Minister Errs On M. C. Taylor

Checked on Status Of Vatican Envoy

WASHINGTON (NC) The demand this week by Dr Rufus W Weaver of the Baptist Church that President Roosevelt make a public statement clarifying the status of Myron C Taylor as representative at the Vatican has led to the observation here that Dr Weaver is unduly alarmed over the matter, since he has based his conclusions on two obviously false premises.

One of Dr Weavers confusions is shown by a statement by a Secretary to the President The other is brought out by practiced observers here

Anonymous Man's Word

Some days ago there appeared in secular newspapers a story written from Rome in which the correspondent quoted an unidentified person as saying no distinction would be made between Mr Taylor and diplomats accredited to the Holy See With this as a basis Dr Weaver, speaking for the executive committee on public relations of the Baptist Church asserted that the Vatican claims that without the consent of the State Department or the confirmation of the Ambassador by the United States Senate diplomatic relations with this country are established as soon as the letter of credence signed by the President is presented Dr Weaver added that if the President does not intercept Mr Taylor and allows the Pope of Rome to establish a diplomatic relationship contrary to Article II section 2 of the Constitution an issue of the greatest possible moment will be created

If this it is pointed out Dr Weaver undertakes to identify an anonymous person with the Vatican obviously an absurdity It is stressed that the person quoted in the secular press dispatch did not speak for the Vatican and that the news story did not claim he did Furthermore leaving the question of authority out of consideration they do not feel Dr Weavers conclusion is warranted by what was said

Dr Weaver in his statement then jumped to the surprising conclusion that it follows that the Apostolic Delegate becomes the official representative of the Vatican to the American Government

Apostolic Delegate's Status

Stephen T Early Secretary to President Roosevelt promptly observed that the Apostolic Delegate to the United States has no diplomatic status in this country

Observers here point out that there is no basis whatever for the assumption Dr Weaver makes concerning the Apostolic Delegate For the latter to have diplomatic status it would first be necessary that diplomatic relations be established formally and this has not been done Moreover even if Mr Taylor enjoyed full diplomatic status, it would not at all follow that the Apostolic Delegate would become an accredited diplomat Great Britain for instance maintains a fully-accredited diplomatic representative at the Vatican with the rank of Minister but the Vatican has in London no diplomatic representative but an Apostolic Delegate, as in the United States

NEW YORK (NC) Myron C Taylor named by President Roosevelt to be representative at the Vatican sailed at noon today aboard the liner Rex

Sailing on the same ship was Sumner Welles Undersecretary of State to whom President Roosevelt has entrusted a special diplomatic mission in Europe

Annuario Gives Church Record

Vatican Year Book Reviews '39 Work

VATICAN CITY (NC) The first Annuario Pontificio official year book of the Church issued during the Pontificate of His Holiness Pope Pius XII is no larger than that of 1939 and has fewer pages but actually contains additional information This is due primarily to the fact that statistics for the reign of Pius XII not quite a year, require little more than a page

For the first time all the women's religious Orders and Congregations, 1020 in number, that depend on the authority of the Holy See are listed The list however does not include those Congregations under diocesan authority Also for the first time the Latin names and official abbreviations of men's religious Orders and Congregations are listed alphabetically

Another distinctive feature of the 1940 Annuario is a concise explanatory note preceding each section For example, the note preceding the section devoted to Patriarchs explains that this title was first used to add dignity to the Sees of Rome, Alexandria and Antioch later Constantinople and Jerusalem The Pope is Patriarch of the West After the schism of the East the Patriarchs of Alexandria, Antioch, Constantinople and Jerusalem became Titulars of the Latin Church, although Jerusalem again became a residential Patriarchate in 1847 With the reunion of certain bodies of the Eastern Church with Rome residential Patriarchates were established but even today there are the Titular Patriarchs of Venice Lisbon the West Indies and the East Indies.

