TWO PIECE FROCK For Town or Country

Send fifteen cents (15c) to PATTERN DEPARTMENT, CATHOLIC COURIER, 50 Chestnut St. Specially sized.

"To tan but not to burn," is the prayer of every fair-skinned girl who goes off for a day at the beach or out for a ride in a tumble-seat. She doesn't want to cover her face with creams and oils, and look too beau like a channel swimmer. And she doesn't want to blister and look like a hospital case.

Skol is easy to use, dries right away and doesn't show on the skin after it's applied. Simply pat it over the face and arms, and repeat again if the exposure is prolonged. Because it's completely greaseless, it doesn't pick up dirt. And what a boon that is! You can stretch out full length without coming up spotted like a porcupine.

Tannic acid derivative which is present in Skol is a recent and important scientific discovery. Its preventive properties have been scientifically tested and established. SKOL is now on sale at department and drug stores everywhere, in three sizes—35c, 60c, and $1 00.

Then again, if she's out basking by herself for sunshine vitamins, she doesn't want to use a sunburn preventive that will block out the beneficial rays. And fashion says the mustn't let her skin get any darker than a subtle golden-tan.

Buff products have one answer—Skol, the antiseptic liquid that contains a special tannic acid derivative. It lets through the beneficial rays, blocks out the ones that do the harm. The scientific product actually filters out those rays of the sun that cause ugly blisters and burning, and allows beneficial rays to pass. It's the modern way to outwit the sun.

The Bishop stressing the need for applying Christianity to all phases of life, nations and individuals, in the Catholic Church one that fundamentally differentiates it from humanly founded Christian sects of recent centuries is that it does not limit itself to the individual's relationship with Christ.

Says Catholic Lag in Social Work

DETROIT (N.C.) While Catholicism is making progress in social work, it is a fact that it lags behind other religions in the field of social work, according to the Rev. Lawrence Director of the National Catholic School of Social Service, Washington, D. C., in an address at the convention of the Catholic Daughters of America here.

Father Lawrence said there are 200 schools in the Association for Schools of Social Work of which 100 are Catholic. The non-Catholic schools enrolled 2,500 full-time students as of November 1, 1937. He said there were 200 students in Catholic schools and 2,500 in non-Catholic schools. Among the non-Catholic schools he declared the average was 87 students per school and among Catholics the average was 43 per school.

"Thirty-two schools of social work graduated 1,000 students in 1937," Father Lawrence went on. "Catholic schools graduated 101 students, an average of 17 per school. The non-Catholic schools graduated an average of 31 per school. Catholic schools had only one-third per cent of the graduates of schools of social work."

A number of interesting facts were drawn from these figures. The most obvious is that of Catholics represent one-fifth of the population and send only one-tenth of the trained social workers into the field.

Father Lawrence said of our job. The responsibility of the Church is to secure for the poor a being met only by half in proportion to non-Catholic groups.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Hard boiled eggs which are to be served for salads should be plunged into cold water immediately after they are done to prevent discoloration.

Fresh bean soup should be garnished with sliced hard-boiled eggs and the tops of vegetables should be blended well with mayonnaise.

Salt added to potatoes when they are nearly done insures fluffiness and prevents them from going to pieces. A teaspoon of sugar put in the pan just before draining them makes them white and flaky.

The best way to skin hot water boiled eggs is to put them in cold water as soon as cooked, then dip the hand gently down each side and the skin will come off easily. Leave stems on in long on beets and the color will not cook out.

To keep moths out of fur sprinkle plentifully with pepper or tobacco which leaves no unpleasant odor and is not so easily shaken out before wearing. A few whole cloves added will also help. Camphor will keep moths from fur but is likely to impart its beauty by damaging the tint and gloss. Avoid wrapping fur in white tissue paper as the atoms in the paper injure fur.

To prevent discoloration of light colored shoes of felt to dispend more and see the hardwood floor or linoleum.

