McGUIRE ADVOCATES REFORM OF SELVES

Tells of Catholic Action's Wide Growth

Catholic Action is a movement for the restoration of a right social order; it is not a political or economic movement; it can tolerate neither the totalitarianism of the Nazi nor the totalitarianism of the Marxist.

Thus did Paul McGuire, of Australia, internationally known student and writer, sum up the movement bringing about "The Christian Revolution" in an interview here today.

Mr. McGuire came to address a rally in Columbus, Ohio, tonight (Thursday), sponsored by Rochester Council, Knights of Columbus.

He will be presented tonight by Howard M. Woods, advocate of Catholic Action and reporting on results already being produced in many parts of the world he has visited, Mr. McGuire said.

For individuals reform.

Catholic Action believes that politics and economics are an effect of men's behavior, and that men's behavior is determined by their moral values or the lack of them. If politics are corrupt, if there is injustice and exploitation in the economic field, it is because men are corrupt and unjust. Therefore the reform of society depends upon the reform of the men and women who make up society.

"Catholic Action does not agree with the Communist that if you remove the motive of personal gain by refusing the right to personal property, that you will remove the world war and Catholic Action accepts the notion that man lives only for the race or the State. It cannot agree that the State has a totalitarian claim on man. The State exists for man, not man for the State.

"Catholic Action seeks the reform of consciences and as an effect of that the reform of the world. In Catholic Action every Catholic layman is required to act in this sense in his own immediate environment, in the places where he lives and works. Each is required to tackle the reform of his own small world, because it is only through enough people acting along their own little worlds that the world at large is being restored to right order. But before he can reform anyone else he needs to be reformed himself.

Blind in Charity.

The method is essentially the method of charity. The Catholic hates a sin, but he is never to hate the sinner. He is to remember how the "Church" that saves the world. It was when the pagans said startled "See how these people love one another." When the modern pagan gets that same odd jerk of surprise, the Church is growing as it grew before.

The union of Catholics in the bonds of charity, and the extension of those bonds in the world, the incorporation of the world in the union of Christians, that is the job of Catholic Action.

"Where its work is advanced, the social consequences appear in Belgium for instance, there is growing a new Christian private operative commonwealth. Private property is not destroyed, but men are economically secure.

Cities Grow.

"The League of Peasants has about a third of the families of Belgium; the League of Christian Workers has about another third. They maintain co-operative banks, insurance, newspapers, stores, irrigation and electricity services, experimental farms, buying and selling agencies; a vast structure of adult education ranging from the little local study-group up to University Colleges for workers.

The once desolated worker has been given a new social frame which sustains him in every phase of his social life. This has followed from a realization of the Christian doctrine that we are members one of another; that every Christian should be his brother's keeper.

"Catholic Action now appears in every country of the world, from China to Peru. The Young Christian Workers organization alone, though it is less than 20 years old, expects to send 200,000 delegates of branches to Rome in June this year. Its activity is far more widespread than that of other groups of Communism or Fascism. If it is not in the headline that is because it is growing from the bottom, from the working masses of the world."

Propaganda of Faith Contributions in 1938 Show Marked Increase

ROME.—The General Superior Council of the Pontifical Society for the Propagation of the Faith at a meeting took official cognizance of reports thus far received with regard to the offerings collected by the Society in various countries in 1938. The Council noted with satisfaction that the total receipts showed an appreciable increase over those of the preceding year.

Among the countries reporting advances are France, the United States, Italy, Colombia, Scotland, Australia, Luxembourg, Hungary and India. In the case of a few countries there has been a small falling-off in receipts.

The Society continues hampered in its activities as a result of the legal dispositions forbidding the export of currency from several countries.

Bishop Dedicates New Cold Water School

In dedicating the new school of Holy Ghost parish last Friday in Cold Water, His Excellency, the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, stressed the value of religious education, "which brings great dividends to a community's life."

"Any community," said the Bishop, "will find that the more religious training it gives its young people, the less crime it will have."

Assisting His Excellency were the Rt. Rev. Magr. John Boppel, pastor of St. Boniface Church; the Rev. Lawrence E. Casey, Vice-Chancellor; the Rev. John H. Duffy, Superintendent of Schools; the Rev. Joseph Wurzer, pastor of Holy Ghost Church; the Rev. John J. Baier, Rev. Raymond J. Epping, Rev. George Fredmore, Rev. Joseph Guilfoyle, Rev. Edward Lyons, Rev. Thomas Brennan, Rev. John Keefe and the Rev. John Loughlin.

The new structure cost approximately $18,000 and replaces the one destroyed last October by fire. The new school will accommodate 100 pupils. At present there are 82 enrolled, under the direction of the four Sisters of Notre Dame.

Edward Mulrooney Addresses Policemen

Denouncing the "isms" in the world with vigor, Edward P. Mulrooney, former State Commissioner of Correction of New York City, cited moral courage that comes from faith in God as one of the strongest means of combating them, as he addressed the second annual Communion breakfast of the Rochester Police Department last Sunday morning.

"Our nation is beset with groups promoting foreign isms. We must guard against them. What we need most is full-blooded Americanism and all the religious faith we can get from prayer. I know of no greater force to combat these subversive elements than the Catholic Church and such organizations as the Holy Name Society."

His Excellency, the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, Bishop of Rochester, had celebrated the Mass at Old St. Mary's Church. He was assisted by the Rev. John S. Randall, chaplain of the Police, Holy Name Society Officers Leo Davis and Arthur Doyle served as altar boys, while Dr. George F. Kottell, pastor and the Rev. Joseph McDonald, assistant, assisted in distributing Holy Communion.

