Rochester Diocesan Council N. C. C. W.

MARY'S ASSUMPTION JOYS—Mary, uplifted to our sight in cloudy vesture, stainless white.

"Twin flames of charity?" "Mine eyes are on His glorious face"

"The God who fathered me?" "Mary, against the sinless glow"

"My lips are parted to His breath Who breathed on me in Nazareth"

"My spouse, the spotless Dove!" "Mary, whose eager feet would spurn"

"The fires I felt when His child lay on my mother's heart that died."

"My little Child, my Lord!"

We regret our inability to make satisfactory arrangements for those who wished to be in Austinville on August 14.

The program for the Diocesan Liturgy Institute, August 16, 17 and 18 at the Immaculate Conception School has been arranged to answer the needs for a fuller and deeper knowledge of the liturgy of the Church.

Beginning at 10 o'clock with solemn High Mass on Tuesday and Thursday, and the Missa Recitata on Wednesday, there will be two lectures daily at 11:00 a. m. and 1:30 p. m.

While the Institute has already been called to the attention of our N. C. C. W. leaders, we urge as many as possible of our women to take advantage of this opportunity.

Last week's CATHOLIC COURIER also contained much information concerning the preliminary program of the N. C. W. National Convention.

On August 16 the Holy Crown of Hungary will be on exhibition in the Royal Palace.

The Second Hungarian World Congress will last the rest of the week.

THE ONLY TRUE FREEDOM IS WITHIN THE LAW

There has been a lot of talk about freedom. Did you ever hear anyone say why we want to be free? Freedom means freedom from something. Freedom is something to do with God. We know what we ought to do from the one who made us.

CORRESPONDENT ONLY

(A Surprise Meeting) A Short Story By VIRGINIA CORCORAN

At Jennifer Parker sat under the hair drier idly thumbing through the pages of "Youth," one of the most select magazines of the younger set of the day, her glance happened to fall on this bold-face caption, "Correspondent Wanted."

After reading the letter, which she had to admit was very interesting, Jennifer decided to put off writing for at least four days. It would be better to let this Heilmann think she was too busy to be bothered right away.

After reading the page half way and noting nothing particularly interesting, she sighed and automatically raised her hand to feel her hair again. Would it never dry, it seemed as though she had been there two hours already.

It was around Easter time that she opened an invitation from her aunt calling if she would come to visit her in Flushing Long Island during the vacation. It was not only the invitation itself that excited Jennifer but Aunt Marge had hinted about a surprise. It was all very exciting—so exciting Jennifer actually was bubbling over with enthusiasm days before she boarded the train.