Portrait of New Pope

The portrait of Pius XII which replaces that of Pius XI as frontispiece is the one which will be reproduced in mosaic for the series of pontifical portraits in the Basilica of St Paul

During his pontificate up to January 1 His Holiness Pope Pius XII had established 36 new ecclesiastical jurisdictions eight archdioceses and dioceses including the Archdiocese of Washington and the Diocese of Surigao P I two new ecclesiastical provinces in Chile through the elevation of La Serena and Concepcion to archiepiscopal rank two Abbeys and Prelatures nullius including Pinheiro in Brazil eight new Vicariates Apostolic eleven Prefectures elevated to Vicariates and five new Prefectures Apostolic The Diocese of Gallup New Mexico, was erected January 6 1940

Of these 36 new jurisdictions, 20 were the result of elevations from jurisdictions of lower grade so that the net increase for the year is 16

The Annuario records 2 488 ecclesiastical jurisdictions, as follows 14 Patriarchates four of which are Titular 258 residential Archbishoprics as against 255 the year before, 940 residential Bishoprics as against 935 772 Titular Archbishoprics and Bishoprics (no change) 52 Prelatures and Abbeys nullius as against 50 306 Vicariates Apostolic as against 292 128 Prefectures Apostolic as against 125 and

Leaders Open Campaign To Aid Catholic U.

Official

My dear People:

During the coming week, our collecting organization will solicit your donation to the Catholic University Debt Campaign. May I quote the words of our Holy Father, Pope Pius XII, to the bishops of the United States on behalf of the University.

"Because of Our constant desire that scientific progress in all its branches be ever more universally affirmed, We gladly take this opportune occasion to signify to you Our cordial interest in the University at Washington. You remember well with what ardent wishes Pope Leo XIII greeted this noble temple of learning when it came into being and on how many occasions testimonies of particular affection were bestowed upon it by Our immediate predecessor. He was intimately persuaded that if this great school, however blessed already with success, should become still stronger and gain even greater renown, not only would the growth of the Church be aided but also the civil glory and prosperity of your fellow citizens. Sharing this hope, We ask you to do your very best, leaving nothing untried, that this University, protected by your benevolence, may overcome its difficulties and, with ever more gratifying increase, abundantly fulfill the high hopes that have been placed in it."

This sincere appeal from His Holiness challenges the zeal and interest of every bishop and priest and the generosity of every Catholic. It is not only my duty but a privilege to appeal on behalf of the University when the Holy Father himself has seen fit to interest himself so intimately in the problems of this great center of education. May I then ask of all the Catholics of Rochester, in the words of the Holy Father, that you do your very best to support our local campaign, giving as generously as possible so that the offering of Rochester diocese may be something worth while. Praying that God may reward your generosity as He alone can, I remain

Your devoted Shepherd in Christ,

+ James E Kearney

BISHOP OF ROCHESTER

Forms Basis Of Democracy

(Here to give the opening address in the diocesan-wide campaign for the Catholic University of America, Father Smith, noted Dominican priest and dean of the School of Philosophy, prepared the following information for readers of the CATHOLIC COURIER).

By Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, O.P.

There are about 225 professors at your Catholic University of America, the national Catholic University, the University of the bishops, archbishops and cardinals of the American Hierarchy, the University that has trained the men and women who are teaching 80 per cent. of our boys and girls in all of the high schools and colleges of the United States.

There are about 225 of us and half of us are laymen, and the other half are priests and nuns and brothers on the faculty.

Perhaps you would like to know what we are pledged to do in our work We are pledged, first of all, to give a permanent elemental American life by introducing into it God I think that that has been the distinctive contribution of the Catholic Church in the United States toward the permanency of American democracy.

We have introduced the most permanent element and factor that can be found in any nation, and that is God

Despite all of the corrosive factors that have attempted to batter down and eat away the foundations on which the fathers of the nation built the Republic, the Catholic Church has continued to maintain the support of these foundations by keeping the existence of God, the presence of God, and the government of God, before twenty millions of our own people.

Vital Factor for Democracy

With this as a living cell from which life has spread out into those not of our faith, I think that we have a factor operating very vitally for the health and for the endurance of the Republic.

But we have accomplished something more than this We have kept God alive among our people, but we have also given to the individual a sense of responsibility and dignity without which no government can endure and without which democracy is nothing but an empty dream.

2,000 Workers Respond To Bishop's Call

To guarantee a sound Catholic education and a deep-rooted training in American citizenship for their children, 2,000 workers are in the field this week determined to make the golden jubilee campaign for the Catholic University in the Diocese of Rochester a signal success.

Strongly united under the personal leadership of His Excellency, the Most Rev. James E. Kearney, D.D., Bishop of Rochester, these workers, men and women, directed by their priests, represent every section of the diocese.

This campaign for the Catholic University of America is unprecedented in scope with every diocesan's help needed to make it the success called for in an undertaking having the personal interest of His Holiness, Pope Pius XII.

