The Society for the Propagation of the Faith
Rev. John S. Radford, Director

MISSION INTENTION: "That the Mission may be made known to the Free, the Faithful, the True and the Good."

The Holy Father, by his suggested intention, encouraged the use of the various avenues of propaganda. Our Communicatio friends do not hesitate to reach out to every available source. Should we be less hesitant than they? If we are to follow the lead of Christ's Vicar, we will attempt to make the teachings of our Faith better known and loved. May we, then, direct your Mission prayers to this particular purpose.

A Traveler Returns

The Most Rev. Paul Yu Pin, Vicar Apostolic of Nanking, arrived in Yunnan, China, last month. Bishop Yu Pin had just completed an extended tour of Europe and America. It will be recalled that his itinerary included a short stay with us in Rochester.

Welcomed by the officials of the Provincial Government, he reported a sympathetic understanding of suffering China. The reception accorded the prelate everywhere is known to rest directly in favor of the Church which he represents. Already the officials of the country and the people themselves have learned to know better both the teachings of the Church and all that she stands for.

China needs have particular reference to the Mission Sunday of the Universal Church. The more generous the response of the people, the greater will be the amount of assistance that can be offered to this struggling nation. Where millions have been left homeless, where children have been separated from their parents, where sickness and suffering have crippled an entire country, Christian charity should step in to ease their plight. Here is an opportunity to offer a "cup of cold water" in His Name.

Correspondence

This week's mail brought an appealing letter from New Guinea. I quote it in part.

The Most Reverend Bishop Joseph Loerks, Vicar Apostolic of Central New Guinea, who has never made an appeal, but who conducted his mission in real poverty and with great frugality, has suddenly been brought into the present material situation by the action of Hitler. We are not able to obtain any assistance from the home country not over the donations collected by the papal societies.

In the same condition, Bishop Loerks decided to discontinue the schools. We missionaries, sitting down in sorrow with him in a conference, said to him: "Bishop, if you are sure that you are not down half of the living expenses, such as sugar, drugs, etc., but let us have the schools and catechists." He listened to us at the same time he ordered daily prayers be said to St. Joseph.

Another day brought an old friend to our desk in the person of the Rev. Joseph Sweeney, M.M. Father Sweeney is in charge of the Gate of Heaven Leprosy Colony in Kongsong, South China. Recently the hospital was moved to large and more healthy quarters. He reports the progress that is being made in his letter which I quote in part:

"We are now in the midst of the torrid summer which is our worst season. But the lepers in their new home are no suffering as they did during previous summers when they were living in overcrowded, unclean palm-leaf huts. In the old colony over 200 people had to live on less than an acre of ground. In this new place we have over 300 acres. The lepers have begun to engage in farming and other kinds of healthful work. Some whose hands are useless can carry loads. Others who cannot walk have jobs sitting down. Everyone's health seems much improved with the light exercise.

"You probably read in the papers about the war in this country. We see the bombing planes passing overhead every day. We have a big American flag on the ground and the Jap planes have not yet dropped any bombs here. But to my eyes ago they killed 39 and injured 50 in the Cathedral grounds at Canton. The French flag is displayed there and many poor people have been using the grounds as a place of refuge during the air raids. The cathedral was the most beautiful Church in China, with fine stained-glass windows not one of which remains.

"During these war times when this country is full of millions of homeless refugees the lepers are more forgotten than ever and your generosity in helping them is more appreciated than ever. If anyone is impelled to go to the rescue of the Veteran Disciples of Christ, you may send your donation to this office and we shall gladly forward it to its intended destination.

Mission Sunday

Pick up your daily paper and observe the first notice that strikes your eye. It is not war, or national or racialism or any other breed of hatred which is undermining our countries alone but whole continents. The Catholic Church, at the expressed command of her leader, is preparing for the celebration of one of the greatest antedotes of war—Mission Sunday. To over twenty million Catholics in the United States the call has come to do their bit that Christ may be enthroned in the hearts of men that charity, not hate, may be

Enlarging National Store Shows Confidence In Future

Private business today had put under way plans for one of the largest construction jobs in recent years in downtown Rochester.

Officials of the National Clothing Company took action on an enlargement program to give their downtown store 50 per cent more space and to add an imposing structure to the downtown retail area.

Officials declined to set definite dates for construction, although the property has been purchased and plans for construction are now moving forward. They are expected to be completed possibly by early next year.

The Corkhill and Bond Clothing Company building, immediately west of the present National property, are included in the enlargement, giving the new structure a width of 105 feet and depth of 90. A sixth floor will be added to the old and new part and over all will be a parapet.

Declaring that business expansion makes larger quarters necessary, an official statement of the company said: "In the ranks of commerce and industry it is, of course, always encouraging to see evidence of growth and expansion, but particularly is this true when all about one is apt to hear what recently has come to be known as the psychology of fear on the part of many who, when pressed to answer, will assure you that their business is pretty good.

"It is, after all, the courage and enterprise of some that inspires courage and enterprise in others. Without its quota of stout hearts the community might drift quickly into the realm of do-nothingism, and stagnate or dry up.

"Fortunately, in Rochester, there never seems to be that lack of vigor and the progressiveness of the National Clothing Company through the years has been an important part of the general progressiveness of Rochester's retail community."

