

Aquinas, Auburn Set For First Grid Tilt

Football preparations are under way both at Aquinas Institute and Holy Family High School of Auburn. These two teams meet on September 30 to inaugurate the 1935 season for both elevens.

Johnny Sullivan, coach of the Aquinas Irish, is preparing for a very difficult schedule—one which includes three collegiate freshmen battles: Niagara, Hobart and Canisius, and tilt with four high schools of outstanding calibre.

Along with Mort Leary, his capable assistant, Sullivan will endeavor to build another Irish juggernaut from the 37 squadmen last year and from the 170 hopefuls who turned out for the opening call. The squad will probably total 66 members.

As a nucleus, the Irish mentor has Chuck Maggio, who has done outstanding work at center; Hank Conti, the 190-pound guard, will be working in the fullback position this year; Bob Landry, who totaled plenty of long runs last season, will be at the right half slot; Bob Bauer, who saw action last season, will take over the signal calling job. He will probably do the kicking for the Irish. Elmer Macaca will work at the guard position and Ray Maginn will probably hold down left tackle.

Harry O'Neill, Hank Lally and Jim Kearney are regarded as good material and will undoubtedly move into the starting lineup.

Holy Family High

Coach Johnny Flynn has been working regularly with his squad of 25 and has a pretty good idea of his starting lineup. With the exception of linemen, Flynn is quite certain who will be in there against the Aquinas Irish on September 30. While the first team is all set, the question of replacements is an important one because of the limited squad.

This battle with the Irish will give Flynn a good idea of his charges as it will be the toughest tilt on the schedule.

The complete schedule for Holy Family High School is as follows:

- Sept. 20—Aquinas Institute at Rochester.
- Oct. 6—St. Francis DeSales High School at Geneva.
- Oct. 13—St. Anthony's of Syracuse at Syracuse.
- Oct. 20—St. Aloysius of Rome, here.
- Oct. 27—St. Francis DeSales of Geneva at Geneva.
- Nov. 3—St. Mary's of Corland, here.
- Nov. 12—Christian Brothers Academy of Syracuse, here.

All of Holy Family's home games will be played on Sunday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock in the Senior High School stadium.

Wings Point For Play-Off Victory

Billy Southworth's Rochester Red Wings finished the regular season race Sunday in second place, terminating one of the most interesting campaigns which the International League has experienced in many years. Now they have entered the play-off series for the Governor's Cup, the winner of which will have the honor of representing the circuit in the Little World Series.

Right down until the next to the last week of the season, the Red Wings had a pretty good chance of beating out the Jersey City Giants. Then, however, a temporary nose-dive put an end to their pennant hopes, and they had to be satisfied with second place.

Play-off competition is going to

Priest Brings Tale of Savages

Bringing the story of his travels among savages of New Guinea, who still live at the cultural level of the stone age, Father William Ross, a Divine Word Missionary, will come here on Thursday, Sept. 21, to be guest-speaker at a card party and fashion show to be sponsored by the Mission Guild of the Divine Word.

Father Ross will come to Rochester from St. Michael's Mission House at Hemlock Lake, Coneaus, N. Y. His home is in Orange, N. J.

While few white men and no white women have seen the valley in New Guinea with a population of 200,000, where he is stationed, this courageous and keen-eyed Divine Word Missionary, ventures beyond his five feet stature, has returned to tell his story.

A former member of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, Father Ross was able to tell his experiences at the national convention at the Catholic University of America in August.

For the past five years, longer than any other white man, 44-year-old Father Ross has lived among the sturdy folk deep in the interior of Australian New Guinea. One-third of them, armed with spears and arrows tipped by sharp bones fashioned from the forearms of their own dead relatives, are cannibals.

Within a year after taking over his mission, fatal arrows had pierced the lungs of his two companions, Brother Eugene S.V.D. of Mt. Carmel, Illinois, and a European S.V.D. Missionary. Alone Father Ross mastered in eight months a language that no white man had ever learned.

By translating the Old Testament into Hoga, Father Ross spread the Christian story of creation. He mimeographed 100 copies of the Old Testament, published a hymnal, the New Testament, a prayerbook and catechism.

Thirty-nine stalwart young men have now accepted the word of Christ and are going to act as an opening wedge in converting the rest of their people," says Father Ross.

He has leveled off a landing field that is very nearly the highest in the world, 8,400 feet. A mission plane now brings supplies from the outside world.

Apart from Father Ross and a few devout aides, no white man disturbs the ancient isolation of Hoga. The Australian government has forbidden entrance to both commercial agents and anthropological expeditions from Oxford University.

Notre Dame Award Given Chicago Youth

NOTRE DAME, IND. — Roger Cermak, Editor of Chicago, Ill., has been named recipient of the William E. Donahue Memorial Scholarship, providing full expenses of a four year course in the College of Commerce at the University of Notre Dame according to an announcement here by the Rev. J. Leonard Carrico, C.S.C., director of studies.

Established in 1935 by the widow of the late William E. Donahue, former advertising manager of the Chicago Tribune, the scholarship competition examinations were held at St. Mel's High School, Chicago, August 24th. The competition, under the terms of the scholarship, was open to the honor graduates of six high schools in Chicago, Chicago, St. Ignatius, St. Patrick's, St. Philip's, Holy Trinity and Weber, as well as to any member of the Annunciation Roman Catholic Church parish able to meet the academic qualifications.

Convert Writer Hostess To Altar Boys After Being Received in Church

By Katharine McKiever LISIEUX.—Fifteen French boys were very happy yesterday. War clouds hovered over France, but they were quite content with the walls of the Benedictine Abbey here, eating ice cream at least two helpings each and it was the first time some of them had ever tasted this delicacy so familiar to American children.

Twelve of these were Petit-Clerics of St. Therese who had served as altar boys during the ceremony at which Frances Parkinson Keyes was received into the Church. Their duties ended, they were her guests at this feast in the refectory of the posolea conducted by the Benedictines for women who wish to spend days of rest and quiet within the abbey walls. The ceiling of the refectory is very high, and so are the backs of the chairs on which the boys were seated around the circular table. They are boys in their early "teens" but in these surroundings they seemed ever smaller than they are. Around the walls, beneath the ceiling, is a frieze composed of the coats-of-arms of the abbesses who, from the eleventh century until the Revolution presided over Notre Dame de France.

While the boys were feasting in the posolea refectory, the Most Rev. Francois Picaut, Bishop of Bayeux and Lisieux, the chaplains of the Benedictines and the Carmelites, eight or ten priests, and a number of other guests, including St. Therese's classmates, Miles, Helen Hue and Josephine Le Prince, were being entertained for formally in the room which had served as a refectory when St. Therese was a pupil at the abbey. The section of the abbey chapel open to the public was taxed to accommodate the friends Mrs. Keyes has made during her visits to Lisieux. Seats near the altar rail were a number of Religious—Oblates of St. Therese and the Soeurs Tourieres of Carmel—and behind the cloister grille were the 80 nuns of the abbey.
