Pictured bidding farewell to some of the girls from St. Mary's Mission for the Chinese. Is Sister Margaret Marie Jung, of San Francisco, daughter of a convent farmily She has been assigned to the Maryknoll Sisters' convent in Hong Kông (N.C.W.C.)

VII-Youth

The hope of the future lies with our Youth. We urge the empport of girls' clubs under Catholio leadership, and the organization and devel-opment of youth groups, with spiritual, cultural, vocational and ecreational activities that will bird them closer to the Church and help this to serve and Country."

VIII-Catholic Evidence We urge the support and patronage of the Catholic Evidence Libraries established at the Co-lumbus Civic Cantre in Rochester, and in Elmira, N.Y. We further endorse the work of sur deanerits in tatabilahing Catholic book shalves, and donating Catholic books and periodicals to our public libraries. IX-Legion of Decency

We acknowledge the good that has been achieved by the Legion of Decemoy.

We pladge anew our co-opera-tion and we urge our members not only to join the Legion, but also to promote it under dioce-an guidance, to the utmost of their seal and ability.
We also enderse the movement to have this form of Catholic Ac-stage shows and of advertising used in connection with motion pictures, with a view to demanding a clean-up of these. •

We renew our protest against the evils of block-booking and blind-selling and piedge ourselves to lend every assistance in bringing about the passage of such legislation as will eliminate these evils from the motion pic-

We pledge co-operation with the Diocean Campaign against Indecent Literature.

X-National Catholic School of Social Service Fourteen years ago, the School was committed to the care of the N.C.C.W.

It is a major achievement of the National Council of Catholic Women.

The rapidly growing need for Catholic social workers throughout our country demands in creased and continuous effort for the effective maintenance We expessiv urre its suppor by all our affiliated organizations.

XI-Social Justice

We rededicate ourselves to realous afforts to lenow and make known the saving principles of social justice that are outlined in the Encyclicals.

XII—Racism

In keeping with our belief in the brotherhood of all peoples in a common creation, a common Redemption, a common means of salvation, and a common descondemning all recises, and all efforts to pit people against peo-ple and, as it were, read out of the human race great numbers of the children of God.

XIII-Immigration Congress having failed to en-act remedial Regulation in be-half of the no-called "hardship cases," these alions, illegally in the United States but of otherwise good character and in most instances having legally resident wive and American-born chilwise and american-born enti-dren, are finding it necessary to leave the country is order to regularize their slatus. By it resplayed, therefore, that we urge our Senators and Repwe urge our Sentiors and Representatives to enect legislation that will permit these aliens to regularize their status without leaving the United States and obtaining immigration visa, upon compliance with all the other requirements of our immigration laws.

XIV-Peace

The crisis in which we live forbodes either disintegration and death or reintegration and life.

The peoples of he world who hold faith in man's suppersatural destroy are the bulwark that stands against the encrositionerits of absolution in: its variable forces ous forms. The matter of peace, are blassed beyond measure in the anjoyment of transitious power and wealth of institutions of liberly in which the spirit of Christian justice and brotherhood is clearly discernable, and hence have a mission in a troubled

We are resolved to face that mission with courage, generosity and sacrifice; to exert our influence to preserve in fullest mena-ure the Christian culture and inatilutions which are our pre-cious heritage, adapting them to changing needs, but never weak-ening nor undermining the Christian foundation upon which

XV-Press

We realize that the growing strength and prestige of our American Catholic Press, served by the N.C.W.C. News Service, created and assisted by the Bishops, has become a powerful fac-tor in the development of Cath-olic thought; and Sensing the necessity and the usefulness to the Church of a strong Catholic Press for circulation among our own people, we atrongly urge upon our constituent units and upon individual Catholic women that as custodians of Catholic home life they see to it that Catholic literature, including the diocesan newspaper and Catholic magazines come into all our Catholic homes regularly, so that our taity may be constantly informed Catholio activities and the Catholic attitude on the pressing questions of the day, and in particular, so that our youth may grow up readers of the Catholic

Since we can have a strong Catholic Press only if the laity gives to it constant and effective aupport, we call upon our members to lend their strong assistance to our Catholic editors in proporting circulation and a Can proper share of advertising in Nat ur press.

