

K. C. AWARD WINNER—VOCATIONS SAN FRANCISCO BOUND

WOMEN'S WORLD

AS ONE WOMAN TO ANOTHER

By SUZANNE

TWO PICE FROCK For Town or Country

Sand fifteen cents (15c) to PATTERN DEPARTMENT, CATHOLIC COURIER, 50 Chestnut St. Specify size.

"To tan but not to burn." Is the prayer of every fair-skinned girl who goes off for a day at the beach, or out for a ride in a rumble-seat. She doesn't want to cover her face with creams and oils, and look to her beau like a channel swimmer. And she doesn't want to blister and look like a hospital case.

Skol is easy to use. Dries right away and doesn't show on the skin after it's applied. Simply pat it over the face and arms, and repeat again if the exposure is prolonged. Because it's completely greaseless, it doesn't pick up dirt and what a boon that is! You can stretch out full length without coming up spotted like a porcupine.

Tannic acid derivative, which is present in Skol is a recent and important scientific discovery. Its preventive properties have been scientifically tested and established. SKOL is now on sale at department and drug stores everywhere, in three sizes—35c, 60c, and $1.00.

Helen Goschke Wins K. C. Scholarship

A full tuition scholarship at Nazareth College offered by the New York State Council, Knights of Columbus, was awarded this week to Helen Goschke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Goschke, of 12 St. Jacob Street.

Also participating in the examination were the following: June Dugan, 423 Westchester Ave., Patrica Marshall, Scotia, N. Y., Mary Wisniet, Buffalo, Marcella Coufflet, 253 Magnolia Street, and Mildred Dugan, 1000 East 10th St.

Catholic Daughters

lency, and retain the true standard of the Christian American home.

The Bishop said "the victory of the Church in insisting on religion as the basis of social institutions is likewise a victory for the citizens of the state."

Another resolution praised the Catholic Press Association, adding "May the articles of the Catholic Press Association in disseminating authentic news and the best in literature to all who seek the truth increase during the year to come."

Trustee To Report At I.C.B.A. Picnic

Rochester AdLatory Senate Ladies Catholic Benevolent Association will hold a picnic supper at Ontario Beach Park grounds No. 3 on Monday July 24.

VARIED PROGRAM PLANNED FOR DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA

A PROVIDENCE, R. I. A varied program including music to popular summer playgrounds in Rhode Island has been planned for the entertainment of 1,000 delegates and friends of the twelfth biennial convention of the Daughters of Isabella, when they convene here August 7-11.

Deeds Are Read In 2 Canonizations

VATICAN CITY, (AP)—Reading of the Decrees of Title for the canonization of Blessed Gerarda Gagnani and the Blessed Mary of St. Euphrasia Pelletier will take place in the presence of His Holiness Pope Pius XII on July 23.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Hard boiled eggs which are to be used for salads should be plunged into cold water immediately after they are done to prevent discoloration.

WELCOMED IN ENGLAND

LONDON—Great Britain gave a warm welcome to a party of Spanish journalists who arrived here today by Cardinal Hinsley was afterwards dined at the Spanish Embassy.

Martyred Priest Reported To Have Converted His Captor

FUSHUN, Manchuria, (AP)—Rev. Sylvio R. Gilbert, M. M., now in charge of Hui-Jen, Manchuria, near where the body of Father Gerard A. Donovan was found, tells of an interesting piece of information gleaned from one of the local officials.

GOES TO NAZARETH

HELEN GOSCHKE Says Catholic Lag In Social Work

DETROIT, (AP)—While Catholicism is lagging in social work, it is holding their own in the field of social work education, the Rev. Lucian Lauserman, Director of the National Catholic School of Social Service, Washington, declared in an address at the convention of the Catholic Daughters of America here.

Perpetual Help Society

Members of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Society attended a picnic Wednesday at the Meisenzahl Farm in Webster Lanchow was served for the picnicers at 11 o'clock.

NOTED OLD WORLD CHOIRS TO BE HEARD IN AMERICA

NEW YORK—Two of the best known Catholic choral groups of the Old World, the Stranborough Cathedral Choir and the Sistine Chapel Choir will be heard in this country next month in two of four concerts from the Lucerne International Music Festival in Switzerland to be broadcast over the network of the National Broadcasting Company.

VOCATION CORNER

LOVE MAKES IT EASY: "How can they do it?" That is the wondering query of many worldlings when they see young women in the full bloom of youth leaving home and loved ones and heroically following the Master, to become His spouses. The following true stories may well illustrate this point.

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

Social Swirl

The Ladies Auxiliary, Knights of Columbus No. 174, will hold its annual garden party and supper Thursday, July 27, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Javel, 65 Gilbert Drive.

Attitude at Religious-Vocation Schools is most encouraging

Those helping this week with transportation of Sisters to and from Annunciation and St. Francis of Assisi Schools are: Mrs. Harvey P. Rosier, Mrs. Joseph Hiltunen, Mrs. Edward J. Meyer, the Misses Helen Louise Whalen, Carolyn Vayn, Teresa Kleinjans, Elizabeth Zueri, Aloysis Yawman, and Mr. Chas. Bayer.

WELCOMED IN ENGLAND

LONDON—Great Britain gave a warm welcome to a party of Spanish journalists who arrived here today by Cardinal Hinsley was afterwards dined at the Spanish Embassy.

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

MARTYRED PRIEST

Some years ago a prominent layman was visiting a Chelverly Monastery. One of the nuns, youthful and beautiful, showed him throughout the place. When the nun had explained their life of prayer and fasting and abstinence and vigils, the man was amazed. Finally they came to the roof of the convent. It overlooked a beautiful lawn of some wealthy man. Far back from the rolling lawn could be seen a gorgeous colonial mansion with tennis court and swimming pool nearby. All this arrested the man's attention and he said to the nun: "Look at that, Sister! Suppose you had the choice of living in that house, with all the servants and riches that their owners possess, or leading the life you are spending here, which would you choose?" The nun smilingly replied: "Mr. N., that is my old home!" "But how could you do it?" exclaimed the gentleman in surprise. And the nun said only this: "Love for Him—pointing to the crucifix on her rosary—makes it so easy to leave the world of today for the World of Tomorrow. Heaven."

Advertisement for 'AS ONE WOMAN TO ANOTHER' featuring various fashion items and prices.

Large advertisement for '4-SQUARE GALORE in the NEW 4-SQUARE SERVICE CONTEST'. Includes rules, prizes, and a list of participating pharmacies like Carr Pharmacy, Tishler Drugs, and Zeilman Pharmacy.