IN ONE EAR

By BILL ROGERS

Hank and Herb
Western New York listeners to WHAM were pleasantly surprised last Saturday evening when they heard the first presentation in the new season of "Hank and Herb—the Old Timers." Hank and Herb have been together on WHAM as a team of rustic characters with their old time orchestra for a long while. This season will be the sixth. Scripts are written by "Hank" who is played by Gene Lane, and the show is produced by "Herb" the character created by Jack Lee. Announced by Tom Murray. Last year, a family from Wichita, Kansas was shown through New York State and made a special stop in Rochester to watch the rural boys. They said they listened regularly — never missed a Saturday night.

Who Said So?
Who said that swing music was pure inspiration? We might have. But, according to the press releases from the National Broadcasting Company, it just ain't so. They quote a living example to prove their point. There is a man, they say, who can't play a note — is appallingly devoid of "riffs" — who makes marvelous arrangements. One of his students is Frank Andre, author of numerous popular songs including "Dream a Little Dream of Me," "When They Played the Polka" and "From Me To You." His name is Joseph Shillinger of New York. He is a scientist who is interested in cultural arts, and works out his arrangements according to a graph.

Tomorrow's Headlines
Fritz Brownell, of the Times Union, has inaugurated a new series of broadcasts, heard every Tuesday and Thursday evening over WHAM at seven o'clock, entitled "Tomorrow's Headlines." Mr. Brownell's background and ability to observe keenly makes his commentary worth listening to. At the present writing he covers himself with the situation in Europe principally.

Admits Modern Jean Valjean Role
HONOLULU — A 35-year-old parolee waived preliminary hearing on a charge of robbing the home of Rev. Anthony Jacobs, SS CV pastor of Our Lady of the Mount Church. The man admitted stealing $50, police said, but denied theft of a savings passbook showing bank deposits of $1,422 in favor of the church.

Holy Land Film
JERUSALEM — A Yugoslavian pilgrimage, led by the Archbishop of Zagabria, last year visited the Holy Places of the Gospel in Palestine. The devotional tour has been recorded in a film which is now being shown in Jugoslavina and is exciting great interest here.

AS BISHOP BLESSES ST. CHARLES SCHOOL

His Excellency, the Most Rev. James E. Kearney is shown carrying out the solemn ceremony of blessing of the new St. Charles Borromeo Church in Greece which replaces the structure destroyed by fire last May. Assisting the Bishop at the services last Sunday were the Very Rev. Edward Lyons, left, and the Rev. Lawrence E. Casey, center.

NEUTRALITY POLICY CHANGE SEEN
Likely As Next Congress Convenes
WASHINGTON — The difficulty of maintaining peace in a world lurching on the brink of war has given rise to predictions that the neutrality policy of the United States will be brought up for overhaul when the new Congress convenes. Representative McCreynolds, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, ventures the guess that an effort will be made to give the President wider latitude in declaring embargoes against aggressor nations. At the present time the President has no such choice. The declaration of embargoes is mandatory.

Demands Prompt Action
The moral of the whole thing is that keeping the peace is a very practical problem which cannot be solved by a legislative formula. It is one that demands quick action with a full knowledge of the background of events usually not available to the public. Hence, the disposition to give the President a larger measure of discretion and free him from the "back seat driving" of Congress Experience is showing that legislative obstructions can bar the way to peace as well as the way to war. If a general war should come it would be to the advantage of the United States to be able to move quickly and freely to avoid becoming embroiled in it. Administration supporters are inclined to take this view and it is the idea which will probably prevail when Congress reviews its action and the effects of the embargo act.

What is to be done about Mexico is a question to which the State Department is giving sober and serious attention. The situation has not reached an impasse. Hope is a method of adjustment which the Mexican government can accept and which will meet the demands of the United States. The United States has not been abandoned. The fact that there will be much note writing and negotiation before the issue is formally joined.

Stands Firm
Whatever the method may be it is also taken for granted that Secretary Hull will not modify in the slightest degree his stand on "confiscation." Mexico will have to pay for the properties it has seized, regardless of how the payment is to be made.

The troublesome aspect of the situation, from the diplomatic viewpoint, is not money. It is the clash of fundamental principles. The Mexican policy is highly tinged with a communistic coloring. It affirms the right of the government to take the property of its citizens if the will of the people as a whole demands it and that, in that respect, foreign property holders are in the same category. This is in direct conflict with democratic ideas concerning the confiscation of private property.

As matters now stand the only way out of the controversy is the acknowledgement of the debt by the Mexican government and the acceptance by the United States of a method of payment to which Mexico will give ground to that extent will depend upon further negotiation. In more ways than one the disagreement may be regarded as only a skirmish in the larger conflict between democracy and the one-sided and communistic ideas on the other.

Community Is Praised For Restoring School

Importance of the Catholic school in a community was stressed by His Excellency, the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester, Sunday afternoon following his dedication of the newly reconstructed St. Charles Borromeo School, Dewey Avenue and Maiden Lane.

