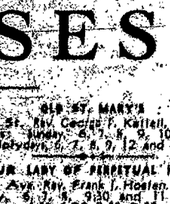
WHERE SHALL I SEND MY BOY OR GIRL TO SCHOOL?



By Albert W. Vogel, Jr. Pres. Rochester Business Institute

With registration only a few weeks away this question is one which must be met without delay. A correct answer depends on many factors. In this article I hope to make clear why a private business school offers your boy or girl in his program.

Perhaps the shortest way to define the position of the private school is to say that it relates the basic training already received (college, high school, or private institution) to immediate business conditions.

This is most important!

Modern business is complex. Modern business in its day-to-day program cannot use general academic knowledge. Some employment managers even go so far as to avoid hiring college graduates for this reason. This should by no means be considered as an argument against college — it is merely an indication that general knowledge must be keyed to business procedure before it will have practical value.

This fact is one which is very often learned by bitter experience. Parents realize the need of specialized business training much more for their sons and daughters. Approximately 25% of each year's enrollment at R. B. I. is made up of young men and women who, for months (sometimes years) of searching for work, realize that a high school or college degree is not enough.

For over 76 years the Rochester Business Institute has been relating the personal needs of individuals to the business needs of this community. That it has been successful is evidenced by the fact that thousands of Rochester's successful business men and women got their start at R. B. I. A further evidence is the continual demand on the part of Rochester's leading industrial and business firms for R. B. I. graduates. (In the last six months over 617 R. B. I. graduates have been placed in positions).

R. B. I.'s fall term starts September 5th. If you are one of those forward-looking parents who believe in preparation for the practical business aspects of life I suggest that you inquire into R. B. I.'s one and two year courses without delay. A catalog will be furnished on request to this office. Telephone Main 3869.

POPE GIVES NATIONS SOUND ADVICE
SPAIN'S OFFICIALS TAKE OATH

New Spanish Officials Take Oaths on Gospels

BURGOS, — (NC) — The cabinet named by Generalissimo Francisco Franco to work for the rebuilding of Spain after the destructive civil war, took the oath of office Saturday evening, each Minister swearing on the Gospels to do "my whole duty for the good of Spain under the orders of the Generalissimo."

The newly-inducted officials met with Generalissimo Franco almost immediately, and later issued a statement which emphasized the moral unity of Spaniards, proclaimed to the world the liberty of Spain, and called upon all Spaniards to work "in a spirit of unity, discipline and faith."

Crucifix on Table

The swearing-in ceremony took place at the residence of the Generalissimo. A statue of Our Lord stood against the background of Nationalist banners. A crucifix stood beside the Gospels on a table.

Esteban Bilbao, Minister of Justice, first took the oath of office, and then, as first State Notary, he administered the oath to the other members of the cabinet. As each Minister swore to work for the good of Spain, Generalissimo Franco told him that God will reward him if he is faithful to his trust, and that God will hold him to account if he is not.

In the statement issued on behalf of the cabinet following its meeting with the Generalissimo, the Government stated its aims "before all Spaniards." It said its first aim is united action to attain the objectives of national reconstruction and the moral unity of Spaniards.

It asserted that "the high aims of the National uprising demand that all of Spain enter into the reconstruction and promotion of her resources." "From the difficult days of the war successfully overcome," the statement also said, "we await the flowering of the national economy on the most just bases, with Spaniards developing their creative initiative in the supreme national interest.

The barbarous Marxist aggression imposes a stage of supreme sacrifice. All of our efforts will be to proclaim to the world the power, and liberty of Spain." It declared that the Government "will dedicate its greatest efforts to the end of recovery" and it called all Spaniards "to work in a spirit of unity, discipline and faith."

The cabinet, each of its members having sworn fidelity "to God, to Spain and to Franco," set about the great tasks that lie ahead.

SERVICE TO GERMANY IS RELIGION, SAYS SCHIRACH

BERLIN—In addressing the Hitler Youth of the middle Elbe section at Magdeburg, Baldur von Schirach, head of the Nazi youth organization, spoke to 45,000 youths about the "sacred sign" of the Hitler Youth.

"The flag that the Hitler Youth follows," von Schirach said, "is a sacred sign; for the Youth of Adolf Hitler it is the true sign of a joyous faith. When anyone says that the Hitler Youth is a youth without religion and without God, we reply: Our service for Germany is also a religion! When the Hitlerian Youth faithfully and bravely fulfills his duty to the nation, and when he shows obedience to Der Fuehrer, whom God has sent to him, he is acting in conformity with the Omnipotent."

Sacrifice Needed To Gain Peace, Declares Pope Pius

By MSGR. ENRICO PUCCI

VATICAN CITY—Sacrifice is necessary to the attainment of justice and peace, and unless individuals and nations are ready to renounce rather than to exact things international comity is impossible.

