Bishop McQuaid was the founder of St. Andrew's preparatory seminary, where young men who have no means to pay for their education who are possessed of the desired ability are educated for the priesthood. This institution is entirely his and from it comes the large number of [illegible] priests in this diocese. As has been stated, "all that the pupils are required to furnish are plenty of brains and [illegible] looks after."

When the Bishop took charge of the new diocese in 1869 there were only sixty churches in existence. To-day there are eighty-eight churches in the diocese, showing a growth of twenty-eight new churches in the twenty years that the Bishop has been in charge. In 1869 there were but thirty-eight priests in the diocese. Now there seventy-four. Of the original number in the diocese in 1869 there are but twelve in charge of churches at the present [illegible] there and it
