What a Chapel Means
When the missionary has a chapel, he is able to say Mass in a decent place. He can gather his people for instructions. He can invite the separated people to come to Mass and hear the Word of God.
Five hundred dollars will build a chapel in the Near East. The Holy Father will select the site, the donor can select the name.

A NEW PLAN
In Persia conditions are favorable for the missionaries. The government is friendly. The Apostolic Delegate, Archbishop Marini, tells us about a new plan.
Eight priests have been selected to go from village to village all year. Each priest carries his vestments and sacred vessels with him. He enters a village and selects a place for Mass. He remains there for three days and then moves on. This work will not stop. It is a year round affair.
Fifteen Dollars a month is needed for each missionary. This includes all his expenses. Will you take care of one missionary for one month? Can you spare Fifteen Dollars of Five or One?

THEIR SUCCESSORS
One day the missionary will die or be too old to work. He must prepare a successor. The missionaries must educate and train young men to take their place. At the Holy High School and two years of college, the student is ready for the Major Seminary. Here he spends six years and then is ordained. We ask for help to support and educate the students in the Major Seminary. It costs One Hundred Dollars a year for each student. Six Hundred Dollars will see him through to Ordination Day.
Can you help us? It is a great thing to assist the church in training men for the Holy Priesthood. Your student would never forget you.

HELPING THE CHILD
It is always a pleasure to do something for a child. The greatest gift we can give and one that cannot be lost is the gift of a Catholic education. In our schools in the Near East Ten Dollars a year is the cost for every child. Would you send Five Dollars and let the missionary take another child for six months?

DID YOU REMEMBER?
Did you remember your child this month? It is not too late. Ask our missionaries to offer a Mass for the deceased members of your family.

A CHALICE
Ten Dollars will purchase a Chalice for a missionary. Give one in thanksgiving.

EVERYTHING HELPS
Send us a Stringless Gift this week for the neediest missionary. The smallest gift is a help.

Catholic Women Denounce Race Theories

BITTER ATTACKS BY DICTATORS INCURS Strong Condemnation By Local Council

Fully aware of the importance of current happenings in the world today, the Rochester Diocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women adopted a resolution denouncing "exaggerated nationalism and the theory of racial superiority at their eighth annual convention here Nov. 11, 12, 13.

The Most Rev. James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester addressed the women on Friday and extended greetings and full support to the Council.

Opens With Mass
The two-day conference began Friday with a Mass of the Holy Eucharist at the Hotel Seneca continued at the Hotel Seneca where a business meeting was held.

The Rev. Benedict E. Schmitt spoke on "Liturgy and Reading" at the morning session with the Rev. John S. Randall speaking on "The Catholic Theatre" in the afternoon meeting.

"Catholic Liturgy and Vacation Schools" was the topic of the Rev. John M. Duffy, Superintendent of Schools, at the late afternoon session.

In establishing their resolution opposing exaggerated nationalism, the women left no doubt as to their stand. "As Catholics and Americans we must protest against the bitter religious and racial persecutions which are the ungodly, uncharitable and unchristian fruits of this philosophy."

liberty in which the spirit of Christian justice and brotherhood is clearly discernible, and hence have a mission in a troubled world.

We are resolved to face that mission with courage, generosity and sacrifice, to exert our influence to preserve in fullest measure the Christian culture and institutions which are our precious heritage, adapting them to changing needs, but never weakening nor undermining the Christian foundation upon which they stand.

We oppose any change in our present policy of national neutrality. We approve a program of adequate defense; approve, as a powerful influence for peace, the efforts now being made by the State Department through trade agreements to remove economic obstacles that prevent free cooperation between nations. We approve the efforts made to invigorate the spirit of good will and neighborliness among the nations of the American continent, and pledge ourselves to cooperate with women in the other American republics in promoting and strengthening our common social interests.