This is a point emphasized in a letter which His Eminence Luigi Cardinal Maglione, Papal Secretary of State, has written in the name of His Holiness Pope Pius XII. The letter is addressed to the Rev. P. A. Archambault, S.J., Director of the Ecole Sociale Populaire (Popular School of Social Service) in Canada, and marks the preparations for the seventeenth Semaine Sociale (Social Week), which French Canadian Catholics are to hold at Quebec, September 24 to 29.

Noting that "Peace" is the general theme of the Social Week, the letter asserts that "going back to the fount of peace, of which justice is the guardian, one truth stands out in all its effulgence—that it is necessary to reach the great benefits that are justice and peace by means of sacrifice which advises one to renounce rather than to exact things.

Sacrifice Required

"Neither syndicalism and the collaboration of classes, nor co-operative organization, nor healthy nationalism, nor perfect national education can realize social peace, or peace among nations, as long as sacrifice is put aside and only legal rights tend to triumph."

Through the medium of the Cardinal's letter, Pope Pius indicates his satisfaction with the theme chosen for the Canadian Social Week, because at the present moment nothing occupies the spirit more, nor forms the object of more preoccupation on the part of all, than does peace. Peace, the letter states, is desired more than ever today, as much by individuals as by nations.

The letter points out that the Popular School of Social Service has full knowledge that current universal disturbances have their roots in passions and that these very causes of unrest obtruct truth and justice. With this in mind, the letter continues, the School proposes to study the problems of social peace no less than those of national and international peace in the light of Christian principles. These Christian principles, it is made clear, contain the key to the solution of such problems, and, what is more important, offers the solution in the light of that great reality which is called love, or rather charity without which justice itself is merely a dangerous illusion and cruel deception.

Moral Values Origin

While it is true that peace among peoples occupies first place in present-day problems, it is also true that external peace finds its roots in the internal peace of conscience, and that collective peace has its first roots in that individual peace which is the spontaneous root of Christian justice, the letter says.

Therefore, the message adds, the Holy Father sees with pleasure the important place which is given to the peace of the individual and the family in the program for the Social Week. It is in these elements of fact, the letter says, that the moral values of peoples have their origin, and nothing is more effective for the happiness of nations than the elevated formation of the Christian personality through the development of private and family virtues, and, above all, by means of the profound cultivation of religious sentiment according to the principles of the Gospel.

Fundamental Principle

"Insisting on this point," the letter continues, "the work of your Social Week will develop itself on perfectly solid ground, because it will have in view, above all, the fundamental principle of the happiness of man. Soon above all the reign of God and His justice. That is the principle which is the fundamental reason of society which, when it is put into practice, has always brought individuals and groups to the attainment of that tranquility which alone is capable of relieving the sons of God of their many miseries."

In conclusion, the leter says the Holy Father prays God to illumine his devout soldiers by His word, and to make their good will full and fruitful. He thanks the promoters of the Social Week for their generous efforts and prays for progress for the Popular School of Social Service. His Holiness sends his blessing to the directors, collaborators and participants in the Social Week.

Interdict Ordered

ers are told in these instructions that "the pronounced sense of honor of the German people is the expression of their national religion."

The followers of Hitler do not hesitate to carry all these teachings into practice. Thus the house in Ratibor, of Monsignor Ulitzka, former Reichstag Center Party Deputy, was recently destroyed by Nazi hoodlums, while the prelate himself was ordered by the Nazi police to leave the frontier zone where he had pursued his priestly calling for so many years. He was told at the same time that he must not deliver any sermons and never address public meetings.

The tension in the Silesian frontier zone has become so serious that His Eminence Adolf Cardinal Bertram, Archbishop of Breslau, has issued instructions to the clergy that church services must no longer be held in the Polish language. Similar instructions temporarily banning German services in the Polish frontier districts were issued by the Most Rev. Stanislaus Adamski, Bishop of Katowice. Both Ordinaries were motivated by the desire to avoid further serious disturbances of divine services by fanatical Poles or Nazis.

Crucifixes Demolished

How far such disturbances can go is shown by reports from the Palatinate. In Bergzabern's Catholic Church crucifixes and statues were demolished while almost all the furnishings in the Sacred Heart Church of Landau were destroyed, and even dynamite laid underneath the main altar by Nazi vandals.

In Steinweiler statues of the Blessed Virgin and of various Saints were smeared and damaged. In one instance a statue of Our Lord was damaged and a broom put into Our Lord's hand while His face was covered by a dog's muzzle. A group of Catholics who were about to drive to a church function suddenly found their car confiscated by the Nazi authorities.

Chinese Converts 5 Teachers, 7 Students

PEKING.—A real apostle is Brother Benedict Pien, Chinese Principal of Sacred Heart Middle School for boys conducted by the Marist Brothers here, says Lumen Service.

Although overburdened with teaching and the general direction of some 250 students, Brother Benedict has nevertheless found time to prepare five teachers and seven students for baptism in the past year and conducts daily religion classes for some 30 other prospects. In addition to the 12 students and teachers baptized this year, several dependents of one teacher and the father of a student were also baptized.
