"There is a Tide"

By Kenest W. Velpel, Jr. Pres. Rochester Business Instituts

TP I had an opportunity to talk to all the 1986 graduating classes of all the high achools of this country at one time I would most certainly start li with Blinkespeare's famous words: "There is a tide in the affairs of men which if tuken at lis flood leads on to fortune-" It seems to me that never before time these words so directly applied to a particular group of people.

Even the ensual america of economic evenin atthis time must recognize that a great period of business insprovement "is near at hand. This is shown in many wars. I might mention one particular indications close at hand. The calls for trained bustness gradualts which have come from business and industrial arganizations of Rachester to R. B. I.'s Placement Department for the first all months of this year have more than doubled aver the almilar period of a year ago, I mention this because together with many other factors the indication is sery definitely that the tide of heintness emportunity is at hand!

There have been fatorable transmit tides in bistory before. In this connection it is well to rememher that "tides" in themselves mean nothing. The great mass of umskilled workers at any time gain very little from prosperity. This is particularly true of the age in which we live. Unskilled labor is largely accomplished by machines. Today it is skilled training that counts—philled training along fit endeavor demanded by bisiness bellen hi the me ment: I can mention a number of types of ment aftering special apportunity at this time. There hi for example, a definite demand for women datunta in decior's officer and in the adminis Alvisions of bouplish. There is no included eath for inrial training. Holh men and women with normal achool background and with be training added, are particularly in domain
