

Crusaders Warned Of War Propaganda

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Rallied to the cause of international unity as they brought their eleventh convention to a close here, members of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade pledged themselves to work and to pray for peace among nations.

Proclaiming that peace within the heart of the individual is the condition of peace within nations and between nations, the Crusaders urged vigilance of their own minds against "relentless propaganda for war."

The convention by resolution, called upon the Crusaders to "study and publish Catholic principles of justice and charity in accordance with the recent Papal Encyclicals and pronouncements" and to "discourage and be able to refute war propaganda, based on the theory of economic expediency, the theory of war, class and racial hatred, extreme nationalism, and the like."

The Crusaders also resolved to respond with zeal to the plea of our Holy Father for daily prayer for peace, especially by the daily recitation of the Rosary.

Resolutions regarding the crusade were adopted by the members of the C.S.M.C. who they support, and read the following: "In the words of Pope Pius XI, 'The most serious danger to the world has perhaps never witnessed in its history directed to the diffusion of Communist ideas.'"

"Whereas the modern world is daily, moreover, of what Pope Pius XI called a conspiracy of powers to 'the horrors perpetrated in Russia and Mexico, and even in the United States, and of the intervention of such powers in the affairs of other nations...'

The Crusaders also resolved to keep alert in the face of the increasing propaganda, and to study the C.S.M.C. program of social Catholicism, and to study the C.S.M.C. program of social Catholicism, and to study the C.S.M.C. program of social Catholicism.

In urging increased efforts to intensify the financial support of the crusade, the convention directed attention to the fact that the crusade is a "missionary activity" and that it is a "missionary activity" and that it is a "missionary activity."

The resolution pertaining to the Negro Mission put the C.S.M.C. on record as approving "any and every activity" that "tends to the betterment of the Negro race" and that it is a "missionary activity" and that it is a "missionary activity."

CRUSADERS GATHER IN NATION'S CAPITAL

Gathering together at the Catholic University of America, Bishops, Priests, Brothers, Sisters and Catholic youth from all parts of the United States, the eleventh convention of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade provided Washington with one of its most colorful meetings. Upper left: Rt. Rev. Marj. Joseph M. Corrigan, Rector of Catholic University; the Most Rev. Eugene J. McGuinness, Bishop of Raleigh, and the Most Rev. Francis J. L. Beckman, Archbishop of Dubuque and Chairman of the Executive Board of C. S. M. C. listen intently as the Most Rev. Francis J. Beckman, Bishop of Oklahoma, Kans., and a member of the Crusade's Executive Board, sounds the convention keynote. Blackfoot Indian boys (below) from Montana were one of the most interesting groups at the meeting. Left to right, standing: Martin Good Rider, who was Shirley Temple's leading man in a recent motion picture; Eugene First Person, the Rev. Bernard Cullen of the Marquette League; Mary Meyers and Frances Kowalski, delegates to the convention from Washington, D. C., and Philip Medicine Boy, Blackfoot. Aloysius Christ Crow, George Black Bear and Albert Call-lookung. (N.C.W.C. photos.)

1,500 Attend Annual Stella Maris Supper

Throngs of Catholics and friends from all over the Diocese crowded the grounds of Camp Stella Maris on Cousins Lake last Wednesday, August 23, for the annual social and supper for the benefit of the camp.

A chicken supper was served from five to eight o'clock and benefited the camp. The supper was held throughout the evening.

All proceeds will be used to help defray expenses in the maintenance of Camp Stella Maris, the Diocesan boys' camp conducted by the Division of Social Action of the Rochester Catholic Archdiocese.

Indian Catholic Boy Of Film Note, Draws Attention At Convention

WASHINGTON.—Of all the delegates to the eleventh convention of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, held at the Catholic University of America here this week, few attracted more attention than Martin Good Rider from the Holy Family Mission in Montana.

Martin, it will be recalled, was recently featured in a motion picture starring Shirley Temple. He came to the Crusade convention with a group of Blackfoot Indian youths. They were the guests of the Rev. Bernard Cullen, Director General of the Marquette League for Catholic Indian Missions.

Reading a paper on "The Missions for Indians" at a Wednesday evening session of the convention, Martin brought his remarks to a close by saying:

"I want you, my fellow Americans, to take an active interest in the Indian Missions of our country. You know, charity begins at home. Say a little prayer each day for the Priests and Sisters who are teaching my people how to know and love Christ better. That God will bless their work. Say a prayer also for the work of the Marquette League. I know I do each day, because everything I have, all my success in life, I owe to the Marquette League. God bless you always and please say a little prayer for me."

Dr. Ross Now Attending Oxford Summer School

NEW YORK.—Dr. Eva J. Ross represented the American Catholic Sociological Society at the Summer School of the Catholic Social Guild held in Oxford, England, during August. She is also one of the leading speakers at the Summer School of Catholic Action held in London at the request of Cardinal Hinsley from August 12 to August 19.

Miss Ross has been in Europe since the Spring of this year, making a study of Catholic social movements in Belgium, France, Great Britain, and Holland. She is the author of "Rudiments of Sociology," "What is Economics?" and a new book, "Fundamental Sociology," which will be released on September 15.

Dishwasher's Painting Center Of Exhibition

WASHINGTON.—A colorful canvas painted in spare time by a young colored Catholic employed as dishwasher in a restaurant was the central attraction of the Franciscan display at the Mission Exposition held in connection with the eleventh Catholic Students' Mission Crusade Convention at the Catholic University of America here.

The young artist, Philip May, is a member of Corpus Christi parish, Chicago, the large south side colored parish of the Franciscans.

The painting, eight feet by five shows St. Francis gathering around him the children of all nations and is symbolic of the work of the Franciscans throughout the world.

It was the centerpiece in a display of the work of the Franciscans Sacred Heart Province among the Indians of Wisconsin, the Chinese of northern Siam, the Chautauq Vicariate and the Negroes of the Middle West.

Fear Alcuin Werner, friary porter, saw some of Mr. May's work and was impressed by his artistic ability. As a result of this interest Mr. May was commissioned to execute a symbolic poster on short notice, but working against time he produced in a finished oil painting of merit. In approximately 30 hours evenings and Saturday afternoons, he succeeded in finishing his canvas in time to reach Washington for the opening of the convention.

Oldest Benedictine Priest Dies At 92

ATLANTON, Kans.—The Rev. Alban Rudloff, O.S.B., of St. Bonaventure Abbey, Neb., died at his abbey August 23, was the 92-year-old senior member of the entire Benedictine Order and believed to be the oldest priest in the United States.

The venerable old monk was an active figure in the settlement of the Middle West by his 68 years of priestly work. He saw St. Benedict's grow from a small frontier school to a leading Catholic college of this section. When he came to Atlanton in 1863, St. Benedict's was a struggling priory with two priests, one cleric, and three lay brothers. Now the community numbers 133 members.

Father Alban was born at Rich- toun, Mo., January 6, 1847, of Russian parentage. His desire to study for the priesthood led him to Atlanton in 1862 in the thick of the Civil War. He entered the Benedictine Order in 1864, a year after the war ended, and was ordained June 26, 1871.

He assisted in founding many parishes in Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, and Missouri in the ensuing years. He helped in the founding of Belmont Abbey in North Carolina and did parish work in Baltimore, Md.; Carrollton, Pa.; and other cities of the East. For the last fifteen years feebleness and ill health forced him into retirement.

Father Alban is survived by two nieces, Sister Luitgard Mengwasser and Sister Lioba Rudloff, both at Mt. Scholastica Convent here.
