FLARED PRINCESS DRESS

A young and pretty dark-ground print dress that can be worn to town, to the office as well as for bridge or dinner "dates". Its sparkling white print, its delicate pink, makes it look so divinely feminine. You can wear it over other daying and over your evening dress. You'll wear the youthful, fitted, white print, for change of costume. For a sports summer dress, make the dress of solid colored cotton. Size 14 to 20.

Social Set To Aid College Building Fund

4 NAZARETH GROUPS PLAN EVENT MAY 4

Fashions Review and Card Party Listed

Nazareth College announces that its project for the year to aid the College Building Fund is taking the form of a Card Party and Fashion Review. The function will be held at the Columbus Auditorium on the evening of Thursday, May 4. The Fashion Review will be given by the courtesy of the Benjamin Forman Company, South Clinton Avenue.

The four groups sponsoring the project are: the College students, the College Alumnae, Nazareth Academy Alumnae, and the Nazareth College Guild. The general chairman of the benefit party is Miss Helen Rowland, a member of the Nazareth College Alumnae; Miss Zella Lyons, chairman of the College Alumnae; Miss Ruth Smith and Miss Rita Driscoll, co-chairmen of the Nazareth Academy Alumnae; and Mrs. Louis C. Hook, general chairman of the Nazareth College Guild.

The College plans to put on one large activity through which it calls upon the Catholic people of Rochester to support the project. The beginning of a much-needed building for carrying on adequately the important work of our Catholic College. It is well known in Rochester that the location of the College on the Augustus Street site was intended to be very temporary. However, the stress of depression years made the postponement of the building program. In the meantime it is necessary to continue the efforts toward the desired goal.

The Legion of Mary

'A Modern Army of God'

The Legion of Mary, today almost co-extensive with the Church, had a very humble beginning in a poor parish of Dublin, Ireland when in 1921 a small group of women came together to undertake the visiting of the sick and poor in the City. In 1931 the Pope again blessed the Legion describing it as a "Beautiful and Holy work." Since 1931 the Legion has spread to Africa, Australia, New Zealand, the U. S., Canada, the West Indies, China and South America.

The activities of the Legion today are almost limitless. Based on prayer and self-sacrifice, it trains lay-apostles and sends them out to any and every work. In the parish units the members recruit for parish activities, visit the homes of the absentees from Sunday School, to promote the Catholic press and the various Catholic devotions, viz. Daily Mass Crucade, Eucharist of the Sacred Heart, First Fridays, Consecration of Homes to the Sacred Heart, etc.

In all their work the members introduce Catholic literature into the homes and promote the Miraculous Medal. The Legionaries also visit the sick in their homes and in hospitals, visit the destitute in "Flop-houses," organizing Day Retreats for them and getting them to Mass on Sundays. Clubs for the Unemployed and for Boys and Girls are also organized by the Legion.

As a result of their visiting of the "Flop-houses" in the cities of Ireland and England, Hotels (homes) for the destitute men and women are established in the cities of Dublin, London, Glasgow and Belfast. In some of these over two hundred persons are housed and served by the Legion.

Not least successful of its works has been the Sancta Maria Hostels of these cities where a secure home is provided for the Magdalenes reclaimed from the life of the streets by the zealous women Legionaries who visit the lodging-houses.

Introduced into the U. S. in 1931 the Legion has now been established in over half the dioceses. It is also extensively organized in Canada. The U. S. branch founded in Raton, New Mexico by Fr. Schaaf who had read of it in a magazine. In writing for literature, he described his Rocky Mountain mission camp parish as a "spiritual garden." He began with eleven men, sending them out to make the first census of the parish comprising over a dozen nationalities. The results after four months were sensational. "Sixty returns to the Sacraments, some after a lifetime absence."

"Eleven marriages validated and forty more in hand."

"One hundred and fifty increase in Sunday Mass attendance."

"We see new faces in the church every Sunday and those who have stayed away for years are coming back."

In Chicago a branch was established in 1933 and the pastor of the Cathedral reported that "a miracle of grace wrought through the Legion. The members are amazed at the results." In a Brooklyn parish the Legion has, merely by visiting the homes, recruited for parish societies brought back 377 lapsed also 300 children have been brought into the Instruction Class.

The work of the Legion is intensely human and therefore interesting. Here is a typical case of success after years of patient visitation.

"For almost four years the old man who had been to Confession six years. He never went near the Church. However, he accepted medals and a badge of the Sacred Heart from them."