Bishop Kearney urged the policemen to be consistent. "Be strict," he said, "with your own conscience and develop a philosophy of consistency. As soon as our life and practice fails to keep pace with the things we believe we are falling short of the splendid ideals that are ours."

Bishop Kearney brought a word of greeting from Archbishop Police Commissioner John A. Doyle, popular member of the group, who is ill at his home led by the Bishop. The men bowed heads in prayer for Doyle's early recovery. Prayers for deceased members of the society were also offered.

Praises New York's Welfare Program

New York State is showing the way in its relief and social welfare program, according to the Rt. Rev. Magr. John O'Grady of Washington, secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities. He was addressing a district meeting of Catholic social service workers in Hotel Seneca last Thursday.

An authority on the subject, Magr. O'Grady has studied the programs of twenty states. Speaking of the Empire State, he said: "You haven't been affected here in the same degree by the economic drive that is hampering the programs of so many states. New York State preserves a better balance in caring for all groups."

In this two-day conference, social workers from Rochester, Albany and Syracuse dioceses attended.

The Rev. Gerald C. Lambert, diocesan director of Catholic Charities, was conference chairman.

Two Speakers Laud Adoration Society

AUBURN.—More than 125 members of the Nocturnal Adoration Society heard the Very Rev. Dean A. Conway laud their efforts at the first annual Communion breakfast of the organization on April 16. He pointed out the good work being done and the advantages of assembling once a month and holding adoration.

Leo Zeller of Rochester, cautioned the members against becoming contented with their efforts simply because they belong to the organization. Zeal and love for the Blessed Sacrament must be ever maintained and the best way to do this is to receive the sacraments frequently.

Officers of the Society are: Joseph J. Hickey, president, Thomas Giblin, first vice-president, John J. Linnenbach, second vice-president, Gustave Wiestehuter, recording secretary, Alban J. Linnenbach, corresponding secretary, Daniel Conner, marshal, Frederick J. Welch, treasurer, Very Rev. Dean John A. Conway pastor of Holy Family Church, director.

Ukrainian Choir Sings Native Airs

AUBURN.—The beautiful plaintive music of the Ukrainians sung in native tongue by the Boyan Choir of St. Peter and Paul Church of this city, was presented in a concert Friday, April 17 in the Holy Family Auditorium. The concert was directed by Prof. Konstantin Orlyk, who came to Auburn from Detroit with the pastor, Rev. Leo Sembratovich, now pastor of the church. The members of the choir were in native dress and the gay colors of the costumes formed a bright picture on the stage.

The stately music of the church opened the program and this was followed by lighter compositions.

HOSPITALITY OF COLONIAL HOME

This is No. 11 of a New Housing Series

DESIGN N-4
Four Rooms, Dinette and Bath

No matter whether a home is small and compact it can be made as artistic, comfortable and homelike as the most expensive. A view of the above picture will convince the most skeptical. This is a neat example of the ever pleasing early American Cottage developed with a plan width adaptable to a very narrow lot. The interior provides large living rooms, cheerful chambers, plenty of windows and a very convenient arrangement, so much appreciated by the discriminating housewife.

A large attic, made available by a stairway from the living room, has plenty of storage space and affords the possibility of partitioning into extra bedrooms.

Dr. Zwierlein Scores Statements On War

out of step with the people of the United States in his ill-advised efforts to involve the United States in the next World War on the side of any foreign nation overseas. The efforts to prevent that tragic disaster after what we have experienced in the last World War have not been fairly presented by the Washington Post editorial endorsed by President Roosevelt. For there we read:

"Most Americans realize today that the sweep of events has now brought Europe to the very verge of war. What insufficiently realized is the tremendous implications of the impending catastrophe for every citizen of this country. In spite of the best informed warnings to the contrary, many still believe that another World War might leave the United States relatively undisturbed. In spite of the virtual certainty of American involvement, there are many who would seek to achieve isolation by patchy legislation, or to seek shelter behind other paper guarantees of immunity."

Now that President Roosevelt has spoken to urge the United States on the side of Great Britain and France in the preparatory war moves, it is time for more patriotic men and women to second those leaders in Congress who are fighting for the wise policy of neutrality which was laid down by the father of our country, George Washington, in his great Farewell Message.

Although he admitted the possibility of temporary alliances in extraordinary emergencies," he urged the observance of good faith and justice toward all nations, peace and harmony with all as conduct enjoined by religion, morality, and good policy, strongly advising the exclusion of permanent inveterate antipathies against particular nations and passionate attachment to others."

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith

Rev. John S. Randall, Director

The Coming Feast of Prayer

On May 28th a special request for spiritual assistance for the missionaries will be addressed to one particular group of Catholics throughout the world. This plea will be made to those who are physically sick, asking them to unite their sufferings with those of a Crucified Saviour in order to win to Him the millions of souls still "sitting in the darkness of paganism." To the minds of many this may seem an unusual request, particularly since it is made to men, women and children who are helpless to take an active part in the great apostolate of the mission. Yet, when one considers the power of prayer, he realizes what a formidable weapon Almighty God has placed in the hands of the sick and suffering.

It needed the fire of the Holy Spirit to ignite the flame of zeal in the hearts of the disciples, just as today it requires the spark of prayer to keep burning the great conflagration of missionary endeavor which will win all men to Christ. It is for that purpose that The Society for the Propagation of the Faith issues its first 1939 appeal for help to the sick and suffering in the United States.