WELCOMED IN ENGLAND

The party was received at Archbishop's House today by Cardinal Hinsley, who afterwards dined at the Spanish Embassy and attended an evening reception in the Embassy.

LOVE MAKES IT EASY

"How can they do it?" That is the wondering query of many worldlings when they see young women in the full bloom of youth leaving home and loved ones and heroically following the Man to become His spouse. The following true stories may well illustrate this point.

Not long ago in distant Algeria, Northern Africa, an American tourist, out of mere curiosity, visited the leper colony. His attention was drawn to one of the Sisters administering to the wants of the lepers. She was attractive, young, refined, and he marveled at her self-sacrifice. Being introduced to her, he learned that she was an American girl. He inquired of her: "Sister, how can you do it?" "No, no," replied the Sister smiling, "nor would I do it for a million dollars." "Really, Sister, you surprise me; what then do you receive?" "Nothing," was the reply, "absolutely nothing." "Then what do you do for?" "The Sister lifted the crucifix from her rosary and sweetly kissing it, said: "I do it for love of Him, Who died for the love of them, and for the love of me—and that love makes it easy." She lit the rosary and he saw the joyous words of my crown and crucifix Saviour and that vision buoy up my strength and console me."

Again—Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Claretian Monastery. One of the nun's youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or of leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" "The nun smiling simply replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" he exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him" pointing to the crucifix on her rosary "makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the 'World of Tomorrow' Heaven."

Attendance at the Religious Vocational Schools is most encouraging.

Those helping this week with transportation of Sisters to and from Annunciation and St. Francis of Assisi Schools are Mrs. Harvey P. Rockwell, Mrs. Joseph Hallinan, Mrs. Edward J. Meyer, the Misses Helen Louise Whalen, Carolyn Vayo, Teresa Kleinham, Elizabeth Zuffen, Aloysia Yawman, and Mrs. Chas. Bayer.

Mrs. Teresa Gannier, Parliamentarian of the Rochester Diocesan Council, N. C. C. W., is planning to attend the 19th Annual Convention of the N. C. C. W. in San Francisco, September 9 to 14. As National President of the Ladies Auxiliaries of the Knights of St. John, she will be one of the delegates representing this national organization, the other being Miss Hannah White of Kentucky. They have the distinction of having attended every convention of the N. C. C. W. since its organization in 1920.

Why does this gathering mean so much? Because it is the corporate manifestation of American Catholic womanhood, strong and united in their faith and interest in Catholic Action. It is the voice of the Catholic women of America speaking as one in prayer and in action, and it is the culmination of an entire year's work by millions of Catholic women who in their daily lives are working toward our common goal under the leadership of the Hierarchy of the Church. As each year passes into history its achievements are remembered and recorded through the particular gathering tangibly in the printed Proceedings of the Convention, intangibly in the hearts and souls of those who attended and in their influence later upon the groups they address and the individuals with whom they come in contact.

If you are planning to attend the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco, why not take advantage of this opportunity to attend the N. C. C. W. Convention? It is our first National Convention on the West Coast.

If you have not yet planned your vacation, why not make it a trip to San Francisco. Rates are very low this year.

So much has been written of the Golden Gate Exposition that we need not dwell on its attractions. Special events at Treasure Island are being planned for Sept. 15 the day following our Convention, to be known as a Miracle Play and Grand Symphony Concert at the evening. The entire program is to be thoroughly Catholic in character and the purpose being to show as far as is humanly possible, that as in poetry and drama that all true culture and beauty are at home in the Church and derive their chief inspiration from her.

"MARIE-IRLANDE"

PARIS The Prime Minister of Ireland and Mrs. Eamon de Valera are godparents of one of the three bells which His Eminence Jean Cardinal Verdier, Archbishop of Paris, has given to the Chapel of Christ the King on the Tournefort near the Pantheon. They were represented at the ceremony by the Irish Minister at Paris and Mrs. Murphy. The bell was christened "Marie-Irlande."

Devoted picture magazines represent a practical menace to public morals in general.
