Diocesan Women Hear Archbishop At Geneva Board Meet

By FRANK J. CONROY
GENEVA. — Back to their respective dioceses went some 100 Catholic women Saturday inspired to carry on organization activities after attending a fruitful gathering of the Board of Directors, Rochester Diocesan Council, National Council of Catholic Women in all day session here.

The conference program opened at 8 o'clock when members attended Mass at St. Francis de Sales church. The celebrant was Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter J. Lee.

Officers and members were present from Rochester, Elmira, Newark, Corning, Ithaca, Canandaigua, Hornell, Danville and Geneva.

The morning session in St. Stephen's parish house, was devoted to routine business. Mrs. M. E. Kehoe, Rochester Diocesan president, presided at the conference in the absence of the Diocesan president, Mrs. Cecilia Yawman of Rochester, who is attending the national convention in San Francisco.

Most Reverend Thomas P. Hickey, Archbishop of Vincennes was the principal speaker at the luncheon at the Hotel Seneca at 12:15 o'clock.

Presiding at the luncheon was Mrs. Thomas A. Kane, Geneva Diocesan president and head of the local unit. Mrs. Thomas E. Quigley was toastmistress.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter J. Lee of St. Francis de Sales church spoke briefly to the members on the subject of "Articulate Catholic Womanhood," referring particularly to the work that is being accomplished by the National Council.

Monsignor Lee then welcomed Archbishop Hickey, and introduced him to the members.

"It gives me very great joy to be with you at this meeting," said Archbishop Hickey. "It is a meeting of women representing the National Council of Catholic Women and you come here as representatives of a large body of Catholic women in this Diocese of Rochester."

"The first thought that comes to us is, what is the purpose of this organization, because there is a purpose or it would not exist. The name upon which it is founded tells us immediately the purpose."

Archbishop Hickey quoted from the writings of St. Francis de Sales, patron saint of the local parish of St. Francis de Sales dwelling particularly upon the love of God.

"The love of God is the greatest of our life and when I am speaking to a body of women whose membership in this organization is determined by their membership in the Catholic church, I am speaking to a body of women who have the Catholic church as their mother teacher, and whatever they do is done according to the mind of the church," he said. "And when we speak of what the Catholic church would have us do, we come back to the founder of the church, the Incarnate Son of God, who walked this life for us, and who made our conquest of the world on the cross by love. For 1900 years that love has reigned in the world."

After luncheon, the afternoon session was held at St. Stephen's parish house, when various Diocesan and unit presidents presented their reports.

Miss Agatha Young, Diocesan secretary, spoke on the work that is being done by the National School of Social Service in Washington and asked the members to interest young women in this school.

Mrs. Emily O'Donnell, of Rochester, chairman of the Diocesan Study Clubs, spoke on the program that is being carried out by this committee. She stressed the necessity of the study clubs and urged all of the units to cooperate in the work.

An interesting letter was read from Mrs. Cooper, president of the Corning Diocese, who was attending the American Legion Convention in Albany. She described special religious services that were held for the deceased soldiers.

Mrs. R. Leo Sullivan of Ithaca, chairman of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Rochester Council, presented the report of the accomplishments of that organization.

Miss Mary Newsome, president of Elmira Diocese, spoke on the project of the Elmira members who are to provide books for a new children's room in the Elmira Library.

Civic affairs and the participation of the National Council members in the work of the community was the subject chosen by Mrs. Mark Sullivan of Canandaigua.

Mrs. M. E. Kehoe then discussed the work of the Maternity Guild in Rochester. The members have taken care of the needs of 68 mothers and have made about 150 layettes and provided other necessary equipment.

Mrs. John F. O'Toole of Auburn, reviewed the work of the affiliated societies in Auburn.

An invitation was extended to the members to visit the Catholic Women's Club of Rochester. The invitation was given by the president, Mrs. George Guerinet, of Rochester.

School Savings

Over a week throughout the school year Rochester boys and girls have been saving money in their own little pockets. From these school savings accounts they have been saving money for the future. The amount you save is not as important as the habit you form.

They have been working towards the things they want in the future. They have been saving for their education. They have been saving for their future. They have been saving for their future. They have been saving for their future.

Blackfriars Campaign Moves Into Final Week

Blackfriars campaigners headed down the home stretch this week, determined to push their drive well over the 1,500 membership mark at the closing dinner Monday evening.

