts from the top of the long, 1,200 foot, runway at Akron, Ohio, on his attempt to capture the soap-box derby crown Sunday The finals of this thrilling contest will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Company direct from NBC Box at the runway Broadcast time is 5:30 p. m. EST and the whole affair will be broadcast by WHAM locally.

More Television Notes

It is our opinion that most of the American Public isn't too well informed on television. Each week we are going to go over the press releases from Radio City, and pick out what we consider the most interesting and informative squibs on the progress of television there This is, then in newspaper parlance, Volume 1, Number 1.

What goes into a minature set of a television show? A set, and the word is familiar to all those engaged in dramatics is a piece of scenery, or the setting of the action of the play In building the largest set used so far in American television, NBC engineers used lead, tobacco, two kinds of steel wool, four different kinds of sponge, sand, three types of glue sawdust, talcum powder, plastic wood nails, and a variety of paints All this was combined to make a minature sea town and when it is received, it will look real and lifesize

An idea of the difficulties encountered in putting out a good television show may be judged from the following . . . In "Sauce For the Goose", a recent production of Radio City, the program director required an actress to effect a complete change from a bathing suit to a smart afternoon outfit in less than five minutes

'GLACIER PRIEST' Erects Arctic Shrine To Blessed Mother

POINT BARROW, ALASKA (N.C.—A shrine to the Mother of God has been erected at Nuivak, farthest north settlement of continental America, by the Rev Bernard R. Hubbard S.J., the "Glacier Priest."

Climaxing a successful 1,000-voyage in an oomiak, Eskimo walrus skin boat, Father Hubbard celebrated Mass at Nuivak, where he arrived on the anniversary of St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Society of which Father Hubbard is a member. He gave Communion to his companions in the course of the Mass and then with cement and rocks fashioned the shrine to Our Lady in the northern tundra. The strains of the "O, Sanctissima" and the chant of the Rosary recited by the little group echoed in the Arctic wastes.

Father Hubbard's trip by oomiak was intended to demonstrate the seaworthiness of the Eskimo walrus skin boat and thereby account for mass migrations of Asiatics to North America in such craft.

SOUL OF THE GUILD SYSTEM

"The soul of the guild system was the Catholic Faith with its principle of brotherhood The guilds took root in the Catholic soil of the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth centuries and grew in the light and air of the Catholic Faith They continued their flourishing career in the fourteenth century The fifteenth century saw them in brilliant flower but then they began to go to seed because the fraternal religious spirit was giving way to individualism and materialism" Why the Guilds Decayed.

A precious crown is reserved in Heaven for all those who put into their actions all the diligence of which they are capable, for it is not enough to do good, we must do it well.

The Very Rev. Joseph M. Noonan, C.M., STD, LLD., president of Niagara, delivered a short informal "commencement" address to the students after they had received their diplomas from John J Conway executive director of the K of C Boy Life Bureau.

Voicing the pleasure of the university in being able to co-operate with the Knights of Columbus on the occasion of the Boyology course, Father Noonan complimented the students on their keen and evident interest in the welfare of youth and expressed the hope that the course would prove of benefit to them in their work

Japanese Youths Visit Holy Father

VATICAN CITY (N C.) His Holiness Pope Pius XI this morning received a mission of Japanese youths, who have been guests of the Holy Father for two days at the Villa San Francisco. Previously the youths were the guests of the Italian Government.

The Holy Father in addressing the youths, referred to their visit to the Vatican Library, where they viewed the documents of deputations sent by Japan to Popes of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. The Pope added that by going to Milan they could observe in the Ambrosian library there Japanese documents which the Holy Father himself catalogued when he was an official of the library are being conducted throughout the summer in promotion of teaching training I saw such a school in operation in Santander and have only the highest admiration for the calibre of men who are directing it."

Asked what he meant by "Franco and his united people," Monsignor Ready replied.

"Everywhere you go, there is the greatest enthusiasm for Franco And there is nothing feigned about it He is a tremendous hero to his people, and from all I observed he certainly deserves to be Travel is very easy in Nationalist Spain. Travel by airplane is amazingly commonplace. Food is plentiful and the life of the people is filled with the finest of our traditional notions of Spanish gaiety"

Cardinal Reverts As Hero

"I was honored in being received by Cardinal Goma, who throughout Spain is revered as a great churchman and a noble patriot," Monsignor Ready continued. "Cardinal Goma had on his desk, which reminds one of the desk of any busy official, a portfolio of reports from every diocese in National territory, and from some of the dioceses in Left East territory where they could be obtained These reports state in detail the number of Bishops, priests and Religious murdered by the Red, and the number of churches and religious institutions destroyed by them They are to be printed and distributed to all the Bishops of the world

"The Cardinals own secretary Father Dospujol lived for more than six months in Barcelona during the time he was treated inhuman treatment before he was finally able to escape across the French border disguised as a travelling salesman

"Cardinal Goma rejoiced in the reception given by the peoples of all nations to the now historic Pastoral Letter of the Spanish Hierarchy"

Monsignor Ready returned with vigorous condemnation to the subject of the news reports on happenings in Spain.

Sees Crime Against Truth

"To me there has been a crime against truth in the reporting of events in Spain," he said.

"The attempt to make the Spanish revolution a war of ideology or a battle for the preservation of democracy, is a part of a communist program of deception Today in Nationalist Spain, from thousands of witnesses men and women who have lived under the brutality of the Spanish Reds you will learn that it is a struggle neither to save nor to ruin democracy They understand the revolution to be what it actually is an effort on the part of the Comintern to liquidate the Christian civilization of Spain

"This program calls for the absolute destruction of the Church in Spain, as they destroyed it in Russia. It calls for the destruction of every form of capitalism. I met during my stay in Spain at least a hundred splendid Spanish gentlemen who had escaped from Barcelona, Madrid or other cities business men, professional men, industrialists and workers Their homes and their businesses had bee confiscated on the pretext that since they were business men or industrialists, they were Fascists

What Would Happen in U. S.

"These men were representative of what we like to think of as the ordinary type of United States citizen Their only crime was that they were associated with a form of society that was not communistic By the standards under which they were persecuted, by far the majority of the people of the United States would lose their home their businesses and perhaps their lives Under that standard Mr Roosevelt, Herbert Hoover and Dr Mayo as well as Bishops and priests, would have been liquidated as Fascists.

"This so-called drive for the protection of democracy is organized propaganda, emanating chiefly from Paris, where under the Blum government, it was permitted freely to exist and to flourish.

"Known by the American people to be the hideous thing it is, communism must resort to subterfuge and deception If it were propagated openly as communism, and not under high-sounding and deliberately misleading titles, such as the League for Peace and Democracy and the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, which are now employed, it would be laughed out of the United States."

CABINET MEMBER LAUDS CHURCH

Praising the Catholic social attitude, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, was the principal speaker at a dinner marking the close of the Dubuque Archdiocese's centennial year. He is shown with the Most Rev. Francis J. L. Beckman, Archbishop of Dubuque. Secretary Wallace said: "I do not know of any faith which has expressed itself more positively with respect to the proper attitude of the State toward its people than the Catholic faith."
