Police Move To Close Burlesque Show Here

Definite action by the police of Rochester was taken yesterday to curb indecent stage presentations in Rochester. Arrest of the manager of the Embassy Theater, 25 South Avenue, took place at this time as the police moved to close the show.

Increasing vigorous protests have been developing in the city against the type of entertainment presented at the theater on South Avenue. Complaints have been piling up on the commissioner of Public Safety's office from indignant citizens concerned over the morals of youth in this community.

The action of Public Safety Commissioner Thomas C. Woods was being highly commended as word came of the move against what was advertised as "glorified burlesque" but which was reported by those attending the performance to be an immoral and indecent show and entertainment.

Two charges were placed against the manager, Albert Lebowitz, for permitting a public place to be used for an immoral and indecent show and entertainment.

Section 1140-A of the State Penal Code under which the arrest was made covers the presentation of immoral and indecent shows which tend to corrupt the morals of youth and others.

The section does not provide for arrest of performers or closing of the show which is still running.

Urges Religion And Politics Act As One

NEW YORK (NC) Religion and politics must be brought into closer relationship if democracy is to be saved, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen of the Catholic University of America declared Sunday evening in his address in the Catholic Hour.

Giving the fourth in a series of five addresses on "Peace, the Fruit of Justice," Monsignor Sheen pointed out that "the separation of Church and State is one thing, the separation of religion and politics is quite a different thing. Because we Catholics are well content with the separation of Church and State in this country," he added, "it does not follow that we want religion excluded from politics."

Double Disaster
"We have too long assumed in America that religion is concerned only with the individual while politics is concerned with society," Monsignor Sheen declared. "A double disaster followed. While religion was limiting itself to individuals, irreligion pre-empted the social order just as disease would rapidly sweep America if we left the problem of health to individuals and the State did nothing about it. Secondly, a two-code standard of morality evolved one for individuals the other for business and politics. The man who would not cheat his neighbor in the privacy of his home had, another morality in business and was the same man who would underplay his employees in the openness of his shop."

Democracy does not and cannot stand on its own feet, as if it were absolute, the speaker said.

"When we say that democracy owes its origin to religion we understand the principle of democracy and not the method of democracy," Monsignor Sheen added. "There is a very fundamental distinction between the two. The principle of democracy is a recognition of the sovereign inalienable rights of man as a gift of God, the source of law. The method of democracy on the contrary, is the particular way in which these rights and liberties are socially ordered. The principle of democracy comes from God but the method of democracy comes from man."

Monsignor Sheen said no stronger proof that the democratic principle of human dignity is dependent on religion can be offered than the observation that in those countries where God is most defeated man is most tyrannized where religion is most persecuted men are most tormented. "Slavery passed out of the world thanks to the leaves of Christianity and slavery has returned to our modern world in proportion to the abandonment of religion," he added.

Text of Jubilee Address

call upon some information concerning the work the University is charged to do, something to vitalize their desire to help.

The late Holy Father charged the University with a responsibility which he could not emphasize too strongly. He spoke of the failure of religion in so many other countries of the world, the passivity of people in allowing themselves to be deprived of their liberty, and said he thought the hope of the United States in avoiding that condition was in the work of the Catholic University.

At the opening of your Jubilee Year he addressed a letter to the Bishops gathered there, in which he urged that the School of Social Science be brought to such perfection that its voice would have to be recognized in the country and he bade us enlist the means of all the people in that cause.

Respond to Pope's Plea
The Bishops answered that letter by a cable, in which they told the Holy Father that they were charging the University with carrying out his message.

That work is being undertaken by the University. It is making progress. It is to inculcate in the minds of our school children up to college age, their responsibilities and duties, to stand fearlessly against any infringement or attempt of their rights

Catholic Press' Vigilance Vindicated, Avers Ridder

By Charles H. Ridder
President, Catholic Press Association of the United States.

Preserving the Holy Father's peace efforts to the American people and interpreting them for readers is the outstanding achievement of the Catholic Press of the United States during 1939. This notable service and the reporting of the death of the beloved Pontiff, Pope Pius XI followed by the election of his successor, the illustrious Pope Pius XII to the Chair of Peter are major accomplishments of a year of Catholic news perhaps unparalleled in modern history.

To the Catholic Press must be credited more than to any other single factor the awakening of the American people to the pernicious influence of Communism in this country, the events of the year abundantly demonstrating the justification of the opposition of the Catholic Press to the activities of the Communists.

First revealed the radical and subversive influence at work among the school and college youth of the land through the American Youth Congress and kindred organizations.

To His Excellency, the Most Rev. John Mark Gannon, Bishop of Erie and Episcopal Chairman of the Press Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference under whose direction the N. C. W. C. News Service so ably serves and so comprehensively informs our Catholic editors and publishers we are justly indebted for many reasons and particularly for his scholarly and personal presentation of the facts about Spain, after personal investigation.

Blessed Martin Answers, Non-Catholic Give Aid To House of Hospitality

NEW YORK (NC) The story is being told here of how Lowell Lampus, veteran political writer for the New York Daily News and a non-Catholic, by a charitable gesture brought much-needed assistance recently in an unusual way to a Catholic group aiding the poor in Cleveland.

Mr. Lampus covered the recent Cleveland relief crisis for his paper. While doing so he was particularly impressed with the charitable efforts of two young men, Michael O'Brien and William Gouchart of the House of Hospitality, a small Catholic organization helping the poor.

When he handed them a $10-bill to aid in their work Mr. O'Brien turned to Mr. Gouchart and said "Martin has answered."

Mr. Lampus asked what Mr. O'Brien meant. For a reply he was taken to the tiny headquarters of the House of Hospitality, in which was a statue of Blessed Martin de Porres, the humble Negro Dominican lay brother. Before his statue were several grocery bills of poor families. The bills totaled about $10.

But this was only the beginning of the story. Last week Mr. Lampus gave a public lecture in a Connecticut town before an audience of Catholics and non-Catholics. At the suggestion of a friend who had heard the story, Mr. Lampus told the Cleveland anecdote about Blessed Martin and the $10.

Following his lecture some of the audience suggested that a collection be taken up for Messrs. O'Brien and Gouchart and their House of Hospitality. The collection amounted to $494. Six dollars was added by another friend, and $500 was forwarded to Cleveland.

In retelling the incident to friends in New York, Mr. Lampus added that Blessed Martin "must have been working overtime."