Defy Storm

Disagreeable weather failed to dampen the enthusiasm of 725 priests and laymen when the campaign, officially launched Monday evening at a dinner in Hotel Seneca, brought that number from every section of the diocese.

Inspiriting these willing workers for "the University of the Pope" was the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, O.P., dean of the School of Philosophy at the Catholic University who told the story behind the University and emphasized the scope of work being done there for the Church and nation.

"We want to do something to quiet the alarm in the hearts of the people of this nation," Father Smith said. "The cry of insecurity is not unfounded here. Because of the terrible spiritual dread and because of the spiritual bankruptcy existing in this country men and women of today are afraid.

"We must provide in this nation a sanctuary of common sense and help make this country, dedicated to the Immaculate Conception, a place consecrated to intellectuality.

"We must keep faith with the nation. No system of education has a right to exist unless it makes some contribution to solidarity in this country"

Father Smith declared that the Bishops, priests and people of the country "are behind us in this great work."

'Outstanding Bishop'

The astounding turnout for this campaign opening, Father Smith said, was due entirely to the fact that priests and people of this diocese love "the outstanding Bishop of the country, Bishop Kearney."

Seated at the speakers' table with Bishop Kearney and Father Smith were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William M. Hart, V.G.; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William F. Bergan, Chancellor of the diocese; the Rev. John S. Randall, diocesan director of the golden jubilee campaign; John P. Boylan, campaign chairman; Raymond F Loinen, treasurer; B. Emmett Finucane, K.M.; Frederic P. Hamley, director of Public Relations at the Catholic University; Miss Cecilia M Yawman, chairman of the Women's Committee, and Mrs. Michael H. Keogh, director of the National Council of Catholic Women.

"This campaign," Bishop Kearney stated in opening the program, "touches everyone of us principally because it is very close to the heart of His Holiness, Pope Pius XII."

His Excellency thanked every one co-operating in the effort in his own behalf and that of the Holy Father.

Father Randall urged the campaigners to get 100 per cent. behind their Bishop in this effort and to get all in their parishes to do the same. He emphasized the importance of every diocesan learning the complete story about the Catholic University of America and the extensive work it is doing.

Delegations of priests and laymen from Elmira, Auburn, Corning, Geneva and other important sections of the diocese applauded Father Smith's plea for aid in combatting subversive forces with solid Catholic training.

The distinguished Dominican educator reviewed the progress of the Catholic University over its fifty years of existence basing his remarks upon experiences of 35 years spent as a member of the faculty.

Because of the high standard of scholarship at the Catholic University it is one of only 33 permitted to be a member of the American Association of Universities, he pointed out.

The only Pontifical institution in this country, he cited, it aims to prepare our teachers to detect the fallacies of erroneous education that are leading the country into danger. Here are trained, social workers and teachers of philosophy and theology and a courageous and obedient laity who when destructive forces threaten America will step in and defend the Church and the nation as well.

First report meeting in Rochester on Friday evening, Feb. 23, will be for zones 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. Report meetings will be held on Monday, Feb. 26, at Hotel Seneca, Geneva; Tuesday, Feb. 27, at Hotel Mark Twain, Elmira, and again in Rochester on Thursday, Feb. 29, at Hotel Seneca.

The campaign closes on March 4 at a dinner in Hotel Seneca, Rochester.

Msgr. Sheen Cites Causes For Despair

NEW YORK—(NC)—"Never before in the history of Christianity has despair been so abysmal" as today, declared the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen Sunday night in his address over the "Catholic Hour" on "The Second Word—Hope."

"Today there is everywhere an anticipation of catastrophe, an appalling sense of unpredictability and impending disaster," Monsignor Sheen asserted. "In the past men recovered from despair either by returning to the glories of the past or by looking forward to a crown beyond the cross; but now that minds have lost faith in God, they have only this world to give them hope. Since that has turned against them they feel a conscious rupture with hope. They curse a meaningless existence, succumb to a continuous exasperation with uncertainty, and yield to a suicidal intent to escape this inescapable."

Monsignor Sheen declared the two causes of despair are sensuality and sadness, the first because "sensuality produces continuous disillusionment" and the second because there is a "surrender to states of depression" due to "a consciousness of sin and unworthiness." Saying that "you can come to God even by a succession of disgusts," Monsignor Sheen declared that "is why we Catholics find comfort and solace in the Sacrament of Penance." "The greatest cause of the increased nervous disorders in our country," he added, "is hidden guilt, locked on the inside until it festers. For us, the confessional is a place where, like unto the Thief, we reveal our own guilt, and hear from a human nature communicating the Divine: 'Thy sins are forgiven. This day thou shalt be with me in Paradise.'"

