August, 1938—As a result of a little supervision by C. Y. O. directors, 100 boys were given a real opportu-week at Camp Stella Maria. The group consisted of boys from East Rochester and the program was directed by Father Bernard Gelfell and Daniel J. Malone, Justice of Peace.

August, 1938—397 years ago, St.
Isaac Jogues and St. Rene Goupin ar-secutive year, "Mercedea," semi-annual publication, won the "All Catholic"

August, 1938—A new and enduring granite plaque now calls attention of passers-by to the deeds of early Chris-furnish first class irrefragable historical proofs of the residence of the Missionaries, respectively listed on the monument as having resided in the West Seneca Indian villages from 1668 to 1709." These words constituted a very definite reply by the Rev. Dr. Edward J. Byrne to L. H. Holden, Federal Project Supervisor, who excused the omission of the names of the first missionaries from the Federal Writers' Guidebook on the grounds that "there was an error" in the list of the names on the tablet at Dann's Corners.

September, 1938—The Rochester delegation of the Catholic Central Ver-

September, 1938—"Today these bells echo as a funeral dirge of a great priest. I like to feel that the first bells I have blessed in this diocese will tell the people of St. Augustine's parish to to his heavenly home the soul of Patrick Cardinal Hayes." Bishop Kearney rated the new bells of St. Augustine Church.

single lifetime outstanding successes in a half-score of fields any one of which would have entitled him to a brilliant

United States. Bishop Kearney presided at the Requiem Mass for school children celebrated for Cardinal Hayes at New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral.

September, 1938—26,000 pupils re-recommending frequent Communion as the best means of making this year a success.

September, 1938—Because free textbooks are denied school children through interpretation of the law, Father Michael J. Hynes of St. Pat-the children. He announced a special collection to be taken up at a future date to provide text books for the children.

E. McAniff, temporarily appointed as Chaplain of St. Ann's Home; Rev.
Robert F. McNamara appointed Professor at St. Bernard's Seminary.

September, 1938—Declaring that "a classroom atmosphere which is not religious is dangerous," Bishop Kearney appealed to the people of Rochester with children in public schools to dis-children's education. He sent a special letter to all pastors, urging all parents to guard the faith of their children.

Margaret Mary's parish made the first

He also called upon the government to remove superfluous taxes from any industry which shares its profits with its workers.