XIV—Press
We realize that the growing strength and prestige of our American Catholic Press, served by the N.C.C.W. News Service, created and assisted by the Bishops, has become a powerful factor in the development of Catholic thought, and Sensitizing the necessity and the usefulness to the Church of a strong Catholic Press for circulation among our own people, we strongly urge upon our constituent units and upon individual Catholic women that as custodians of Catholic home life they do at least Catholic literature, including the diocesan newspaper and Catholic magazines, come into all our Catholic homes regularly so that our lady may be constantly informed of Catholic activities and the Catholic attitude on the pressing questions of the day, and in particular, so that our youth may grow up readers of the Catholic press.

Since we can have a strong Catholic Press only if the lady gives to it constant and effective support, we call upon our members to lend their strong assistance to our Catholic editors in promoting circulation and a proper share of advertising in our press.

We particularly recommend our diocesan organ, the CATHOLIC COURIER.

Text of Resolutions Adopted By N. C. C. W.

In Eighth Annual Convention, the Rochester Diocesan Council, National Council of Catholic Women, held here Friday and Saturday, November 11 and 12, adopted the following resolutions giving the Catholic women's stand on current issues, such as exaggerated nationalism, racial justice, peace, birth control, and motion pictures.

I—Catholic Societies
Bearing in mind the need and importance of Catholic Societies, and realizing the splendid work they have done in the past, we urge Catholic women to affiliate with Catholic organizations, and to participate actively in the work of the Catholic lay apostolates.

We also urge all Catholic Women's organizations to affiliate with the National Council of Catholic Women, which, directed by our Bishops, enables us to speak and act as one when the welfare of Church or country requires.

II—The Family
We protest against the invasion by the State of the rights of the individual or of the family.

We voice our unalterable opposition to proposed legislation regarding the dissemination of information concerning so-called birth control.

III—Family Education
In its encyclicals on Christian education and Christian marriage, our Holy Father emphasizes the responsibility of parents in training and educating their children and deprecates the decline of preparation for the parental duty and hence the decline of family life.

We urge the Family and Parent Education Committees of N. C. C. W. promote and organize study groups of young mothers whose programs are based on the form of life that Christ would have in the Christian home, emphasizing marriage as a Sacrament, children as gifts from God to be cherished and returned to Him perfected, and religion as a duty that must be lived as well as preached by both parents.

To this end, we also urge the establishment in every home of a family shrine as a center for common prayers and a reminder of the abiding presence of the spirit of Divine Love.

IV—Youth
The hope of the future lies with the youth.

We urge the support of girls' clubs under Catholic leadership, and the organization and development of youth groups, with spiritual, cultural, vocational and recreational activities that will bind them closer to the Church and help them to serve "God and Country."

V—Catholic Education
Recognizing the crying need for religious and moral training, we have, at great expense and sacrifice, maintained our Catholic Schools.

We renews that many of our children are unable to take advantage of these.

We, therefore, urge the support of religious vacation schools, especially in rural districts, and the formation of Study Clubs for the religious education of Catholic pupils in public high schools.

VI—Confraternity of Christian Doctrine
The women of the Rochester Diocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women also offer every assistance according to the ability of its individual women toward the development of the Catechetical program.

VII—Motion Pictures
We acknowledge the goal that has been achieved by the Legion of Decency.

We pledge anew our cooperation and we urge our members not only to join the Legion, but also to promote it under diocesan guidance, to the utmost of their zeal and ability.

We also endorse the movement to have this form of Catholic education include a careful scrutiny of stage shows and of advertising

VIII—Racial
We desire embodied in every statute providing federal, state, county or municipal funds for the relief of those in distress provisions that safeguard the rights of the private, charitable or welfare agency.

We commend the attitude of the Federal Government in recognizing the value and importance of religion in the Civilian Conservation Corps Camps.

We urge our affiliated societies, in the spirit of co-operation, to provide religious activities and religious training for Catholic boys in these camps.