With a large crowd present including people of many faiths, the Bishop commended highly the community spirit shown in remodeling and rebuilding the school following the disastrous fire last May.

Encouraging the Bishop in his pronouncement were the school children altar boys, Rochester Regiment Knights of St. John and members of the clergy including the Rev. William A. Lioran, pastor and his assistant, the Rev. Martin E. Tobin.

The Bishop was assisted by the Rev. Lawrence E. Casey, vice chancellor and the Very Rev. Edward Lyons, rector of St. Andrew's Seminary.

Committee Heads Present
Shrill Al Skinner cut the ribbon which marked the official opening of the building. He headed the "Good Will Committee" which contributed a large part of the money needed for the reconstruction. Present also were Campaign Chairman William A. Zwigler and Campaign Manager, Andrew J. Shell.

Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament was given by Bishop Kearney in the Church. Rev. Emil J. Goffel, pastor of St. Peter and Paul's Church and Rev. Philip Golding, pastor of Holy Apostles Church, served as deacon and sub-deacon.

It was a genuine pleasure for the Bishop to see this task of reconstruction fully completed. In expressing his delight he said: "First of all I want to congratulate you upon the magnificent piece of work which you have done here in a comparatively short time. I must confess it would not be an exaggeration to say that I was almost taken off my feet by the magnificent piece of work which was done on your school building."

Praises All Donors
The building itself is a credit to your faith and generosity, and it is a great credit to the generosity of those, not of our faith who, I understand, put heart and soul into this movement, conscious of the fact that the magnificent parish school in this community was a great contribution to make to the welfare and happiness of this community.

"They are conscious, as we are, of the great contributions that this school has to make to the community. It is an aid to the individual child in the classroom; to the home from which that child comes; to our country for which, as well as for the church and for God, we are dedicating this school."

As he passed through the building the Bishop noted several inscriptions on the blackboards. He cited three of them, which seem to sum up the very philosophy of the school: "Blessed are the clean of heart, for they shall see God." "Honor thy father and thy mother." "For God and for our country."

Three Lessons May Be Drawn
In his speech he demonstrated that the children will be taught the difference between right and wrong; that the father or mother who sends their children to this school can do it with the knowledge that they will be properly directed.

Spurred by the encouragement and cooperation of His Excellency, Bishop Kearney, the 250 workers in the Blackfriars Guild campaign for 1200 associate memberships are going down the home stretch determined to reach the goal by Monday evening when the campaign closes.

The city-wide drive for supporters of the Blackfriars program which will be highlighted by the appearance here on October 14 and 15 of Helen Menken, famed radio, stage and screen star will be brought to a close at a dinner in Oliver Arms on University Avenue. At the first report meeting Monday evening Bishop Kearney signed up in the campaign and addressed the workers on the importance of advancing the work in Rochester of a national Catholic Theater.

"The contribution that this work makes to the happiness of the community deserves any support the rest of us can give it," the Bishop declared.

Announcement that Helen Menken would star here in "The Late Christopher Bean" with an all-Rochester cast brought out many aspirants for roles at first rehearsal this week.

The value of the $5 membership drive was a credit to the devotion and interest for all seven of the Blackfriars productions including the concert by Nino Martini Metropolitan Opera tenor was streamed this week to the workers by the Rev. John S. Handell, Moderator of the Blackfriars Guild.

Heading the campaign is Miss Mary Tobin, president of the Blackfriars Guild with Miss Helen Little, vice chairman, William T. Nolan is campaign manager.

Nazis In Effort To Gag Bishops

The 68-year-old prelate has now found temporary shelter with the Most Rev. Konrad Groeber, Archbishop of Freiburg.

The extent of the persecution in Germany is also shown by instructions just issued by the Most Rev. Clemens August Count von Galen, Bishop of Munster, Westphalia, to his clergy whereby special prayers of atonement are to be said during all the Holy Hours in the diocese on account of the innumerable slurs directed against the Lord and His Church.

Honors Carmelite.
PARIS — The President of the Republic has named Chevalier of Legion of Honor Mother Mathilde La Croix, Superior General of the Carmelites of St. Joseph, who have multiplied charitable institutions in Syria, Egypt and Morocco.

He noted from conditions in the world today, "We can take a lesson from those in the present day who are trying to destroy democracy in every relationship to the human being. Their first effort is to undermine the religion which will be taught in this school."
Bishop Kearney concluded his speech with this pointed statement: "Thus you see that in saluting these three expressions that grace these walls of the rooms where children will sit, they will learn the three great lessons that can help save the Americas for religion and blessed happiness."

A Savings SUCCESS STORY
I ran into Ed Jones when I was in town the other day. Hadn't seen him for several years, not since he first got interested in electrical gadgets. He had a sparkle in his eye and a lift in his walk that I'd never seen before. Told me he owned one of the most modern electrical appliance shops in town. I asked him where he got the money.
"Saved it," he said, smiling. "Started an account with the odd jobs I picked up way back when it was just a hobby. Before long I had enough to start a little business of my own. Today that savings account has given me one of the best stores in town."
