Faith Stories
 For Little Ones

BY REV. HENRY GIBSON

St. Stanislaus Kostka, who died at the early age of eighteen, was distinguished among his many virtues for his tender and childlike devotion to the Blessed Virgin. He was never so happy as when he was speaking of her, reciting her rosary, praying before her image or depriving himself of some little indulgence in her honor.

Our Blessed Lady, in her part, revealed his filial devotion with many special favours. On one occasion when he lay dangerously ill she appeared to him carrying in her arms the Infant Jesus, and placing the Divine Child on the bed beside him, permitted Stanislaus to admire, adore and caress him.

The heart of Stanislaus overflowed with a holy joy, and St. Stanislaus on Mount Thabor, he wished always to enjoy the same happiness, but Mary with a look of love said to him, "Your time is not yet come, my child. You must first merit this grace by an entire obedience to his will."

The holy youth was not long separated from the object of his desire. While performing the exercises of the novitiate of the Society of Jesus at Rome, he was seized with his last illness which he himself had foretold a few days previously.

The Feast of the Assumption of our Lady was drawing near, and he earnestly prayed that he might be permitted to celebrate that great festival in heaven. On the eve of the Feast, a slight illness from which he was suffering became so alarming, that it was thought advisable to administer to him the last Sacraments. He received them with extraordinary fervour, and remained afterwards conversing intently with his Saviour.

From time to time he pressed to his lips an image of our Lady, which he held in his hand, or cast his eye upon his rosary beads, which he entwined about his arm.
 "Stanislaus" asked one of his fathers, "what are you doing with your beads now that you are no longer able to say them?" "It is true, I cannot say them," said the sick youth, smiling, "but still it is a consolation to look at them, they remind me of my good Mother."

Shortly before his death, our Blessed Lady came to receive his soul, and in a company of holy virgins, Stanislaus himself related to the bystanders A heavenly joy lit up the countenance of the dying youth, and a few moments after he breathed out his pure soul in the arms of his heavenly Mother, on the very morning of the Feast of her Assumption.

Life of St. Stanislaus Kostka.
 May you, my dear children, imitate his pure and holy life, his piety, his purity and his tender devotion to Mary, and may your last end be like his!

BENEFIT CARD PARTY
 For Deaf-Mute Work
 To Be Held Oct. 4

A semi-annual card party will be held by the Redemptorist Fathers on October 4 in the Ball Room of a Columbus Civic Center for the benefit of the Deaf-Mute Mission and the Chapel of St. Francis de Sales where all the services for the Deaf-Mute are held.

Proceeds from these various card parties are the chief means given to this work of promoting the cause of Christ among the adult deaf and giving religious instruction to the Catholic Deaf-children.

An appeal is made to the goodness and generosity of charitable hearts so that the spiritual and social needs of this little party may be maintained.

All Catholics of Rochester should feel the obligation of bearing a small part of this burden and be satisfied to see it shouldered by a few individuals as expressed for instance in the purchase of and blessing invoked upon the benefactors.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs.
 Anne Schwab the following committee in making arrangements

How Home and School May Act To Prevent Crime

By REV. ELIQUIS WEBB, O. F. M.
 Chaplain of Illinois State Penitentiary, Joliet, Ill.

The village loafer who was constantly looking for a job fervently praying that he would never find one, a typical of society today looking for a solution of the crime problem and prying its discovery will not mean consigning to the ashheap the pet theories that have provided employment and made much conversation for the higher circles.

At no time in the history of the human race was the public more crime-conscious than today. The consciousness can be attributed to the wide publicity crime has received through the daily newspaper, the magazine, and the radio. That this consciousness has diminished crime is not true. The indignation cannot be disputed.

This indignation has stimulated the public to establish the most efficient police forces, detective bureaus and criminal courts, only to find that these agencies have acted as a challenge rather than a deterrent to crime. Our reformatories and penitentiaries are overcrowded and our courts overworked, but crime marches on.
NO EXPENSE SPARED

Society is seeking a solution of the crime problem and has spared no expense to arrive at the solution. The more it has expended the more crime has increased. Clergymen, social workers and educators are not convinced that the means used are adequate to cope with the situation. Hence they are all earnestly themselves to bring about a reform that will be effective. They reason very logically, if crime was less prevalent 30 years ago, what was the reason?

They are well aware that our law-enforcing agencies existed in those days and although not as efficient as today, were nevertheless able to keep crime at a minimum.
 What is there then, they ask, that is lacking today in our social life, that exercised a check on crime in past years? They all pretty well concur on the fact that the home, the moral religion, is put to the fore in the educational program.

Priest-Educator Talks

NEW ORLEANS The Rev. Edward F. Murphy, S. J., of the faculty of Xavier University, was one of the speakers at the opening of the first Negro State Fair which is being held at the Jefferson Parc Track.