Bishop Refutes Writer's Attack

their control was not at all secure. There was a strong underground Socialist movement directed by Senor Rosello which endeavored to make contact with the Red enemy which had control of the neighboring island of Minorca.

"From July 21 till August 27 the Red air force made 61 air raids on Majorca.

"On August 16 there was the first of a series of invasions by the Catalan Republican forces. The islands of Ibiza, Formentera and Cabrera were captured and Majorca remained in great peril until the Reds were driven out on September 4.

Massacre Denied

"Bernano stated in his book that during the darkest of this Red invasion a great number of prisoners were taken in Manacor and all were executed in one night without trial and without the Sacraments. He also states that the Archbishop knew of this but made no protest.

"The Archbishop denies all knowledge of the supposed massacre. After reading Bernano's book he inquired of the chaplains who were with the Nationalist soldiers as to what really took place. They told him that less than a hundred of the invading Catalans were taken prisoner and of these less than fifty were shot, and these were not shot until they had been given trial by court-martial and time to make their peace with God."

CONVERTS INCREASE

Rochester, N. Y.—According to a report of the Most Rev. Herman J. Meyers, O.M.I., Vicar Apostolic of Kimberley the missions in his vicariate have increased from five to twenty one since the Oblates of the German Province took charge. There are 44,302 Catholics of whom 3315 are Whites and 3313 catechumens. In contrast, there are 27310 Protestants, 5030 Jews, 3122 Mohammedans and 40437 pagans.

REMARKABLE CURE OF IRISH PILGRIM Attested At Lourdes By Medical Bureau

Dublin, (Ire.)—The remarkable cure at Lourdes of Charles McDonald, a Dublin man, during the C.Y.M.S. pilgrimage of 1936, has now been officially registered by the Lourdes Medical Bureau. The Bureau considers this case one of the most remarkable of its kind. It is stated to have been one of the gravest cases ever observed at the famous shrine.

Now 33 years of age Mr. McDonald fell ill in 1924 and in the following year, having become much worse, was diagnosed as suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis. Through his own doctors expressed the opinion that he would not live to cross the equator, he went to Africa and spent six years in Cape Town.

The disease continued to spread and in 1932 he returned home encased in plaster of Paris. He obtained medical attention in Dublin but to no avail, and after a time, lost the use of his left arm as a result of a tubercular shoulder.

"Went Home To Die"

In June, 1933, becoming completely collapsed, McDonald was removed to the Month Hospital and after 13 weeks there, papers were signed for his removal to the Hospice for the Dying, which is under the care of the Irish Sisters of Charity.

Acting, however, to the request of his family he "went home to die" instead of going to the hospice, having received the last rites of the Church before leaving the hospital. He remained at home for three months his case was given over by the doctors, but he held still a great belief that he would be cured by going to Lourdes.

His condition was so serious that the pilgrim committee were not disposed to take him, but finally on the last pilgrimage of that season which was organized by the St. Catherine's Branch, C.Y.M.S., Charles McDonald was accepted as a stretcher case. Radiographs taken at the shrine showed that the disease was active in the spine, shoulder and kidney, while on his back and shoulder there were five sores.

The medical certificate obtained from Dr. O'Connell, Fairview, Dublin, stated that the patient was suffering from locca disease, from nephritis and from tuberculosis arthritis of the left shoulder.

Kiss From Bed

On September 7, 1933, the second occasion on which he had a bath in Lourdes, Mr. McDonald experienced a wonderful feeling of "comfort and well-being." Next day he rose from his bed and for the first time in two years dressed without aid and without pain and fatigue. The sores were still open and for that reason he was not taken to the Bureau des Constations. On reaching Paris on the return journey, Dr. Hannigan, who was in charge of the invalids, certified that the wounds were cicatrized, he performed the pilgrim and returned to his home in a taxi instead of in an ambulance.

On the occasion of the Irish National Pilgrimage last year Mr. McDonald returned to Lourdes and on September 17 and 18 was examined by the Bureau at the Lourdes Medical Bureau, including Dr. Valet, President of the Bureau. The result of their examination showed that Mr. McDonald's condition was such that the cure could not have been brought about by medicine or science but only by supernatural intervention.

Since his return from Lourdes a year Mr. McDonald has been under medical supervision in Dublin and when he again visited the Shrine a few weeks ago the miracle of his cure was registered and signed by Dr. Valet.

Employees Must Give Security Numbers

With business establishments in New York State beginning to engage additional help for the fall and winter seasons, Mr. Walter Kruesel, Manager of Rochester Field Office of the Social Security Board for New York State, today urged employer and employee to follow the requirements for use of the social security account number.

"All workers in covered employment," Mr. Kruesel pointed out, "are required to have a social security account number which must be reported by the worker to every employer for whom he works. The employer must give the account number in making his quarterly tax and information report to the Bureau of Internal Revenue."

Mr. Kruesel emphasized that these requirements apply to part-time and temporary workers, if their occupations are covered.

"This is especially important in the case of department stores and other retail establishments which hire many temporary employees at this time. Regardless of the length of employment, those workers should have account numbers and report them to the employer. Even a few weeks' wages help to build up the social security account total on which old-age insurance will eventually be paid."
