Found in Two Places

What are the measures of socia reform to which the Franco Gov-ernment is definitely pledged? They are to be found in two places: first, in various points of the Falange program; second, in social reform measures already adopted or being carried out now in Nationalist Spain. The Falange (Falange Es panola Tradicionalista) is the official State party. The tenth point of its 25-point program assimmarizes the Nationalist principles of social reform. This point reads:

"We repudiate any capitalist system which ignores popular necessities, dehumanizes private property and huddles workers into shapeless masses ripe for misery and despair Our spiritual and national sense Luxury for Few Opposed

In the twellth point of the same program it is affirmed that the first object of wealth is to better the people's condition of life, and that "It is intolerable that great masses of people should live miserably whilst the few enjoy every luxury. On visits to the battle front The chief aim these correspondents often saw this Government, to last phrase daubed on the walls of quote the generalissimo again.
"a profound social revolution which finds its inspiration in the teaching are as social-minded as the intellectuals who drew up the Falange They are carrying its It is gratifying also to observe in other statements by Nationalist leaders the clear, unmistakable emploited by Red rule, and bearing unais upcan the most of reform and process of the people is the the people witness to the social aspirations of property as a lawful measus of ful-filling individual, family and social ends, and will protect it against the abuses of the great firmanciers, specualtors and money-lenders." This statement might have been borrowed bodily from Pope Pius XI's Encyclical, "Reconstructing the Social Order" The wider dissemination of private property, no its abolition, is a chief aim of the Nationalist Government. Since five of the twenty five points in this sports announcer and commenta-program refer to agriculture, it is tor, has just completed a series surest and best methods to participate in the exercise of this right ester, one in Geneva and one in to have something tangible and Hornell, all in one short week.

Indeed, the nineteenth point for-mally states that "cultivatable and depe and humorous stories on his is to be redistributed in order to set up family properties too, is strictly in accord with Pana teaching. Irrigation and reforestra tion are emphasized as exmential to the proper enrichment of the soil and the conservation of saricultural wealth. Conservation Corps

It may be that an organisation similar to our Civilian Conservation Corps is envisaged inasznuch a point twenty declares that refor estration and soil conservation may require "the temporary compulsory mobilization of the whole of Span-

An even more interesting experiment is suggested in the final recommendation about agriculture The reconstruction of the communal land of the villages will be "Did You Know"? one of the first objects of the National-Syndicalist State."

To those familiar with the peac and prosperity which flourished in eval villages where the inhabitants held the surrounding land in common, this effort to recapture the finest values of both town and country is a very walcome one. Coupled with the decentralization of industry, it can readily prove in the New Spain to be the key to the foremost social and economic probiem of the day—the equitable dis-tribution of wealth. In Andalusia and Castille initial efforts along these lines have met with enthusi-astic response from the farmers and casual workers who now have an opportunity to graduate to the property-owning class. "At all costs" states the Falange program, "the standard of like country must be raised." "the standard of life in That the principles exunciated by Nationalist leaders, from Franco down, are not but idle words, is proved by the remarkable program of social justice already instituted in their territory. This program protects the rights of workers and pessants. At the same time it also safeguards the rights of owners or

A neteworthy feature of it is the Labor Charter. This guarantees a family wage, limited working known, better working conditions, paid vacations and other besefts for cover worker. The writers found wages higher in Nationalist Spain now than before the civil war. Profitering is practically non-existent and prices of necessities are about at the pre-war hvel Food is abundant and cheap.

THE LISTENIN' POST

By AL SISSON

ASSIGNMENT FOR THIS COL-UMN HAS BEEN CHANGED A BIT AND WILL BE KNOWN AS "THE LISTENIN' POST. FOR AT LEAST THIS WEEK We will endeavor to carry on in the same trend as in the past with the hope of adding a few new features from time to time, if we last that long. First, may we say that this feature is fo you, the readers, and any suggestions will be appreciated.

WHAM celebrated another anniversary on Thursday evening, niversary on Thursday evening, October 27. Program, "True
Stories of the New York State Police," began its fifth year of consecutive broadcasting. This sets some sort of a record for programs of this type. Recently
Mr. William Fay, General Manager of WHAM, asked the radio aridince if they would like the audience if they would like the stories continued and the response was so gratifying that the "True Trooper Dramas" will contimue for many weeks to come Stories are written by Wayne Shoemaker from the records of the State Police and are pro duced under the direction of Jack Lee, WHAM production manager

Musical works from the earliest period of the Christian era to the 13th Century will be traced during the first program in the Milestones in Music series on Satur-day, November 5, at 11 30 A M over WHAM and the NBC Red network. The program will originate in Rochester and will fea ture instrumentalists and soloists from the Eastman School of Music.

First matinee concert of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra for the current season will be broadcast from WHAM over the Blue network of the NBC Thursday. November 10, from 3:15 to 4:00 o'clock Guy Fraser Harrison will conduct.

Tuesday evenings at 9.30 has become another high spot for WHAM listeners. Fibber Mc-Gee and Company are now heard at that time. This popular program returns to the air over WHAM after a lapse of nearly two years Regarded as one of the greatest teams in radio for many years, Fibber and Molly were an immediate hit when they first went on the air years ago Molly has been off the program for many, many weeks, but Fibber has surrounded hiraself with "company" that ranks second to none in comedy and music Listen in for Sill Watson and all the rest on Tuesdays at 9.30

> NBC chimes, the most famous of musical trademarks, sound the hour for the thousands of New Yorkers and the adjacent places and walks of Rockefeller Center. Synchronized with one of the large ornamental clocks over looking the Sunken Plaza, the familiar chimes, which have identified the two networks of the National Broadcasting Company for more than a decade, mark each hour between 8 A. M. and 1 A. M. for all in the vicinity of Radio City.

-That Frank Selbold, WHAM music librarian, makes model ships as a hobby? Frank has already finished four, one being the frigate Constitution,

-That William Fay, Manager of WHAM, and A. O. Cogge shall Program Director of WGY in Schenectady, were one of the first song and patter teams on the air? They were popular as the "Harmony Twins" over WGY way back in 1924.

-That George Hicks, NBC announcer, was born in Tacoma, Wash, and was educated at the University of Washington and Puget Sound College? He has worked as day laborer, lumber man, sailor, newspaperman, truck driver, and salesman. Intended to be a diplomat but Radio inter-fered and he has been at it ever since his first job in Washingtors. D. C.

As this column goes to press we are sorry to report that Harry McTigue has been hos-pitalised for about two weeks. The popular WHAM Sports am-nouncer was operated on at the Paris: Avenue Hospital after the eropping up again of an old leg injury. Days in the hospital are long and we are sure that Harry would appreciate a card from his many fans. While "The Col-one!" is taking his forced lay-off, Bill Rogers is handling his Sports Review with Dick Brown taking over Roger's job of handling the commercia