Father Murphy urged the Negro to "profit by the bitter experiences of other national groups" and to be "at all times cognizant of God's place in the progress of the world."

Other speakers included James M. Thomson, publisher of the New Tribune and Dr. William Hill, president of Alcorn College, Alcorn Miss.

 country for over a year in the war in progress there and escaped death by the narrowest of margins several times has enrolled in the en-of Notre Dame.

Mr. Chung is one of 70 Chinese and women students who came to the United States this year to enter the engineering and social science departments of colleges throughout the country.

Mr. Chung reported that the American newspaper accounts of the war were much more vivid and detailed than in China where all news is strictly censored. China does not lack man power so much as skilled, technically trained men for that reason students there are attracted by the Central government to join the army but are placed at work behind the lines.
 Mr. Chung's job was to collect and carry clothing supplies to the front in most treacherous particularly dangerous, job with bombs falling sometimes only 100 yards away.

For many, a house without a garage is not a complete home. Here it forms an integral part of the architecture and is convenient. The large living room can also be used as a dining room and in the night time as an extra chamber by providing a disappearing bed which can be stored in the closet. The bath is convenient to the bedroom and linen closet. The kitchen is adequately equipped.

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith

Rev. John S. Randall, Director

MISSION INTENTION: "That orphans may increase in Mission lands."
 The Saviour of all mankind showed a particular affection for the little one of the world. He rebuked His apostles saying:
 "Suffer little children to come unto me." His Vicar, Pope Pius XI, seeks your prayers that orphan asylums in lands afar may increase. Never in history has the need been more urgent. In China where the horror of infanticide has been ever present, the danger has been aggravated by the Sino-Japanese conflict.
 India, harassed by an onslaught of cholera, has cast thousands of parentless children upon the world. Among the Moslems of Eastern Africa, the care of orphans is the only work of evangelization permitted. Malaria and sleeping sickness leave the children of the Congo destitute.
 Even his one island, Oceania, famed for their natural beauty, are breeders of malignant ill which throw the little lots upon the mercy of our priests and nuns.

It is a necessary and a mammoth task which the Church must assume. You, in your private devotions, can beseech of the Almighty strength to carry on this work, and the material means of least retaining what has already been established.

Should Americans Help?

On Sunday, October 23, the Catholic Church throughout the world will observe Mission Sunday. In these trying days of world upheaval, the Holy Faith looks to American Catholics as his one island of consolation.
 Their generous response to the mission-call to the one bright spot in a horizon darkened with wars and rumors of wars.

Some might be tempted to question the special obligation Americans toward the needs of World Christianization. Why should be singled out from other countries in the world is positively obvious.

It was but recently that this land of ours emerged from the status of mission territory. A scant three hundred years separate our towering cities from the trackless wilderness. Spanish priests in Florida were the real pioneers. The Jesuits from New France invaded our own district to bring to the natives and settlers the light of Christ's Gospel. Father Marquette and Joliet pushed through the turbulent waters of the Great Lakes and Mississippi River to give the Indians of this section their first glimpse of Christianity. Still further west went Father De-Smet, the famous Jesuit Missionary of the Pacific coast, Junipero Serra, a Franciscan, and made history in the West and dotted the country side with Mission churches now famed to every traveler.

Today our religion flourishes from coast to coast, 110 dioceses have been created, 20,000,000 Catholics are guaranteed constitutional liberty in their service of God. All because European priests, though they loved the culture and comfort of their home lands, buried their very lives in the soil of America. We have travelled a long way in the intervening years. Now, with our Church fully established it is our turn to assist them.

Another reason why we should help, and one that comes as a shocking revelation to many of us is the fact that the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, one of the mission societies for the universal Church was founded at the instigation of Bishop Dubourg of New Orleans. In the first one hundred years of its existence we find that the disbursements to this country have totaled over $100,000. Even as late as the year 1921 the apportionment from the Society to needy American missions amounted to $101,000.85. Figures do not lie. It would seem that our indebtedness is real.

Is not our obligation to the Missions of the Church quite obvious? Bearing in mind the Golden Rule of Charity, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," how can we possibly remain indifferent to their demands? Moreover, the sacrifice on our part is almost negligible; just $1.00 a year, less than 2c a week, makes us an ordinary member of this great Society.

Money Saved Fasting Aids Chinese Refugees

KONGMOON, S. CHINA.—The young students of the minor seminary of the Kongmoon Vicariate felt that they should do something to help the war refugees, their unfortunate countrymen. Like most seminarians, they had little money of their own. So they determined to request permission of their superiors to abstain from one meal every day and to donate the money thus saved for relief organizations.
 In a few months the proceeds amounted to over 600 Chinese dollars.

 his ordination to the priesthood in his eighty-first year. Bishop Murphy was born in Dunderberg, Ireland, on Christmas Eve, 1857.
