NUPTIAL BLESSING NOW — ALL ARE CATHOLICS

It happened in a small Oklahoma parish, St. Joseph's, Tonkawa. Pictured above with the pastor, Rev. Stephen A. Leven, eight couples formerly united in mixed marriage from four to 20 years, received the Nuptial Blessing at a special Mass. All the non-Catholic spouses are now devout Catholics. In addition to his duties as pastor Father Leven is National Director of the Confraternity of Christian Do-

FDR Again Discusses Taylor Appointment Calls Spiritual Welfare Of Soldiers Best Defense Aid

NEW YORK — It is difficult for him to see how any one can seriously take the view that Myron C. Taylor's appointment as his special representative to the Vatican involved the question of the separation of Church and State in this country, President Roosevelt asserted in a letter to the Rev. Dr. George A. Buttrick, President of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, which the latter has made public here.

Dr. Buttrick revealed the correspondence that passed between himself and President Roosevelt following the criticism in some Protestant circles that Mr. Taylor's appointment infringed upon the traditional separation of Church and State in this country. Assurance Given.

President Roosevelt tells Dr. Buttrick that Mr. Taylor's appointment "does not constitute the inauguration of formal diplomatic relations with the Vatican." The executive committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America says it is "gratified to receive the personal and official assurance" of President Roosevelt, as contained in his letter, but adds:

"This assurance, however, does not cover the entire ground of our apprehension. The unwarranted interpretation of the appointment to which Dr. Buttrick's letter called attention has not been explicitly denied."

This is taken to refer to a press report from Rome that the Vatican had decided that Mr. Taylor would be just as much an ambassador to the Holy See as the representatives of other nations."

President Roosevelt begins his letter by stating to Dr. Buttrick his belief that no public statement is required, or indeed could be made, on the basis of a mere press report, which, so far as he knows, has not emanated from a responsible source."

"The status of Mr. Taylor's mission is exactly as Mr. Messersmith (Assistant Secretary of State) described it to you in his letter of January 23, the President continues. Mr. Taylor is in Rome as my special representative. The appointment does not constitute the inauguration of formal diplomatic relations with the Vatican. The President may determine the rank for social purposes of any special representative he may send, in this case the rank corresponding to Ambassador was obviously appropriate. The reason for and circumstances surrounding his designation were made clear in my Christmas letter to the Pope, and in the letter which I gave Mr. Taylor for presentation to the Pope which conforms to the Christmas message."

"Mr. Taylor was sent to Rome to assist parallel endeavors for peace and the alleviation of suffering, and I am sure that all men of good-will must sympathize with this purpose."

"There of course was not the slightest intention to raise any question relating to the union of the functions of Church and State and it is difficult for me to believe that any one could take seriously a contrary view, or that the action taken could interrupt in any way the necessary and healthy growth of interfaith comity."

WASHINGTON — When chaplains improve the spiritual life of the men they make the greater and most important contribution to military efficiency and national defense, writes the Rt. Rev. Magr William R. Arnold, Chief of Army Chaplains, in a letter addressed to the Third Army Maneuvers (Monignor Arnold is a graduate of St. Bernard's Seminary, Rochester).

Calling the chaplain "a man of peace amid warlike surroundings," Monsignor Arnold asserts that the government and soldiers are all for peace, but are compelled by the helliger force of moral evil in the world to arm and fight for the preservation of those rights and liberties without which no peace is possible.

"This fight against moral evil," he says, "must begin and continue in the only place where it exists in the hearts of individual men. Until men by spiritual weapons acquire spiritual peace within their own souls no social or political peace is possible. Therefore against moral evil, the destroyer of all peace, the real first line of national defense is in a man's soul."

Governor Signs School Bill

Legislature there is being carried out in practice what has been repeatedly stated by government leaders on the vital part religion plays in development of sound future citizens.

He said this week by Charles J. Tobin, secretary of the New York State Catholic Welfare Committee, were statements by both President Roosevelt and Governor Lehman in discussing the needs of children before the delegates to the White House Conference on Children in a Democracy, President Roosevelt stated:

"We are concerned about the children who are outside the reach of religious influence and are denied help in attaining faith in the ordered universe and in the brotherhood of God."

Governor Lehman in an address to the twenty-third synod of the Protestant Episcopal Province of New York and New Jersey last fall is quoted as saying:

"If we permit our national spiritual life to be weakened, democracy will be sorely threatened. Religious ideas that God is like a father and all people are like brothers in a family, is the essence of democracy."

"The danger is that a nation which fails to maintain an active religion will have equally little interest in protecting that individuality of the citizens which is so vital an attribute of democracy. Without religious idealism to give character to the times of stress a nation will be almost inevitably to fall under the sway of totalitarianism as the easiest method of meeting emergencies."

Regulations as provided in the bill will affect other parts of the state more than in Rochester. The city has for many years had permission of the Board of Education to take pupils from the public schools for one period a week for religious instruction.

"His EDUCATION'S All SETTLED!"

My sister and her husband were visiting us this week for the first time in three years with their young son. I was amazed how that young fellow had grown. A few more years and he'll be graduating from high school.

As I talked with him, listened to his ambitions, it made me feel good to know that his folks were providing for the higher education the boy deserved. They opened a savings account for him years ago and have been making small, regular deposits each week ever since. By the time he's ready for college, they'll have no trouble at all financing it.

It seemed to me that the only fair thing for parents to do in this competitive age is to prepare their children with the best education, if it's at all possible.

It's both possible and easy with a savings account started when they're young.