IX—National Catholic School of Social Service
Fourteen years ago, the School was committed to the care of the N. C. C. W.

It is a major achievement of the National Council of Catholic Women.

The rapidly growing need for Catholic social workers through our country demands increased and continuous effort for the effective maintenance and development of this School.

We earnestly urge its support by all our affiliated organizations.

X—Social Justice
We deplore as contrary to the spirit of Christianity and to the ideals of American Democracy the denial of cultural or economic opportunity to any resident of the country on the sole basis of color or race.

We recommend an appreciative study of the cultural and intellectual achievements of these racial groups.

XI—Exaggerated Nationalism
Exaggerated nationalism and an erroneous theory of racial superiority, which foment the Christian hatreds of the early of the human race, brotherhood of men, and the intrinsic worth of each soul redeemed by Christ, have made a large portion of Europe a place of religious intolerance, bias, terror, and oppression.

We must protest against the bitter religious and racial persecutions which are the ungodly, uncharitable and unchristian fruits of this philosophy.

We tender to its victims, our deep sympathy in their sufferings. We will endeavor by prayer and action, insofar as in us lies, to dispel this atmosphere of hate, so inimical to the spiritual destiny and material welfare of the human race.

XII—Guarding Our Traditions
The discontent in our land has offered a favorable opportunity for the propagandist or subversive social and economic theories. Let us counter them with persistent, clear promulgation of the official Christian teaching of the Church, so that at least Catholic youths may not be misguided.

XIII—Economic Measures
The crisis in which we live forbids either disintegration and death or reintegration and life. The peoples of the world who hold faith in man's supernatural destiny are the bulwark that stands against the encroachments of absolutism in its various forms.

We, as a nation of peace, are blessed beyond measure in the enjoyment of tremendous power and wealth, of institutions of

XIV—Catholic Evidence
We urge our women to support and patronize the Catholic Evidence Libraries established at the Columbus Civic Center in Rochester, and in Elmira, N. Y.

We further endorse the work of our sisters in establishing Catholic book shelves, and the donating of Catholic books and periodicals to our public libraries.

XV—Radio
We endorse the Catholic Radio Programs, especially those sponsored by the Rochester Diocese, and urge our affiliated units to give them wholehearted support.

XVI—Institute on Industry
The National Council of Catholic Women, wishing to share the responsibility of helping to solve the problems of the industrial field—leaders who are imbued with the Christian spirit, and who recognize that economic peace must be inspired by Christian principles—have conducted for two years an Institute on Industry, which is in reality a summer school for women workers.

We encourage the attendance of workers from our diocese, and call attention of others to the Institute, that we may contribute to the reconstruction of the social order by helping to promote constructive and intelligent leadership.

XVII—Consumer's Protection Label
The National Council of Catholic Women has consistently supported and encouraged cooperative relationship between employees and employers in line with the teachings of the Encyclicals of Leo XIII and Pius XI; and four-fifths of the employees and employees in the women's cost suit and millinery industries have banded together and have put the "C" purchaser's label on their purchases to join with others to solve their intricate and essentially common problems.

The Rochester Diocesan Council of Catholic Women resolves to individually and collectively support the efforts of employees and employees to obtain and maintain good working conditions and fair-trade practices by buying goods that bear the consumer's protection label.

XIX—Further Resolutions
We take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation to His Excellency, Most Reverend James E. Kearney, who gave us the inspiration to talk at our luncheon meeting yesterday.

We pledge him the loyalty of the Rochester Diocesan Council, N.C.C.W., and promise him our full cooperation, in all that he may undertake.

To Rev. Frederick Nastvogel, C.S.S.R., Rector of St. Joseph's where the Mass opening our Convention was celebrated.

To Rev. George F. Kettell, who offered the Mass for our living and deceased members on November 12, 1938, Saturday.

To our speakers who have brought us information and inspiration.

To Hotel Seneca management for efficient and courteous service.

To all who have helped in any way to make this Convention successful.
