The REV. JOHN S. RANDALL, Director

Chestnut St. 50 — Home — Foreign Missions — Stone 4013

MISSION INTENTION: That the missions may be known by means of the Press, the Radio, the Theatre and the Cinema.

The difusion of mission knowledge demands every possible avenue of propsaganda. Our Communistic opponents make ready use of every means to stifle the world with their nefarious doctrine They have throttled the daily press, forcing them to release only those facts they wish known. They have projected themselves across the stages of the country, invade the capital of movieland, demanded a hearing along the air lanes

The Holy Father would pray that the Catholic Church might have the use of the speedier new services Well put is his intention for the month Catholic mission history is rich with themes around which a clever dramatist might build plays which would certainly be successful The trenches of Hollywood were quickly plowed for the film Maria Rose His adventures in China are dimmed by the experiences of John de Montecorvino The Patriarch of the Orient

Your prayers, offered for the intention will be one means of assisting personally the Redeemer's command to preach the Gospel to every creature

Charity Begins At Home

No [illegible] can be [illegible] Americans [illegible] are not required to make any sacrifice Like Dives in the Gospel we give a crust for the crumbs that fall from the table of Christ which has no other reason for existence than by enlarging the kingdom of God throughout the world to make all men partakers in Heavenly redemption Pope Pius XI teachers are laboring for the spread of the faith It is a veritable army, indeed The willingness of their sacrifices, their long hours of toil, their patient endurances of innumerable suffering will all be no avail without the back-of-the-line Christian. We must supply them with the means of holy warfare- our prayers and sacrifice

Insignificant, almost is the alms we ask- just one of those "luxury" dollars that is spent foolishly for some trifling pleasure A few packs of cigarettes, a couple of movies, a box of candy cosmetic supplies is all that is required When on stops to consider that amount of money our young people spend during an evening of fun, we are surprised that our missions derive so little benefit

If the people of this country would best initiate the charity of these "new" Christians, mission donations will be tripled India last year gave $18,000.00 to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith Can we in America appreciate what this sum meant to the destitute millions of that teeming land? One little parish in China denied themselves a morsel of food for one entire day that they might make a sizable contribution to mission work

Our people in this country are not asked to deprive themselves [illegible] are not required to make any sacrifice Like Dives in the Gospel we give a crust for the crumbs that fall from the table of Christ which has no other reason for existence than by enlarging the kingdom of God throughout the world to make all men partakers in Heavenly redemption Pope Pius XI

The Parts of Your Dollar

There will be some among souls who have dedicated themselves to the universal character of our

For them MISSION SUNDAY may seem a day to be disregarded since they believe that only foreign missions profit by the contributions made on that day This is not the case.

On October 23rd by order of the Vicar of Christ collections are to be taken up in every Catholic Church in the world for the support of ALL CATHOLIC MISSIONS

Every dollar collected in the United States will be divided into three parts Forty cents of that dollar will be sent to the American Board of Catholic Missions to be devoted exclusively for the relief of needy missions in our own country 9c of that dollar will be sent to the Catholic Near East Welfare Association which cares for the missions in the Near East and those under the Congregation of Oriental Rites 51c of that dollar will be sent to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith for the relief of missions in Africa Asia and Oceania From this distribution

A Last Minute Call

[illegible] making this last minute appeal to the Catholics of the United States on this eve of Mission Sunday This appeal is issued in order First of all prayer is asked for the men and women who are carrying the standard of Christ to the various mission territories of the world This request for prayer has been called by the Holy Father the very nourishment of the apostolate without which the most courageous work of the priests, brothers and sisters will be powerless to touch the hearts of those whom they have come to convert

The second request made by the Society is a plea for alms Teachers must be provided for the schools in mission lands catechists must be taught and supported, hospitals must be erected staffed and maintained churches must be built and kept in repair, seminaries must be erected to train American Chinese Japanese Indian Tonkinese African and Malaysian boys for the priesthood The people among whom the missionaries labor are for the most part in straitened circumstances It is from the old Catholics in America and Europe that they must turn to supply the staff upon which the 20th century apostolate depends

Archbishop Celsi Constantini Secretary of the Sacred Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith points to the growing needs of our missions when he says "The needs of the Catholic Missions are immense. They are growing in proportion to our missionary conquest. It is necessary therefore that our charity should likewise increase."

In isolated parts throughout the world, 186,115 missionary priests, brothers, sisters, catechists and

Cardinal Goma Says Franco Regime Is Not Fascist

not regard with favor the establishment of a Fascist regime in Spain.

Opposes Fascism

"The Generalissimo is too good a Catholic," he declared, "to want to subject Spain to the yoke of Fascism, which we neither admire nor seek. Furthermore, he is thoroughly conversant, as I have learned in conversation with him, with the teachings of the Catholic Church on the evils of a Fascist State

"I have the utmost confidence in his just, Christian outlook. I know he will not permit the establishment of a harsh, oppressive Fascist or Nazi-type government for Spain."