Tour of Catholic U. Reveals Wide Scope of Activity

A black-robed priest peered through thick glasses at a pair of outline maps encased on the front gate

One map sketched the rolling campus before him with its twenty imposing buildings Another showed the location of forty-two other buildings in the immediate vicinity

So this was the Catholic University of America Here in stone and mortar builders had perpetuated the dream of Leo XIII a half century ago when he gave the United States of America its great pontifical institution

Here indeed was the great university which succeeding Pontiffs had helped and encouraged Here in brief, was the great center of Catholic education in the United States, a veritable citadel of Catholicism and Americanism and a mighty bulwark against all other "isms."

Center of Religious Life

The portals of Catholic University swung open and the priest entered through the main roadway. To his left he saw the low structure of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the college church of the university and the center of its religious life.

The crypt must serve as the national shrine until the main structure is erected and equipped through the generosity of American Catholics who are now engaged in a national fund raising job in behalf of the University.

The flickering flames of a dozen candles danced through the darkness of the crypt as priests of the Divinity College chanted their morning Masses.

Emerging from the crypt our friend met one of the members of his own order. The campus fairly swarmed with representatives of various religious groups. There were black Franciscans and brown Franciscans and white Dominicans.

In addition the priest and his new found friend encountered groups representing various orders of sisters and brothers.

270 Professors

The pair headed for Caldwell Hall the heart of the University They saw professors directing groups of students amid a hum of studies They saw the forty-two altars beneath the chapel where the priest-students say Mass daily His friend exclaimed.

"There are at present 270 professors, associate professors, instructors, assistants and lecturers in the University faculty. The total number of students is 4 043.

"The University began as a Graduate School of Sacred Theology fifty years ago Since then it has added all the schools proper to a University and to the needs of Catholic education in this country with the exception of a School of Medicine

"The University comprises the School of Sacred Theology, School of Canon Law, Schools of Philosophy, School of Law, Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Catholic Sister Colleges, School of Engineering and Architecture, School of Social Work, School of Nursing Education and School of Social Science. A summer session which has grown to 2,000 students is held on the campus of Catholic University with extensions in California, Texas and Iowa.

Proudest Boast

Our priest tourist was told that the School of Canon Law is one of the University's proudest boasts with its alumni holding responsible positions in chancelries ecclesiastical courts and chairs of Canon Law in seminaries and religious institutions.

The next stopping places were the Schools of Sacred Philosophy and Theology where priests from all over the country were busy studying for decrees to carry back into their diocesan work.

In the course of this phase of the tour, our priest was told by his guide

Perhaps you would like to know what we are pledged to do in our work We are pledged first of all to give a permanent elemental American life by introducing into it God.

"To economic life we have also added a very permanent contribution We have taught that the downtrodden have their rights Under the training that we give, under the teachers that we turn out by the hundreds each year, you shall never have this country submitted either to the tyranny of unrestrained wealth or to even the more disastrous tyranny of unreasoning communism. Lastly we have offered, I think, a tremendous contribution to the permanency of religion We have made it mean something. We have put it to work

"The average Catholic is concerned with the welfare of religion as he sees it They want their children taught the truths which they believe If you put before them the fact that at the present time over 80 percent of all the Catholic teaching of the colleges and high schools of this country is being done by graduates of Catholic University they will readily understand what they have at stake in the university."

Visit Museum

Our priest nodded in silent approval of his guide's remarks as they wended their way to the General Museum where they examined Oriental manuscripts, gems, coins and numerous other objects of interest.

Across the way they saw the former Slave Regina headquarters, now used by the Public Relations Department, the Pax Romana offices, the Alumni department and the newly established Finance Department. Our visitor was told:

"Back behind is the new Archbishop Curley Hall, just dedicated, where the Rector and faculty of the University live. Here to the left is McMahon Hall, housing some of the business offices, the Vice-Rector's office and classrooms."

In McMahon Hall they visited the Law Library, the Psychological Laboratory and most of the laboratories of the Department of Biology. The basement of McMahon Hall contains the Physical Laboratory.

Across the campus loomed a majestic building.

"That," our guide explained to our visitor is Mullen Library where