Announcement that Eddie Dowling, actor, playwright and producer, will appear in the work premieres of "Brother Oswald" at the Auditorium October 2 and 3 spurred the workers at the opening campaign dinner last Thursday.

Rehearsals for "Brother Oswald" already are underway under the direction of Eric Elliott, newspaper director of the Guild, who spoke at the first report meeting last Monday evening.

First reports at the Monday meeting showed division No. 1, headed by Miss Rita Doolin, leading with 27 paid memberships. Division No. 4, headed by Miss Mabel Perdue, was second with 20 memberships, while Martin Moll's Division No. 5 was third with 19 members.

In fourth place was Mrs. John M. Gould's Division No. 2 with 18 members. Miss Mary Lawless reported her Division No. 1 had signed up 13 members.

Margaret Miles headed the individual workers at the first report meeting with 7 members. Ida Barrett had 6 while Eric Smith and Arthur Hunt had 4 apiece.

The Most Rev. James E. Keenan, Bishop of Rochester, gave formal endorsement to the campaign at the opening dinner. He was introduced by John E. Keenan, general chairman of the campaign.

Women's Club Lists Msgr. Bergan Talk

Current events, vital topic of the day, will be discussed in a lecture by the Rt. Msgr. William F. Bergan at the Catholic Woman's Club first fall meeting.

Friends of the Club are invited Monday evening at 8 P. M. September 19 to the Clubhouse on Alexander Street to join with members in an interesting evening.

Monsignor Bergan is Chancellor of the Diocese and newly appointed Pastor of St. Monica's Parish. He is well known to Rochester audiences.

A short business meeting will precede the talk. Mrs. Walter A. Knapp is chairman for the lecture assisted by the following committee:

Mrs. George W. Guerinet, Mrs. Charles F. Albert, Mrs. Edward G. Belkitch, Miss Nellie A. Brannigan, Mrs. William J. Caudill, Mrs. William F. Dawey, Mrs. John M. Foley, Mrs. John H. Gould, Mrs. Joseph P. Henry, Mrs. John J. McCarthy, Mrs. Joseph P. MacSweeney, Mrs. James L. Magner, Miss Rose E. Moore, Mrs. Grace F. Muligan, Mrs. Thomas H. Nash, Mrs. John H. Odenbach, Mrs. Walter C. Schlitter, Mrs. John M. Scott, Mrs. Ernest E. Smith, Mrs. William M. Woodruff.

Other Catholic Women's Club activities for the fall season are the membership drive beginning the week of September 25 under the leadership of Mrs. Ronald J. McDonald.

Girl Scout Troops have meetings this coming week at the Clubhouse. Troop 34 gets together September 18 at four o'clock with their leader Mrs. Charles R. Wilson. Troop 32 meets Wednesday, Sept. 20 with Mrs. Boyd E. Howland, leader. Thursday, September 21, the Sea Scout leaders convene with Miss Marjorie Howland in charge.

Health Service Outlined

Plans for further development of health teaching and services in the Catholic schools were discussed Thursday, September 14, at a School Health Education luncheon conference at the Chamber of Commerce sponsored by the Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Mrs. Elizabeth Semanoff, Secretary, School Health Education of the Bronx Committee of the New York Diocese and Health Association, and member of the Child Health Committees of the National Tuberculosis Association, outlined the development of a health teaching program in the schools of the New York Diocese which led up to the preparation and use of a Teachers' Guide and Health Syllabus by a Committee of which she was a member.

Mrs. Semanoff is scheduled to address the annual Catholic Teachers' Institute of the Diocese Friday at Aquinas Institute, demonstrating a health teaching program of learning by doing.

The services of Mrs. Semanoff have been provided through a joint action of the Rochester and Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Association and the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health.

Presiding at Thursday's conference was Theodore A. Zorow, Assistant Superintendent of the Rochester Public Schools. Those participating included Rev. John M. Duffy, Joseph P. MacSweeney, Mrs. Joan M. Foley, Dr. Arthur M. Johnson, Health Officer, Dr. Clarence V. Costello and Priests of Parishes in which there are Catholic Schools.

The service rendered the schools is made possible through contributions received in the City through the Community Chest and in the County through the sale of Christmas Seals.

How sure are you that your Child's Eyes are sound?

Your child may have defective eyesight without your knowing it. This happens to many parents. Possibly proper glasses could easily correct the condition, while neglect might have serious results. Take no chances with your child's eyes if you have the slightest intimation that something may be wrong. Bring him in for an examination right away.