Cardinal Goma, as his second reason, emphasized that "the spirit of the laws promulgated thus far by the Nationalist Government is in complete harmony with the teachings of the Church." There is no doubt that the Franco Government is being actuated by the highest Christian ideals he said

For example he declared, the work of applying the Papal Encyclicals on social justice is being carried out at an astonishingly successful and rapid rate in Nationalist Spain. The highest officials of that government, from Generalissimo Franco down, insist they are attempting to build a State based on Catholic principles he continued What is more important he said they are actually doing this

It is almost needless to add that the Church is cooperating 200% with the Nationalist Government in furthering a program of social justice for the whole of Spain, he declared

Living Wage Applauded

The Nationalist Government's Labor Charter, guaranteeing a living wage reasonable hours of labor and decent working conditions for every worker, was hailed by him as a model of constructive Christian political thinking

By stressing authority," he said, the Labor Charter guarantees law and order and justice and at the same time safeguards inalienable rights and liberties of the human being."

Another example of harmonious cooperation between Church and State in Nationalist Spain, he added, is in the field of education, which, next to social justice, is Spain's greatest need The educational program being set up by the Nationalist Government is fundamentally Christian in every respect so far he declared

"The State, as it should," he said, has established certain high standards for all schools, both public and private But it has left the Church free to direct religious education for all school children

"In other subjects too, such as art history and literature the Church is cooperating with the State in furnishing books, lecturers and additional assistance"

For his third reason why the Spanish Nationalist Government is not Fascist, Cardinal Goma said, it acknowledges the supremacy of God, and it recognizes that man is endowed with certain inalienable rights no government can abridge A completely totalitarian government admits neither promise, he declared

Terms 'Fascist' Resented

Nationalist officials with whom the writers have conferred prefer to describe their government as an authoritarian one, centralizing power in the State. Incidentally, they bitterly resent the term "Fascist" being applied to it.

Cardinal Goma said he approved of the designation of the Nationalist Government as "authoritarian" because there can be no government without authority. The best means of preserving the law and order which Spaniards desire above all for their country, he declared, is by means of such a government.

The totalitarian features of the Nationalist Government—and there are a few such as curbs on the press and the one-party system—were explained by the Cardinal as a "natural reaction" to the chaos prevailing throughout Spain prior to July 18, 1936 It was on that date that the Nationalists, goaded to desperation by Marxist excesses, took up arms to defend themselves and their country from Soviet domination

This rising is known now as the Nationalist counter-revolution. Marxist elements in control of the so-called Popular Front Government "elected" in February, 1936, had planned a Soviet coup d'etat later in the Summer Generalissimo Franco and his supporters forestalled this, however, by acting first.

"At the moment of the Franco counter-revolution," Cardinal Goma said, "our country has fallen prey to Communists, anarchists and other radical elements bent on murdering and destroying and setting up a Soviet Spain. Authority was practically non-existent. Mob rule was the order of the day.

Law and Order Restored

"We had a plethora of political Cossacks, agitators and revolutionary agents. Public and private morality were being grievously undermined. And the Church itself, the cement which held Spain together, was attacked from all sides by enemies bent on her complete destruction.

"Generalissimo Franco's first tasks, then was to restore law and order. Under the circumstances a military dictatorship was inevitable. In that sense, and in that sense alone is it correct to speak of totalitarianism in Nationalist Spain

"On the other hand, if this term is used as a symbol of a philosophical or political system, it is inexact to describe the Nationalist Government as totalitarian or Fascist or Nazi The Spanish temperament is radically, perhaps hopelessly, individualistic Regimentation of the type that prevails in Italy or Germany is unsuited to the Spanish love of independent action and free choice The State should not and cannot overshadow the citizens.

"I am bound to admit, however, that there are some groups and some leaders, none of them important, in Nationalist Spain, who are clearly influenced by the success of Germany and Italy. They would like to see a totalitarian form of government for Nationalist Spain. But their influence is inconsiderable and may be disregarded in any serious discussion of what the genius of the New Spain will produce in the realm of political ideas or methods"

Need of Relief Funds

Cardinal Goma was extremely pessimistic on the subject of relief The Church has done what it could to help civilian victims of the war he said, but it hasn't the means to do more Contributions of money and supplies from abroad have helped considerably he declared

"Relief however" he declared "continues to be a tremendous problem and one which grows worse instead of better as the war continues We are in need of every possible assistance in our relief activities

The Nationalist Government is performing a herculean task in relieving distress, particularly among the tens of thousands of persons in territory captured from the Reds but it cannot do everything. The Church, therefore, fulfilling its age-old function of charity also has a major rule in relief activities

"In this respect it is contributing all in its power to a Nationalist victory For without a triumph by our arms, Spain is lost"

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME AGAIN UP TO VOTERS

Friends of Daylight Saving are concentrating their efforts this week on the registration of voters.

"No matter how anxious a person is to secure Daylight Saving there is only one way in which he can make his wishes effective," said T Carl Nixon, Chairman of the Rochester Daylight Saving Association "No one should think that he is registering a vote for Daylight Saving by signing an application for membership. The application blanks state plainly that the signer agrees to vote for Daylight Saving, to get four friends to vote for it and to contribute to the success of the campaign."

Organization of the Daylight Saving Association has been proceeding rapidly. Members of the general committee meetings every Thursday at the Hotel Seneca. Chairman Nixon has extended an invitation to all friends of Daylight Saving to attend these meetings and to give the officers the benefit of their advice.

The Rochester Daylight Saving has established headquarters at 205 State Street. Suggestions regarding the campaign will be received by Mr. Charles B. Lyman, Secretary.