Literature, "What It
We particularly recommend It Has Been Doing" our press. our diocesan organ, the CATH-OLIC COURIER,

XVI-Radio

We endorse the radio programs sponsored by the N.C.C.M. and the N.C.C.W. and by our diocese, the Rochester Catholic Hour, and urge our affiliated units to give them whole-hearted support. XVII—Retreats

Resilting that the closed retreat is a most important factor in the development of that per-sonal sanctification which is essential to real Catholic Action we pledge ourselves to co-operate a wider extension of this movement. XVIII-Institute on Industry

The National Council of Catholic Women, wishing to share the responsibility of helping to educate leaders in the industrial field--leaders who are imbuse with the Christian spirit, and who recognize that corromic peace must be inspired by Christian principles, has conducted for three years an Institute on Industry, which is in reality a summer school for women work-We encourage the attendance of workers from our diocese, and call attention of others to the Institute, that we may contribute to the reconstruction of the social order by helping to promote constructive and intelligent leadership.

XIX—Christmas Greetings

Let us build all Christmas feasting around Christ and the Crib. We therefore urgo Catho-lie men and women to buy and exchange only Christmas Cards which have a truly religious and reverential Christmas Greeting. XX-Futher Resolutions

We take this opportunity to express our gratitude to His Excellency, Most Reverent James E. Kearney, for opening our Convention with the offering of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Corresponding Secretary the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, and for his inspiring talk at yeasterday's luncheon meeting, and for his continued interest in the work of the Council.

We please him the loyalty of the Rochester Diocesan Couricil, NCCW, and promise him our full co-speration in all that he may undertake.

Few women would enjoy wearing tic thes in just one color all year round." says Miss Elizabeth Conway. "Yet so many women use the same old lipstick all the time! That seems as monotonous to me as—as eating lamb stew every day! And it's just as unnecessary because there are plenty of lipstick shades to choose from goodness knows?

Miss Conway is a representative of the Dorothy Gray Salon in New York She is now at the B Forman Company during November 13 to 18 inclusive. She has left Fifth Avenue temporarily to give the women of Rochester special pointers on skin care and make up So that when she began talking we naturally perked up our ears

A smart woman uses color for variety Different colors her a chance to play many roles to exp moods to make her appearance appropriate for certain occasions. It doesn't take a big income to do this It takes a little thought and some understanding of color 'Could you suggest a sort of basic lipstick wardrobe?" we asked

The Salon representative thought a moment. First, I'd need a golden red lipstick to wear with clothes that have a hint of yellow or orange . leafy greens and browns pumpkin yellow earth and rust tones. This goldred lipstick's called Sierra Gold, and a ripe. Juscious shade it is It's grand with ivory skins, or those with a mellow golden tint. And for those new eversing clothes in tropical plumage pinks, coral or salmonish pinks, Sierra Gold is simply stunning! If you prefer a lighter golden red lipstick there's Dorothy Gray Flamingo, very frivolous and flattering. For clothes in blue or purple-wine tones. I'd have Plum. That's a rich fruity purply red in the blue-red family, you see Plum is particularly lovely for skims that have a naturally pinkish or rosy cast .-- what we at the Salon call a bluered skin-tone Vintage colors are so important in the fashion picture this winter, that you need Plum make-up, or possibly Royalty Red, another rich blue-red Either of these Dorothy Gray lipstick shades is lovely with grape-colored clothes, claret and blues, such as deep pansy blue, and the new blue-violet called petunia—or foxglove, hyacinth, pea-cock. Oh, and evening pastels or white Royalty Red's lovely for them! Makes your skin look delicately fragile by contrast.

Finally, I'd have me a true red, brilliant red lipstick. I'd play up my black clothes with this-black's very important, but it's apt to look too sober without a vivid makeup accent Well, there's nothing sober about Daredevilthat's the newest, wickedest true red that you've ever clapped eyes on' It's the latest Dorothy Gray make-up shade and women are mad for it.

"Well, there are the essentials—with rouge to match each shade, of course That's something we're very fussy about at the Dorothy Gray Salon, lips and cheeks should wear the same shade, to get a natural, truly flattering effect. When you're wearing Sierra Gold lipstick for instance, Sierra Gold rouge completes your color harmony, because the two are made to match exactly, on the skirs.
